CIO ASKS TRUMAN FOR WAGE INCREASES

OPA Measure Stalemated In Congress

SLIGHT DECLINE NOTED IN BASIC COMMODITIES

CIO Calls For Legislation Which Will Keep Price Of Living Down

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—While Senate-House conferees argued in virtual stalemate today over terms on which OPA might be revived, the CIO called for a buyers' strike, immediate pay raises to meet rising costs, and a national conference to stabilize the economy.

At the same time President Truman recommended a year's postponement of a big shipbuilding job, attributing his move largely to the effects of the proposed materials purchases on prices. The maritime commission announced that it would comply.

The congressional negotiations on OPA jolted to a halt when Senate conferees turned down a House proposition to allow restoration of price controls on meat, butter, eggs, and other foods. Coupled with that suggestion was a proposal that manufacturers' price increase formula in the Senate bill be made mandatory by removal of discretionary authority for OPA.

Called a "Stalemate"

The debate went forward in what one conferee, who would not be quoted by name, called a "complete stalemate." Others in the compromise-seeking group, however, were less pessimistic.

Meanwhile the bureau of labor statistics reported a fractional decline for the day in its index of 28 basic commodities, the first such decrease since price controls expired the first of July. The index dropped .4 per cent to 248.8, still showing a rise of 24.8 points this month. How much of the increase resulted from removal of subsidies on various items was not discussed by BLS.

Index prices for hogs, steers, corn and butter declined, while cotton rose a cent a pound.

At the same time the BLS weekly index for 900 commodity wholesale prices, also announced today, showed a three per cent increase during the week ended July 13. This figure stood at 120.7 percent of the 1926 average, up seven per cent for July and 14 per cent since the end of the war in August, 1945.

The CIO, in a statement from its executive board complained of what it called a 25 per cent rise in essential living costs in the two weeks since OPA lapsed, and 40 per cent in the two months since congressional debate over the agency's continued life heated up.

It asserted that those figures "clearly" show failure to keep a "pledge and assurance" that the price line would be held.

Want Meeting

The statement called on Congress to "enact a price control bill which will give firm promise of keeping the cost of living down."

It concluded with a call to the president to summon labor and industry representatives to a meeting "to the end that the demand and need for immediate wage increases

Meat Supply Up 43 Per Cent

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP) — A survey of meat wholesalers showed today they had received 43 per cent more livestock in the first 17 days of July than in the same period of June.

Slaughter house officials estimated that by next week there will be enough meat of all kinds to satisfy demand. Beef was plentiful today. There was more lamb than demanded. Pork continued short.

Reports Prices "Beginning To Crumble" Under Strain Of Effo

[By The Associated Press]

The CIO United Auto Workers reported Thursday that meat prices throughout the country are "beginning to crack under the strain of the strike against meat purchases called by the UAW-CIO and other groups."

Walter P. Reuther, in his initial report since the UAW appealed Tuesday for a week-long embargo on meat purchases by its members and other consumers, said the campaign was progressing well.

The UAW president declared, "America's 140,000,000 consumers are testing the powers they hold to bring profiteers into line. The UAW-CIO has urged all its regional directors and local union officers to take all necessary steps to intensify the meat buying strike this weekend.

"Our goal is to reduce meat purchases to none at all on Friday and Saturday, the heavy weekend shopping days. The increasing momentum of the meat strike indicates that this goal will be reached.

"The consumers of America, by continuing increasingly to withhold their purchasing power, can reduce meat prices for more than 20 cents a pound on the average."

Meanwhile, an estimated 4,000 unionists attended a South Bend, Ind., rally Thursday and heard Richard T. Leonard, UAW vice president, declare, "rising prices will bring industrial strikes, consumer strikes and political opposition to an unfaithful Congress."

Austrian Seizure By U. S., England Rejected By Reds

Note Said To Disagree With U. S. And British Representations

LONDON, July 18 (AP)—A high authoritative source disclosed today that Russia has rejected American and British representations of seizure of Austrian property for reparations valued at $22,000,000 which the Vienna government claims will "lead to the complete allienation" of Austria's economy.

In a lengthy note handed to the Austrian government the Soviet occupation authorities in Austria make plain that there is no change in their recent position in regard to seizure of Austrian industrial plants and other property which were confiscated by the Germans following Anschluss of 1938.

Text Of Note Given

The text of the note was not available in London, but its essential points were known to authoritative sources who said it disagreed with almost every point in the American and British representations.

Edwin Pauley, President Truman's reparations expert with rank of ambassador, pausing here on his round-the-world fact-finding tour, declared that the United States remained ready to negotiate with other nations to renounce all claim to Austrian reparations, but was not prepared to renounce its equity unilaterally.

"Nor would we leave Austria at the mercy of, or to deal singly with any one nation," Pauley said, adding "you will note that I did not name any special nation."

Pauley said the United States believed Austria was entitled to any industrial plants which were not purely war potential. He explained the United States would convey to Austrian trusteeship even those plants which were built by the Germans—such as the Hermann Goering steel plant—on the theory that they were constructed by Austrian labor with funds obtained by inflating Austrian currency.

War Committee Will Hear New Evidence Today

Rep. McCormick Is To Testify In Munitions Investigation

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The Senate War Investigating committee will reopen its hearings on the Garsson munitions combine tomorrow to hear from Rep. McCormack, Massachusetts, the House Democratic leader, and Rep. Sabath (D-Ill), Chairman of the Rules committee.

Chairman Mead (D-NY) of the investigating committee announced tonight that McCormack, Sabath and Former Rep. Dickstein (D-NY) now a judge, had requested an opportunity to appear in view of testimony regarding telephone calls between their capitol offices and the Washington headquarters of the munitions makers.

A former secretary for the munitions companies yesterday told of the telephone calls, mentioning also the office of Senate Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky).

No Reference To Barkley

Mead's statement made no reference to Barkley. It said, in full:

"Congressman John W. McCormach, Massachusetts, and Congressman Adolph J. Sabath, Illinois, have requested the committee to re-open its public hearings on the investigations of Erie Basin Metal Products, Inc., and Allied companies for the purpose of hearing them.

"In the testimony before the committee on Wednesday, July 17, 1946, one of the witnesses from the Washington office of Erie Basin Metal Products, Inc., mentioned certain telephone calls made to the offices of the above-mentioned congressmen. The witness was unable to explain the nature of the calls.

"Judge Samuel Dickstein of the Supreme Court of New York, a former member of Congress, who was also mentioned as having received telephone calls from the Washington offices of Erie Basin Metal Products, Inc., has also requested an opportunity to appear before the committee. However, Judge Dickstein is presently at Lake Placid, New York, and because of the lack of transportation facilities cannot be present at tomorrow's hearing. He has stated that he is willing to appear at any later date at the convenience of the committee.

Public Hearing Planned

"The committee had closed its hearings, but at the request of these congressmen, will hold a public hearing at 10:00 a. m. tomorrow, July 19, 1946, in Room 318 of the Senate Office buildings."

Before the decision to hear from the new witnesses, the committee had devoted a secret session to consideration of newly discovered information. That business temporarily sidetracked consideration of means to bring Rep. May (D-Ky) to the stand for a sworn explanation of his wartime activities in behalf of the combine.

Francis Flanagan, assistant committee counsel, announced the surprise discovery of the "new evidence" at the close of an hour-long session behind closed doors during

Plans Revealed For State Guard Flying Squadron

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, state adjutant general, today announced detailed plans for activation of a national guard fighter squadron with 34 planes and 350 personnel.

It will be known as the 104th Fighter Squadron, Maryland National Guard, and will be based at Baltimore Municipal Airport. Lt Col, R. L. Gould will be in command.

In announcing plane and personnel requirements, General Reckord invited applications from air forces veterans and others interested in aviation. Needed, he said, are pilots, administration officers, airplane and engine mechanics, radio specialists, Ordnance and armament experts, and supply personnel.

The squadron will have 21 full-time employes, mostly mechanics and caretakers, at its headquarters in the national guard hangar built at Municipal airport but never used by the prewar national guard air unit because of wartime changes.

Other personnel must put in 48 drill periods and two weeks summer encampment each year, for which they receive regular pay and allowances.

The table of organization calls for 42 officers and 308 enlisted men.

When the squadron reaches required strength it is designed to have Thunderbolt, Mustang, and Lightning fighter planes one C-47 transport, several A-26 attack planes, and four training and liason aircraft.

Truman Opposes Rep. Slaughter From Missouri

Declares President Is Wrong If Congressman Is Right

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Political Reporter

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — President Truman embarked today on an all-out attempt to purge Rep. Roger C. Slaughter, Democrat from his home state of Missouri, and at the same time announced his readiness to take the stump for the democratic party this fall if necessary.

In response to a quick succession of questions at his new conference, the president:

1. Declared emphatic opposition to renomination of Slaughter. He said that as a member of the potent House Rules committee Slaughter has opposed about every Truman proposal and that if Slaughter was right the president was wrong.

Will Take To Stump

2. Said that while he had made no plans for engaging in the pre-election campaign, he would take the stump if necessary for Democratic nominees. He added that he had made no plans to speak in New York, where Senator James M. Mead is being urged by party leaders to run against Governor Thomas E. Dewey.

3. Said he and Mrs. Truman will fly to Missouri August 3 to vote, and return the day of the primary.

4. Refused to comment on the Democratic primary defeat in Montana of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, whom he had seconded in the closing days of the campaign with a letter defending Wheeler's record on railroad labor.

5. Said Robert E. Hannegan, a fellow Missourian, will continue as chairman of the Democratic National committee and that he has made a good chairman.

Rep. Slaughter, commenting in Kansas City on the president's opposition to him, said the issue in the primary will be "whether the voters in Missouri are to select their representatives, or whether they shall be selected from New York or

GAS EXPLOSION KILLS NINE; INJURES 38 IN ONSET, MASS.

Terrific Blast Rocks Village, Destroys Four Buildings

ONSET, Mass., July 18 (AP)—Eight persons were killed and about 38 others were injured, state police reported tonight, in a terrific gas explosion that rocked the center of this Buzzard's Bay village, blasting four buildings into rubble.

State police at Bridgewater said they believed all bodies were recovered from the wreckage.

The injured were treated at hospitals in nearby Wareham (of which Onset is a village), New Bedford and Middleboro.

Known Dead Listed

The dead were:

William English, proprietor of Christy's SPA where explosion occurred.
Mrs. Catherine Rizzuto, Onset.
Mrs. George Heald, Onset.
Joanna Rose, Onset.
Cecil Barrett, Onset.
Mrs. Elizabeth Mae Ward, 60, New Bedford.
Frank Albrecht, 67, Somerville.
Raymond F. Brune, Sandwich.
Guy Rizzuto, 41, Middleboro, Mass.

A gas main punctured by a workman digging in the cellar of Christy's SPA, owned by English, was blamed by the state fire marshal's office for the explosion.

The whole amusement center was shaken by the blast coming during the busy noon period, demolishing four two-story wooden building and damaging others over a wide area.

Scores, including some children, were treated at the scene and at village physicians' offices for cuts from flying glass.

Like Blockbuster

"It was like a blockbuster," said Army Lieut. John E. Bassett, who was within a hundred yards of the blast. A fire broke out almost immediately, but was quickly extinguished.

Mrs. William F. Hodge, a housewife who lives across the street from the blast said that she escaped "by four minutes."

WASHINGTON, July 18. The specific reason for the step was not disclosed.

The action was announced by Major General Floyd L. Parks, director of the department's Bureau of Public Relations.

Military Men To Hold Seats On Atom Group

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The house voted today to seat the military representatives on a five-man commission for domestic atomic energy controls, overriding the administration's wishes and the senate's decision.

By a non-record vote of 127 to 96, the house upheld an amendment by its military committee requiring the president to select one of the five commissioners from the armed forces and permitting him to name a second military man if he sees fit. The decision is subject to a roll-call vote later when the measure reaches the stage of final passage.

House adoption of the controversial provision probably will throw the matter into a Senate-House Conference committee for decision. The bill by Senator McMahon (D-Conn) which the senate passed provided that all five members of the commission should be civilians. This was endorsed by President Truman and approved by the heads of the army and navy.

The house earlier beat back attempts to kill the legislation outright, giving the administration a preliminary victory.

Rep. John E. Rankin (D-Miss), who startled the house yesterday by claiming spies now are inside the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atomic reser-

Battle Says Staff Union Isn't Legal

Supervisory Employes Not Eligible, Coal Secretary Declares

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — John D. Battle, executive secretary of the National Coal Association, said, tonight there is no legal justification for the government's contract with the United Mine workers' District 50 covering supervisory employes at certain Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. soft coal mines.

Adm. Ben C. Moreell, federal coal mines administrator, signed the contract yesterday. It was the first time the union of John L. Lewis succeeded in winning a contract covering foremen and other mines supervisors. The soft coal mines are presently under federal seizure.

Battle said in a statement that the government-union contract covering J. and L. supervisors "has no justification either in law or in fact" and was based on "a tortured and controverted interpretation" of the Wagner act by the National Bargaining agent for the supervisors at the mines effected by the contract.

Battle recalled that mine owners "vigorously challenged" the NLRB ruling and have been attempting to get it set aside in the courts.

Speaking of the government action in granting the contract, Battle said:

"It tends to create a situation in which the union is in full control of the operation of the mines and puts new and almost insuperable difficulties in the path of private management."

England Bread Rationing Wins Commons Support

Churchill Motion To Reject Measure Is Beaten; Vote 305 to 182

LONDON, Friday, July 19. (AP)—The labor-dominated House of Commons voted down early today the plea of Winston Churchill, conservative leader, to reject bread rationing in Britain amid signs of a breakup in the threatened widespread revolt of bakers against the government plan to conserve wheat.

The conservative move to cancel the rationing scheduled to begin next Sunday was beaten 305 to 182 after a heated five-hour debate in which Churchill vitriolically disputed Food Minister John Strachey's stand that bread restriction was imparative because of the uncertain future supply of grains.

Advises Bakers

Churchill called the ration plan a "heavy, awkward, galling" burden, but advised rebellious bakers to "do their best to make whatever scheme as is thrust upon them by the government work as well as possible and let the scheme break down of its own inherent defects."

His advice and that of many newspapers appeared to be taking effect as reports last night indicated that the National Association of Master Bakers may relax its announced decision not to comply with the rationing order.

The former prime minister made his attack on the bread rationing program, scheduled to begin Monday, in his second tangle of the day with the labor government that succeeded his wartime coalition.

Walls Splashed With Posters

Earlier, overriding Churchill's taunts, the labor majority in the Commons ordered an investigation —carrying a threat of imprisonment —into the splashing of London walls last night with posters which read: "The names of ministers of parliament voting for bread rationing in the Commons on Thursday will be published here as public enemies and dictators."

Declaring "we cannot feel convinced that the imposition of bread rationing is necessary," Churchill said tonight:

"It would be much better in the public interest in the next few weeks

Wants Study By Industry, Labor Board

Murray Will Also Request "Adequate Guarantees" For Stable Economy

UNION HOLDS LITTLE HOPE FOR OPA BILL

Declines To Reveal What Figure Would Be Proposed For Raises

WASHINGTON, July 18. (AP)—The CIO Executive Board today called on President Truman to summon immediately a conference of labor and industry representatives to consider "immediate wage increases" in view of rising prices.

The CIO president Philip Murray, in announcing the executive board action, said he would ask President Truman also that the labor-industry conference consider means for establishing "adequate guarantees for a stabilized national economy."

"Only in this manner can we avoid the terrible devastation and misery of an inflationary period which will otherwise descend upon the people of this country," the board said in a statement.

Relief Needed

"It is imperative that pursuant to the very program which President Truman sponsored in February of this year, relief be afforded to the workers to meet the perils of the months which will intervene before the termination dates of existing contracts and before steps can be taken to achieve a stabilized national economy.

"The drastic wage cuts which rising prices have imposed upon the great masses of wage and salary workers, to whom a pledge of a stabilized economy was given and broken, create a national problem and a national crisis."

Murray told reporters at a news conference that the CIO had little hope of any workable OPA extension bill becoming law or that, if one did become law, that OPA would be able to administer it effectively.

Wants Prices Held

He contended that most postwar labor contracts were negotiated with an understanding that price controls would be firmly held.

The executive board's statement, which stated there has been "a rise of essential living costs of approximately 40 per cent" in the past two months, 25 per cent of it in the past two weeks, called for a nationwide buyers' strike.

The board called on the consuming public to "mobilize for nationwide defensive action to refrain where possible—individually in an organized fashion — from avoidable purchases."

The purpose of this, the board declared would be to "demonstrate to industry and to government opposition to profiteering."

Murray told reporters that the CIO intended firmly to stick by its long-standing principle to "respect our contractual commitments."

The CIO chief said that his labor organization was willing to discuss a no-strike pledge as part of stabilization talks that would be taken up at the requested labor-industry conference.

Wants Government Active

Murray said that unlike the government-called labor-management conference last fall, he wanted gov-

Daladier Blames War II On Russia

PARIS, Friday, July 19 (AP)—Prewar Premier Edouard Daladier, under fire by French Communists in the constituent assembly, charged today that Russia was to blame for the outbreak of the Second World War in Europe.

Throughout the long debate Daladier repeatedly recalled that Russia, Britain and France were on the verge of concluding a military pact in August, 1939, just before the Russian-German treaty was announced.

Talmadge Elected Governor Of Georgia For Fourth Term

ATLANTA, July 18. (AP)—Repudiating a new southern liberalism espoused by Ellis Arnall, Georgia has reverted to tradition and sent 61-year-old Gene Talmadge back to the governor's office.

It marks the fourth time over the years that Talmadge, beaten for the governorship four years ago by young Arnall, has been elected governor of the south's "empire state."

Complete returns from 150 of the state's 159 counties tonight gave Talmadge the Democratic nomination—equivalent to election—over the Arnall candidate, 36-year-old James V. Carmichael.

Talmadge, whose political showmanship and unruly forelocks have become familiar to a generation of Georgians, was nominated in yesterday's primary apparently without the popular vote.

Earlier this month in Mississippi, Senator Theo (The Man) Bilbo and Rep. John Rankin, like Talmadge, won on an issue of "white supremacy," but few negroes were qualified to vote there and even fewer voted.

But Talmadge, who advised "wise" negroes to stay away from the polls, won in a primary in which an estimated 100,000 negroes voted for the first time, as well as thousands of 18-year-olds.

The tabulation gave Talmadge 284 county unit votes, 128 more than is necessary to nominate. Carmichael had only 128 unit votes.

P-T.A. Suggests Highway Safety Program, Lunch Fund To O'Conor

COLLEGE PARK, Md., July 18 (AP) — The Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers today suggested to Governor O'Conor that the state undertake a highway safety education program, subsidize junior college, and take a greater hand in administration of the school lunch fund.

The recommendations were embodied in three resolutions which the group adopted at the final session of its annual congress at the University of Maryland.

The highway safety suggestion followed a report to the 230 delegates on President Truman's highway safety conference by Stephen James, Washington, D. C., director of the education division of the automotive safety foundation.

One of his suggestions from the national conference was that driving classes be incorporated in high school and college courses. The Parent-Teacher group backed this up in its resolution by suggesting that driver training be instituted in all Maryland schools.

In a second resolution, the conference suggested a system of state subsidies would encourage the starting of more junior colleges in the state. It urged that the plan be undertaken immediately, in order to provide more opportunities for veterans and high school graduates this fall.

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of schools, told the delegates at an earlier session that

Rep. McCormick Is To Testify In Munitions Investigation

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The Senate War Investigating committee will reopen its hearings on the Garsson munitions combine tomorrow to hear from Rep. McCormack, Massachusetts, the House Democratic leader, and Rep. Sabath (D-Ill), Chairman of the Rules committee.

Chairman Mead (D-NY) of the investigating committee announced tonight that McCormack, Sabath and Former Rep. Dickstein (D-NY) now a judge, had requested an opportunity to appear in view of testimony regarding telephone calls between their capitol offices and the Washington headquarters of the munitions makers.

A former secretary for the munitions companies yesterday told of the telephone calls, mentioning also the office of Senate Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky).

No Reference To Barkley

Mead's statement made no reference to Barkley. It said, in full:

"Congressman John W. McCormach, Massachusetts, and Congressman Adolph J. Sabath, Illinois, have requested the committee to re-open its public hearings on the investigations of Erie Basin Metal Products, Inc., and Allied companies for the purpose of hearing them.

"In the testimony before the committee on Wednesday, July 17, 1946, one of the witnesses from the Washington office of Erie Basin Metal Products, Inc., mentioned certain telephone calls made to the offices of the above-mentioned congressmen. The witness was unable to explain the nature of the calls.

"Judge Samuel Dickstein of the Supreme Court of New York, a former member of Congress, who was also mentioned as having received telephone calls from the Washington offices of Erie Basin Metal Products, Inc., has also requested an opportunity to appear before the committee. However, Judge Dickstein is presently at Lake Placid, New York, and because of the lack of transportation facilities cannot be present at tomorrow's hearing. He has stated that he is willing to appear at any later date at the convenience of the committee.

Public Hearing Planned

"The committee had closed its hearings, but at the request of these congressmen, will hold a public hearing at 10:00 a. m. tomorrow, July 19, 1946, in Room 318 of the Senate Office buildings."

Before the decision to hear from the new witnesses, the committee had devoted a secret session to consideration of newly discovered information. That business temporarily sidetracked consideration of means to bring Rep. May (D-Ky) to the stand for a sworn explanation of his wartime activities in behalf of the combine.

Francis Flanagan, assistant committee counsel, announced the surprise discovery of the "new evidence" at the close of an hour-long session behind closed doors during

Plans Revealed For State Guard Flying Squadron

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, state adjutant general, today announced detailed plans for activation of a national guard fighter squadron with 34 planes and 350 personnel.

It will be known as the 104th Fighter Squadron, Maryland National Guard, and will be based at Baltimore Municipal Airport. Lt. Col. R. L. Gould will be in command.

In announcing plane and personnel requirements, General Reckord invited applications from air forces veterans and others interested in aviation. Needed, he said, are pilots, administration officers, airplane and engine mechanics, radio specialists, Ordnance and armament experts, and supply personnel.

The squadron will have 21 full-time employes, mostly mechanics and caretakers, at its headquarters in the national guard hangar built at Municipal airport but never used by the prewar national guard air unit because of wartime changes.

Other personnel must put in 48 drill periods and two weeks summer encampment each year, for which they receive regular pay and allowances.

The table of organization calls for 42 officers and 308 enlisted men.

When the squadron reaches required strength it is designed to have Thunderbolt, Mustang, and Lightning fighter planes one C-47 transport, several A-26 attack planes, and four training and liason aircraft.

Fair Dates Are Set

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 18 (AP)—The 1946 Hagerstown Fair will open for six days September 16, officials announced today. President D. Eldred Rinehart explained that the feature of this year's fair would be an ice follies. Other attractions will include harness racing, circus acts and exhibits.

Talmadge Elected Governor Of Georgia For Fourth Term

ATLANTA, July 18. (AP)—Repudiating a new southern liberalism espoused by Ellis Arnall, Georgia has reverted to tradition and sent 61-year-old Gene Talmadge back to the governor's office.

It marks the fourth time over the years that Talmadge, beaten for the governorship four years ago by young Arnall, has been elected governor of the south's "empire state."

Complete returns from 150 of the state's 159 counties tonight gave Talmadge the Democratic nomination—equivalent to election—over the Arnall candidate, 36-year-old James V. Carmichael.

Talmadge, whose political showmanship and unruly forelocks have become familiar to a generation of Georgians, was nominated in yesterday's primary apparently without the popular vote.

Earlier this month in Mississippi, Senator Theo (The Man) Bilbo and Rep. John Rankin, like Talmadge, won on an issue of "white supremacy," but few negroes were qualified to vote there and even fewer voted.

But Talmadge, who advised "wise" negroes to stay away from the polls, won in a primary in which an estimated 100,000 negroes voted for the first time, as well as thousands of 18-year-olds.

The tabulation gave Talmadge 284 county unit votes, 128 more than is necessary to nominate. Carmichael had only 128 unit votes.

Truman Opposes Rep. Slaughter From Missouri

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Political Reporter

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — President Truman embarked today on an all-out atiempt to purge Rep. Roger C. Slaughter, Democrat from his home state of Missouri, and at the same time announced his readiness to take the stump for the democratic party this fall if necessary.

In response to a quick succession of questions at his new conference, the president:

1. Declared emphatic opposition to renomination of Slaughter. He said that as a member of the potent House Rules committee Slaughter has opposed about every Truman proposal and that if Slaughter was right the president was wrong.

Will Take To Stump

2. Said that while he had made no plans for engaging in the pre-election campaign, he would take the stump if necessary for Democratic nominees. He added that he had made no plans to speak in New York, where Senator James M. Mead is being urged by party leaders to run against Governor Thomas E. Dewey.

3. Said he and Mrs. Truman will fly to Missouri August 3 to vote, and return the day of the primary.

4. Refused to comment on the Democratic primary defeat in Montana of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, whom he had seconded in the closing days of the campaign with a letter defending Wheeler's record on railroad labor.

5. Said Robert E. Hannegan, a fellow Missourian, will continue as chairman of the Democratic National committee and that he has made a good chairman.

Rep. Slaughter, commenting in Kansas City on the president's opposition to him, said the issue in the primary will be "whether the voters in Missouri are to select their representatives, or whether they shall be selected from New York or

GAS EXPLOSION KILLS NINE; INJURES 38 IN ONSET, MASS.

Terrific Blast Rocks Village, Destroys Four Buildings

ONSET, Mass., July 18 (AP)—Eight persons were killed and about 38 others were injured, state police reported tonight, in a terrific gas explosion that rocked the center of this Buzzard's Bay village, blasting four buildings into rubble.

State police at Bridgewater said they believed all bodies were recovered from the wreckage.

The injured were treated at hospitals in nearby Wareham (of which Onset is a village), New Bedford and Middleboro.

Known Dead Listed

The dead were:

William English, proprietor of Christy's SPA where explosion occurred.
Mrs. Catherine Rizzuto, Onset.
Mrs. George Heald, Onset.
Joanna Rose, Onset.
Cecil Barrett, Onset.
Mrs. Elizabeth Mae Ward, 60, New Bedford.
Frank Albrecht, 67, Somerville.
Raymond F. Brune, Sandwich.
Guy Rizzuto, 41, Middleboro, Mass.

A gas main punctured by a workman digging in the cellar of Christy's SPA, owned by English, was blamed by the state fire marshal's office for the explosion.

The whole amusement center was shaken by the blast coming during the busy noon period, demolishing four two-story wooden building and damaging others over a wide area.

Scores, including some children, were treated at the scene and at village physicians' offices for cuts from flying glass.

Like Blockbuster

"It was like a blockbuster," said Army Lieut. John E. Bassett, who was within a hundred yards of the blast. A fire broke out almost immediately, but was quickly extinguished.

Mrs. William F. Hodge, a housewife who lives across the street from the blast said that she escaped "by four minutes."

"It couldn't have been more than

Army Dismisses 5 Union Officers At Aberdeen

Mason Denies Discharges Have Anything To Do With Labor Group

WASHINGTON, July 18. (AP)—The War department announced tonight that five labor union officials, among them some physicists and chemists, have been discharged "in the interest of national security" from Aberdeen, Md., Proving Grounds, where work is in progress on rockets, guided missiles and other weapons of the future.

The specific reason for the step was not disclosed.

Military Men To Hold Seats On Atom Group

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The house voted today to seat the military representatives on a five-man commission for domestic atomic energy controls, overriding the administration's wishes and the senate's decision.

By a non-record vote of 127 to 96, the house upheld an amendment by its military committee requiring the president to select one of the five commissioners from the armed forces and permitting him to name a second military man if he sees fit. The decision is subject to a roll-call vote later when the measure reaches the stage of final passage.

House adoption of the controversial provision probably will throw the matter into a Senate-House Conference committee for decision. The bill by Senator McMahon (D-Conn) which the senate passed provided that all five members of the commission should be civilians. This was endorsed by President Truman and approved by the heads of the army and navy.

The house earlier beat back attempts to kill the legislation outright, giving the administration a preliminary victory.

Rep. John E. Rankin (D-Miss), who startled the house yesterday by claiming spies now are inside the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atomic reser-

Supervisory Employes Not Eligible, Coal Secretary Declares

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — John D. Battle, executive secretary of the National Coal Association, said, tonight there is no legal justification for the government's contract with the United Mine workers' District 50 covering supervisory employes at certain Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. soft coal mines.

Adm. Ben C. Moreell, federal coal mines administrator, signed the contract yesterday. It was the first time the union of John L. Lewis succeeded in winning a contract covering foremen and other mine supervisors. The soft coal mines are presently under federal seizure.

Battle said in a statement that the government-union contract covering J. and L. supervisors "has no justification either in law or in fact" and was based on "a tortured and controverted interpretation" of the Wagner act by the National Bargaining agent for the supervisors at the mines effected by the contract.

Battle recalled that mine owners "vigorously challenged" the NLRB ruling and have been attempting to get it set aside in the courts.

Speaking of the government action in granting the contract, Battle said:

"It tends to create a situation in which the union is in full control of the operation of the mines and puts new and almost insuperable difficulties in the path of private management."

England Bread Rationing Wins Commons Support

Churchill Motion To Reject Measure Is Beaten; Vote 305 to 182

LONDON, Friday, July 19. (AP)—The labor-dominated House of Commons voted down early today the plea of Winston Churchill, conservative leader, to reject bread rationing in Britain amid signs of a breakup in the threatened widespread revolt of bakers against the government plan to conserve wheat.

The conservative move to cancel the rationing scheduled to begin next Sunday was beaten 305 to 182 after a heated five-hour debate in which Churchill vitriolically disputed Food Minister John Strachey's stand that bread restriction was imparative because of the uncertain future supply of grains.

Advises Bakers

Churchill called the ration plan a "heavy, awkward, galling" burden, but advised rebellious bakers to "do their best to make whatever scheme as is thrust upon them by the government work as well as possible and let the scheme break down of its own inherent defects."

His advice and that of many newspapers appeared to be taking effect as reports last night indicated that the National Association of Master Bakers may relax its announced decision not to comply with the rationing order.

The former prime minister made his attack on the bread rationing program, scheduled to begin Monday, in his second tangle of the day with the labor government that succeeded his wartime coalition.

Walls Splashed With Posters

Earlier, overriding Churchill's taunts, the labor majority in the Commons ordered an investigation —carrying a threat of imprisonment —into the splashing of London walls last night with posters which read: "The names of ministers of parliament voting for bread rationing in the Commons on Thursday will be published here as public enemies and dictators."

Declaring "we cannot feel convinced that the imposition of bread rationing is necessary," Churchill said tonight:

"It would be much better in the public interest in the next few weeks

Wants Study By Industry, Labor Board

Murray Will Also Request "Adequate Guarantees" For Stable Economy

Declines To Reveal What Figure Would Be Proposed For Raises

WASHINGTON, July 18. (AP)—The CIO Executive Board today called on President Truman to summon immediately a conference of labor and industry representatives to consider "immediate wage increases" in view of rising prices.

The CIO president Philip Murray, in announcing the executive board action, said he would ask President Truman also that the labor-industry conference consider means for establishing "adequate guarantees for a stabilized national economy."

"Only in this manner can we avoid the terrible devastation and misery of an inflationary period which will otherwise descend upon the people of this country," the board said in a statement.

Relief Needed

"It is imperative that pursuant to the very program which President Truman sponsored in February of this year, relief be afforded to the workers to meet the perils of the months which will intervene before the termination dates of existing contracts and before steps can be taken to achieve a stabilized national economy.

"The drastic wage cuts which rising prices have imposed upon the great masses of wage and salary workers, to whom a pledge of a stabilized economy was given and broken, create a national problem and a national crisis."

Murray told reporters at a news conference that the CIO had little hope of any workable OPA extension bill becoming law or that, if one did become law, that OPA would be able to administer it effectively.

Wants Prices Held

He contended that most postwar labor contracts were negotiated with an understanding that price controls would be firmly held.

The executive board's statement, which stated there has been "a rise of essential living costs of approximately 40 per cent" in the past two months, 25 per cent of it in the past two weeks, called for a nationwide buyers' strike.

The board called on the consuming public to "mobilize for nationwide defensive action to refrain where possible—individually in an organized fashion — from avoidable purchases."

The purpose of this, the board declared would be to "demonstrate to industry and to government opposition to profiteering."

Murray told reporters that the CIO intended firmly to stick by its long-standing principle to "respect our contractual commitments."

The CIO chief said that his labor organization was willing to discuss a no-strike pledge as part of stabilization talks that would be taken up at the requested labor-industry conference.

Wants Government Active

Murray said that unlike the government-called labor-management conference last fall, he wanted gov-

Daladier Blames War II On Russia

PARIS, Friday, July 19 (AP)—Prewar Premier Edouard Daladier, under fire by French Communists in the constituent assembly, charged today that Russia was to blame for the outbreak of the Second World War in Europe.

Declaring the long debate Daladier repeatedly recalled that Russia, Britain and France were on the verge of concluding a military pact in August, 1939, just before the Russian-German treaty was announced.

P-T.A. Suggests Highway Safety Program, Lunch Fund To O'Conor

COLLEGE PARK, Md., July 18 (AP) — The Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers today suggested to Governor O'Conor that the state undertake a highway safety education program, subsidize junior college, and take a greater hand in administration of the school lunch fund.

The recommendations were embodied in three resolutions which the group adopted at the final session of its annual congress at the University of Maryland.

The highway safety suggestion followed a report to the 230 delegates on President Truman's highway safety conference by Stephen James, Washington, D. C., director of the education division of the automotive safety foundation.

One of his suggestions from the national conference was that driving classes be incorporated in high school and college courses. The Parent-Teacher group backed this up in its resolution by suggesting that driver training be instituted in all Maryland schools.

In a second resolution, the conference suggested a system of state subsidies would encourage the starting of more junior colleges in the state. It urged that the plan be undertaken immediately, in order to provide more opportunities for veterans and high school graduates this fall.

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of schools, told the delegates at an earlier session that

Kroll Named New CIO-PAC Leading Man

Successor To Hillman Will Lack His Power; Board Of 5 To Assist

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—Jack Kroll, close associate of the late Sidney Hillman, took over the top administrative job in the CIO Political Action Committee today but responsibility for running the organization was spread to a five-man board.

CIO President Philip Murray announced that Kroll, a high official in Hillman's Clothing Workers Union and his assistant on CIO-PAC, has been named to a newly-created post of CIO-PAC director.

Abolished, for the time being at least, was the one-man control which prevailed under Hillman, in which he played an important part in the re-election of the late President Roosevelt to a fourth term. But as top man in the PAC Kroll, a stocky, 61-year-old Ohio labor leader, has an opportunity of exerting increasing influence.

Besides Kroll, members of the new executive board who will administer CIO-PAC activities are four CIO Union Secretary-Treasurers—David J. McDonald of the Steel Workers, Julius Emspak of the Electrical Workers, George F. Addes of the Auto Workers, and William Pollack of the Textile Workers.

Murray said Hillman's political work will be carried forward and that the CIO has decided "to enlarge the apparatus for conducting political action work."

A former garment cutter, Kroll has served for the past three years as president of CIO's Ohio industrial council and has been an assistant director in CIO's southern organization drive.

Washington. The president, incidentally, is not a constituent of mine, casts no vote in the Fifth district, but is a resident of Independence."

Talks With Pendergast

"Judging from yesterday's defeat suffered by Senator Wheeler," Slaughter added, "there are many who feel that outside influence, presidential or otherwise, in local elections is not welcomed by the voters who select the candidate."

The president said he had asked James Pendergast, Kansas City Democratic leader and nephew of the late Tom Pendergast, to support one of Slaughter's two opponents, Enos Axtell, 37-year-old lawyer and war veteran. Pendergast said at Kansas City that he had pledged his support to Axtell even before Mr. Truman made the request.

Slaughter's other opponent, Jerome Walsh, said he would be in the race to the end regardless of "factional fights and all the other devils of political warfare."

The chief executive smiled when he was asked what the issue was in Slaughter's district. At first he replied he was trying to nominate somebody else, then added the principal reason was that the congressman, who won a place on the Rules committee soon after coming to the House in 1943, consistently opposed presidential legislative recommendations.

Asked if he had ever met Axtell, the president said he had known him all his life and that the candidate was a neighbor of his. But he could not recall Axtell's first name. When Duke Shoop, Kansas City Star correspondent, said it was "Enos," Mr. Truman replied that was right.

"I had just come from there and was standing on the porch and there was a terrible blast, the building was blown to bits."

South Africans Poor Because Of Porridge?

LONDON. (AP)—A cornmeal porridge diet is blamed for reduced manpower in South African gold mines.

Out of 11,000,000 Negroes in the Union of South Africa, authorities have been unable to find 250,000 men required for mining, owing to "poor physique caused by malnutrition," says Dr. E. H. Cluver, director of the South African Institute for Medical Research.

Cluver told the Empire Scientific Conference at Oxford this malnutrition was due principally to an "unbalanced starchy diet, consisting chiefly of porridge."

Telling his colleagues the United States should secure the peace of the world before "we begin to give away the weapons"—which he said the bill might do—Rankin moved to strike out the enacting clause.

The effect of that parliamentary maneuver, had it succeeded, would have been to kill the bill. It lost by a standing vote of 131 to 102 after Chairman May (D-Ky) of the Military committee pleaded with the House not to "go haywire."

The second offensive against the measure was launched by Rep. Short (R-Mo), who asked that it be returned to the Military committee for further study. That motion, which lost by a standing count of 107 to 50, would have shelved the bill probably until next year had the House approved it.

May Wants Own Way

Neither Flanagan nor Chairman Mead (D-NY) would divulge the nature of the evidence, nor whom it concerned. But both were sufficiently impressed by its importance to acknowledge a "possibility" it may require resumption of public hearings.

May himself appeared determined to stand pat on his refusal to appear unless guaranteed the right to recall and cross-examine previous witnesses and to subpoena additional witnesses and documents.

The committee remained equally adamant in its insistence that May, chairman of the House Military Committee, come under its own conditions or not at all.

Pauley said the divergent views might be resolved by the four power council of foreign ministers, and in any event would have to be settled before the Austrian peace treaty is signed.

Pullen Urges Higher Salaries For Teachers And Smaller Classes

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP) — Increases in teachers' salaries, establishment of junior colleges and unit reduction of elementary school classes were urged today before the legislative council by Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of schools.

These proposals, he said, were "not a brain child of the state education department" but represented the composite suggestions of parents, teachers, and the general public, which gave evidence in his opinion of "desiring an improved school system and being willing to pay for it."

An unspecified but fairly large amount" of appropriations would be required to finance the proposed measures, he said.

The present teacher wage scale, Dr. Pullen pointed out, did not attract a sufficient number of educators to the Maryland public school system.

The superintendent said the establishment of junior colleges in certain parts of the state would alleviate the college entrance log jam which will prevent between 4,000 and 6,000 veterans and about 2,000 secondary school graduates of 1946 from entering college this fall.

Reduction of elementary school class units from 35 to 30 pupils, he declared, would result in more effective instruction.

Buckland Kills Self, Son, Police Believe

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., July 18 (AP) —Wilfred Buckland, Sr., 80, one of Hollywood's first art directors and his son, Wilfred, Jr. died today in what police described as a murder and suicide.

Det. Alt. E. W. Smith of the police homicide squad said a note left by the father declared: "I am taking Billy with me."

Robert Thomas, chauffeur for the pair, found them in a bedroom, the 26-year-old son dead from a bullet through the back of the head, apparently fired as he slept, the father gravely wounded from a shot in the temple. He died in an ambulance.

Smith said the elder Buckland's note listed William De Mille, brother of Cecil B. De Mille as executor of his estate and named Frank L. Crawford, a brother-in-law, of Summit, N. J., as his only relative.

Germans Had Plans For Underground Power

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — Nazi plans for a huge bombproof underground power plant to feed eight underground war factories have been uncovered by U. S. Air Force intelligence agents.

Silkworm Sex Control Reported By Russians

LONDON—(AP) — Soviet News, a Soviet embassy publication, reported tonight that a Russian scientist had discovered a method of controlling the sex of silkworms.

Search Teams Busy Hunting 18,191 Bodies

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — United States Army search teams are hunting Europe from Gibraltar to Murmansk, questioning villagers and looking into local records, for bodies of 18,191 soldiers, in a job expected to take five years.

Eight thousand United States Allied personnel make up the teams. There are clues to the locations of most of the corpses, but the whereabouts of some 3,820 are unknown. The total includes 6,977 fliers who were shot down or crash landed, and several hundred intelligence agents.

Underwater Atom Test In On Time

Explosion Of Flash Bomb Confuses Correspondents, Radio Reports

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18 (AP)—A test of the earth's first underwater dummy atomic bomb went off on schedule and made a "loud pop," a pooled radio broadcast today quoted Vice Adm. William H. P. Blandy as saying.

Premature Explosion

A flash bomb exploded 20 minutes prematurely in the dress rehearsal, which had been set for 8:35 a. m. Friday Bikini time (4:35 p. m., EST Thursday) said a broadcast recorded by the American Broadcasting Company.

But National Broadcasting Company quoted Blandy as saying this bomb was not the missile testing the detonating equipment, but that a second bomb containing no power was set off under water.

"This," the NBC broadcast added, "contradicted the impression given correspondents two days ago by Rear Adm. W. S. Parsons (deputy task force commander) that the so-called time-lock radio circuits would be connected to the only bomb which correspondents had been told would be used today."

Holds Position

The test bomb was set at the exact position to be occupied by the atomic bomb on July 25 (July 24, U. S. time).

"There is no indication from Admiral Blandy or Admiral Parsons why the correspondents on the scene were not told of the second bomb until circumstances forced the staff to reveal its presence," the NBC broadcast added.

The rehearsal bomb contained no elements of the atomic bomb.

BIDS ARE ASKED ON BRIDGE-ROAD WORK IN MARYLAND

Baltimore, July 18. (AP)—Bids for construction of a bridge over Stony Creek on the Baltimore-Fort Smallwood road at Riviera Beach are being received in the state roads commission office and will be opened at noon August 13, the commission reported today.

The commission said bids also were being accepted for improvements of sections of highway in Queen Anne's, Wicomico, Cecil and Kent counties. Bids for these will be opened at noon July 30.

The highway improvement projects will consist of:

Cecil county: grading, drainage and surfacing of a section of highway, beginning at a point on the Chesapeake City-Bethel road, approximately 1.6 miles southeast of Chesapeake City, and extending southeasterly to the Delaware state line, a distance of 0.258 mile.

Kent county: stabilization of a previously graded, drained and gravel surfaced roadway, beginning at a point approximately 2.0 miles west of Millington and extending westerly to the Chesterville-Crumpton road, a distance of 2.12 miles.

Queen Anne's county: stabilization of a previously graded drained and gravel surfaced roadway, from McGinnes, southwesterly, to U. S. Route 213, south of Chestertown, a distance of 4.70 miles.

Wicomico county: grading, drainage and surfacing of the airport road, beginning at Mt. Herman, on the Salisbury-Powellville road, and extending southeasterly toward the Salisbury-Snow Hill road, a distance of 1.111 miles.

Ex-GI Husband Clips Wife's Hair

PHILADELPHIA, July 18 (AP)—Mrs. Gabriel Moreton displayed clipped blonde hair before a magistrate today and charged the haircut was one of the tortures inflicted by her ex-GI husband while held prisoner two weeks in their home.

Mrs. Moreton testified she was beaten and threatened with murder by Moreton and accused him of making her write a six-page letter falsely stating she had misconducted herself with other men while he was overseas.

Moreton, charged with assault and battery, did not testify. Further hearing was set for July 24.

300,000 Children Homeless In Poland

WARSAW—Poland's child population has dropped from 15,000,000 in 1939 to 8,000,000 or 8,500,000, of which 200,000 are war orphans and 1,500,000 half orphans, the Polish ministry of education has disclosed.

The ministry said a considerable number of children who lost parents were being cared for by relatives, but there were 300,000 for whom places must be found in foster families or in children's homes, supported by the treasury or by public welfare.

BRANSON, Mo. (AP)—Thirty-four teen-agers have decided on a $50,000 "tower of bells" for their war memorial project, and they've been giving pie suppers to help raise the money.

The details of their tower are still vague, but the youthful group's sponsor, Mrs. B. G. Madry, says the 34 have spent a year studying various types of bells, and that "substantial donations from interested visitors to the Ozarks have spurred them on."

OLD JUDGE: "Simply this. That poor chap was really a sick man...not just a drunk. Studies by famous psychiatrists and the medical profession show that alcoholism is not caused by a craving for alcohol... it is usually the result of some deep-rooted social, physical or emotional condition. If that fellow had not turned to alcohol for escape, he would have turned to something else."

Kroll Named New CIO-PAC Leading Man

Successor To Hillman Will Lack His Power; Board Of 5 To Assist

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—Jack Kroll, close associate of the late Sidney Hillman, took over the top administrative job in the CIO Political Action Committee today but responsibility for running the organization was spread to a five-man board.

CIO President Philip Murray announced that Kroll, a high official in Hillman's Clothing Workers Union and his assistant on CIO-PAC, has been named to a newly-created post of CIO-PAC director.

Abolished, for the time being at least, was the one-man control which prevailed under Hillman, in which he played an important part in the re-election of the late President Roosevelt to a fourth term. But as top man in the PAC Kroll, a stocky, 41-year-old Ohio labor leader, has an opportunity of exerting increasing influence.

Besides Kroll, members of the new executive board who will administer CIO-PAC activities are four CIO Union Secretary-Treasurers—David J. McDonald of the Steel Workers, Julius Emspak of the Electrical Workers, George F. Addes of the Auto Workers, and William Pollack of the Textile Workers.

Murray said Hillman's political work will be carried forward and that the CIO has decided "to enlarge the apparatus for conducting political action work."

A former garment cutter, Kroll has served for the past three years as president of CIO's Ohio industrial council and has been an assistant director in CIO's southern organization drive.

Washington. The president, incidentally, is not a constituent of mine, casts no vote in the Fifth district, but is a resident of Independence."

Talks With Pendergast

"Judging from yesterday's defeat suffered by Senator Wheeler," Slaughter added, "there are many who feel that outside influence, presidential or otherwise, in local elections is not welcomed by the voters who select the candidate."

The president said he had asked James Pendergast, Kansas City Democratic leader and nephew of the late Tom Pendergast, to support one of Slaughter's two opponents, Enos Axtell, 37-year-old lawyer and war veteran. Pendergast said at Kansas City that he had pledged his support to Axtell even before Mr. Truman made the request.

Slaughter's other opponent, Jerome Walsh, said he would be in the race to the end regardless of "factional fights and all the other devils of political warfare."

The chief executive smiled when he was asked what the issue was in Slaughter's district. At first he replied he was trying to nominate somebody else, then added the principal reason was that the congressman, who won a place on the Rules committee soon after coming to the House in 1943, consistently opposed presidential legislative recommendations.

Asked if he had ever met Axtell, the president said he had known him all his life and that the candidate was a neighbor of his. But he could not recall Axtell's first name. When Duke Shoop, Kansas City Star correspondent, said it was "Enos," Mr. Truman replied that was right.

"I had just come from there and was standing on the porch and there was a terrible blast, the building was blown to bits."

Mrs. Hodge said people were walking past and shopping and when she looked again:

"The building went out and people flew. I could see them buried under it. Hardly a piece of wood was whole after it."

South Africans Poor Because Of Porridge?

LONDON, (AP)—A cornmeal porridge diet is blamed for reduced manpower in South African gold mines.

Out of 11,000,000 Negroes in the Union of South Africa, authorities have been unable to find 250,000 men required for mining, owing to "poor physique caused by malnutrition," says Dr. E. H. Cluver, director of the South African Institute for Medical Research.

Cluver told the Empire Scientific Conference at Oxford this malnutrition was due principally to an "unbalanced starchy diet, consisting chiefly of porridge."

vation, spearheaded the "sudden death" assault on the bill.

Telling his colleagues the United States should secure the peace of the world before "we begin to give away the weapons"—which he said the bill might do—Rankin moved to strike out the enacting clause.

The effect of that parliamentary maneuver, had it succeeded, would have been to kill the bill. It lost by a standing vote of 131 to 102 after Chairman May (D-Ky) of the Military committee pleaded with the House not to "go haywire."

The second offensive against the measure was launched by Rep. Short (R-Mo), who asked that it be returned to the Military committee for further study. That motion, which lost by a standing count of 107 to 50, would have shelved the bill probably until next year had the House approved it.

May Wants Own Way

Neither Flanagan nor Chairman Mead (D-NY) would divulge the nature of the evidence, nor whom it concerned. But both were sufficiently impressed by its importance to acknowledge a "possibility" it may require resumption of public hearings.

May himself appeared determined to stand pat on his refusal to appear unless guaranteed the right to recall and cross-examine previous witnesses and to subpoena additional witnesses and documents.

The committee remained equally adamant in its insistence that May, chairman of the House Military Committee, come under its own conditions or not at all.

Pauley said the divergent views might be resolved by the four power council of foreign ministers, and in any event would have to be settled before the Austrian peace treaty is signed.

He said the principle of reparations from "liberated" Nazi satellites was agreed upon by the major powers at Potsdam, but it would be incorrect to say that the Russians accepted anything specific in writing.

Pullen Urges Higher Salaries For Teachers And Smaller Classes

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP) — Increases in teachers' salaries, establishment of junior colleges and unit reduction of elementary school classes were urged today before the legislative council by Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of schools.

These proposals, he said, were "not a brain child of the state education department" but represented the composite suggestions of parents, teachers, and the general public, which gave evidence in his opinion of "desiring an improved school system and being willing to pay for it."

An unspecified but fairly large amount" of appropriations would be required to finance the proposed measures, he said.

The present teacher wage scale, Dr. Pullen pointed out, did not attract a sufficient number of educators to the Maryland public school system.

The superintendent said the establishment of junior colleges in certain parts of the state would alleviate the college entrance log jam which will prevent between 4,000 and 6,000 veterans and about 2,000 secondary school graduates of 1946 from entering college this fall.

Reduction of elementary school class units from 35 to 30 pupils, he declared, would result in more effective instruction.

Buckland Kills Self, Son, Police Believe

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., July 18 (AP) —Wilfred Buckland, Sr., 80, one of Hollywood's first art directors and his son, Wilfred, Jr. died today in what police described as a murder and suicide.

Det. Al. E. W. Smith of the police homicide squad said a note left by the father declared: "I am taking Billy with me."

Robert Thomas, chauffeur for the pair, found them in a bedroom, the 26-year-old son dead from a bullet through the back of the head, apparently fired as he slept, the father gravely wounded from a shot in the temple. He died in an ambulance.

Smith said the elder Buckland's note listed William De Mille, brother of Cecil B. De Mille as executor of his estate and named Frank L. Crawford, a brother-in-law, of Summit, N. J., as his only relative.

Germans Had Plans For Underground Power

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — Nazi plans for a huge bombproof underground power plant to feed eight underground war factories have been uncovered by U. S. Air Force intelligence agents.

LONDON—(AP) — Soviet News, a Soviet embassy publication, reported tonight that a Russian scientist had discovered a method of controlling the sex of silkworms.

Search Teams Busy Hunting 18,191 Bodies

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — United States Army search teams are hunting Europe from Gibraltar to Murmansk, questioning villagers and looking into local records, for bodies of 18,191 soldiers, in a job expected to take five years.

Eight thousand United States Allied personnel make up the teams. There are clues to the locations of most of the corpses, but the whereabouts of some 3,820 are unknown. The total includes 6,977 fliers who were shot down or crash landed, and several hundred intelligence agents.

Underwater Atom Test In On Time

Explosion Of Flash Bomb Confuses Correspondents, Radio Reports

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18 (AP)—A test of the earth's first underwater dummy atomic bomb went off on schedule and made a "loud pop," a pooled radio broadcast today quoted Vice Adm. William H. P. Blandy as saying.

Premature Explosion

A flash bomb exploded 20 minutes prematurely in the dress rehearsal, which had been set for 8:35 a. m. Friday Bikini time (4:35 p. m., EST Thursday) said a broadcast recorded by the American Broadcasting Company.

But National Broadcasting Company quoted Blandy as saying this bomb was not the missile testing the detonating equipment, but that a second bomb containing no power was set off under water.

"This," the NBC broadcast added, "contradicted the impression given correspondents two days ago by Rear Adm. W. S. Parsons (deputy task force commander) that the so-called time-lock radio circuits would be connected to the only bomb which correspondents had been told would be used today."

Holds Position

The test bomb was set at the exact position to be occupied by the atomic bomb on July 25 (July 24, U. S. time).

"There is no indication from Admiral Blandy or Admiral Parsons why the correspondents on the scene were not told of the second bomb until circumstances forced the staff to reveal its presence," the NBC broadcast added.

The rehearsal bomb contained no elements of the atomic bomb.

BIDS ARE ASKED ON BRIDGE-ROAD WORK IN MARYLAND

Baltimore, July 18. (AP)—Bids for construction of a bridge over Stony Creek on the Baltimore-Fort Smallwood road at Riviera Beach are being received in the state roads commission office and will be opened at noon August 13, the commission reported today.

The commission said bids also were being accepted for improvements of sections of highway in Queen Anne's, Wicomico, Cecil and Kent counties. Bids for these will be opened at noon July 30.

The highway improvement projects will consist of:

Cecil county: grading, drainage and surfacing of a section of highway, beginning at a point on the Chesapeake City-Bethel road, approximately 1.6 miles southeast of Chesapeake City, and extending southeasterly to the Delaware state line, a distance of 0.258 mile.

Kent county: stabilization of a previously graded, drained and gravel surfaced roadway, beginning at a point approximately 2.0 miles west of Millington and extending westerly to the Chesterville-Crumpton road, a distance of 2.12 miles.

Queen Anne's county: stabilization of a previously graded drained and gravel surfaced roadway, from McGinnes, southwesterly, to U. S. Route 213, south of Chestertown, a distance of 4.70 miles.

Wicomico county: grading, drainage and surfacing of the airport road, beginning at Mt. Herman, on the Salisbury-Powellville road, and extending southeasterly toward the Salisbury-Snow Hill road, a distance of 1.111 miles.

Ex-GI Husband Clips Wife's Hair

PHILADELPHIA, July 18 (AP)—Mrs. Gabriel Moreton displayed clipped blonde hair before a magistrate today and charged the haircut was one of the tortures inflicted by her ex-GI husband while held prisoner two weeks in their home.

Mrs. Moreton testified she was beaten and threatened with murder by Moreton and accused him of making her write a six-page letter falsely stating she had misconducted herself with other men while he was overseas.

Moreton, charged with assault and battery, did not testify. Further hearing was set for July 24.

The ministry said a considerable number of children who lost parents were being cared for by relatives, but there were 300,000 for whom places must be found in foster families or in children's homes, supported by the treasury or by public welfare.

Truman Makes Clear Russian Loan Out Now

Declares No Intention Of Seeking Money For Other Nations Now

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—President Truman today made it clear that the matter of a $1,000,000,000 loan to Russia is dead for this year.

At a presidential news conference which covered a wide range of topics, he was asked whether he plans to request authorization from Congress for other foreign loans now that the $3,750,000,000 credit to Britain has been approved. The chief executive said he has no such intentions.

He also said that the proposal to enlarge the lending authority of the export-import bank by $1,250,000,000 will not come up until the next session of Congress, in 1947. This increase would have to be approved before the bank could make a loan to Russia.

The president added that he favors the proposed $100,000,000 loan to the new Philippines Republic which is now pending in Congress as a separate bill.

Mr. Truman opened his session with reporters by announcing the American delegation to the next session of the United Nations assembly in New York—Senators Austin (R-Vt), Connally (D-Tex) and Vandenberg (R-Mich), Rep. Bloom (D-NY) and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. Alternates will be Rep. Eaton (R-NJ), Rep. Helen Douglas (D-Calif), John Foster Dulles and Adlai Stevenson.

Austin, who has been appointed American delegate to the security council, will be in charge of the assembly delegation when Secretary of State Byrnes is not there.

The president had been expected to announce the three-man economic council established by the employment bill. The appointments have been pending for months. Mr. Truman said that while he had expected to announce them today they are not quite ready.

Survey On Character Of Child Medical Care Being Made

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP)—A survey to determine the character of child medical care in Maryland is being undertaken within the framework of a national survey by the American Academy of Pediatrics.

The Maryland survey, similar to those conducted in other states by the organization, will collect data on the work done by physicians specializing in children's diseases and the activities of hospitals and public institutons.

Dr. D. C. Wharton Smith is chairman for the Maryland survey. Offices have been opened in Baltimore.

Questionnaires on child treatment methods are being sent to specializing physicians and hospital departments throughout the state.

Data collected by the survey are expected to provide a basis for determining adequate child medical care standards. They will show which states are advanced in this category and which are not, officials of the survey explained.

The Maryland survey may be completed in October. No date for the completion of the national survey has been set.

29th Division Group Did Not Ask O'Conor For Special Session

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP) — The 29th Division Association said today it had not joined four other veterans groups in asking for a special session on veterans benefits at a conference with Governor O'Conor at Annapolis two days ago.

Charles M. Sinclair, commander of the Maryland Department of the Association, said a representative of his group attended the conference "as an observer only and did not approve their requests or action."

He explained the association could not "condone or approve any requests that this organization or any other organization may make unless it has been acted upon by the Maryland Department's Executive committee."

No such action, he said, had been taken with regard to Tuesday's conference with the governor.

Four other groups were represented at the meeting.

McFarland To Die Today; Vinson Refuses Stay

WASHINGTON, July 18. (AP)—Chief Justice Vinson of the United States Supreme Court denied a stay of execution today for Earl McFarland, closing the last avenue of appeal, for the ex-marine sentenced to be electrocuted tomorrow for the rape-murder of a young government girl.

There was no discussion of the case in the new chief justice's decision—merely the formal denial.

Previously President Truman had turned down a clemency plea.

The petition to Justice Vinson, to hold up the execution pending a sanity examination, was filed after the United States Court of Appeals decision turned down a similar plea yesterday.

The supreme court already had refused to review the case on its merits.

Railroad Strikes Back With Paid Space

BUENOS AIRES—(AP)—When railroad employes here struck protesting the transfer of a stationmaster, the railroad management ran a two-column ad listing what it said were the reasons for the transfer.

Among the 15 counts were assertions the stationmaster didn't answer letters, kept his accounts in a mess, let his employes arrive whenever they wanted to and delayed trains unnecessarily.

His fellow employes struck two hours daily at the height of the commuter traffic.

(International).

BALTIMORE HOLDUP SUSPECT ARRESTED IN OCEAN CITY

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP)—A man arrested in Tuesday's Ocean City gambling raid was sought by Baltimore police today as it investigated reports that he resembled one of the four bandits who held up the Century Athletic Club here on Independence day.

Police Commissioner Hamilton R. Atkinson said reports concerning "several" such similarities were being checked at Ocean City among the approximately 50 persons taken into custody and placed under bond following a gambling raid on Rick's raft, the seaside resort's newest night spot.

State police were planning to apprehend the man, described as an Italian, and bring him to Baltimore at the request of city police.

The four gunmen who perpetrated the Fourth of July robbery here also have been described as being of Italian extraction.

At Ocean City, meanwhile, names of those arrested during the raid were not disclosed and a hearing scheduled for this morning before Trial Magistrate James B. Robbins was postponed to enable defendants to procure counsel.

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Department of Justice late today declined to enter into the investigation of the holdup of the Century Athletic Club at Baltimore, Md., because there was no apparent violation of federal law.

Livestock Die From Heat In Big Omaha Shipment

OMAHA, July 18 (AP)—Farmers sent so much livestock to the Omaha market today that a number of hogs and cattle died under the hot sun while truck drivers, backed up almost four miles, waited their turn to unload.

With the temperature 90 at midmorning and nearing 100 before unloading was completed, an estimated 12,000 cattle and 14,000 hogs reached market. A year ago only 4,000 of each were received.

The heavy receipts sent prices downward as much as $2 to $3 per hundred pounds on hogs and $1 to $2 on cattle, after opening sales had set a new record for cattle prices for the third straight day.

Harry B. Coffee, president of Union Stock Yards, said 141 of the first 11,000 hogs marketed died from the heat. Many were shipped in grain cars which did not allow the animals enough air.

Stock yards workers here used city fire plugs to cool off living stock as the long lines of trucks, twoabreast in places, moved slowly forward with their panting and sweating animals.

Baltimore Judge Enforces Sanitary Law

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP)—Magistrate Samuel R. Boyd issued a warning to would-be-violators of the city's sanitary code today and said Baltimore "is as dirty as any city could possibly be."

He made the statement after fining 16 defendants in Northern District Police Court for infractions of the code and said two-time offenders would be fined not less than $25 and costs.

Heirens Trial Being Prepared

CHICAGO, July 18 (AP)—With reports of a "deal" still lacking official verification, the defense and prosecution went ahead today with preparations for a possible trial of William Heirens in the kidnap-slaying of Suzanne Degnan.

Heirens' attorneys visited the scene of the Degnan crime on the north side to "examine anything and everything" that had to do with the kidnap-slaying.

State's Attorney William J. Tuohy and his assistants viewed the scene earlier this week and the prosecutor announced he would seek murder indictments against Heirens in the Degnan case and in the "lipstick killing" of Frances Brown, a former WAVE.

Earlier, Chicago newspapers reported a "deal" had been reached or was in the making between Tuohy and Heirens' lawyers whereby the 17 year old University of Chicago student would formally confess the Degnan and Brown killings and the knife slaying a year ago of Mrs. Josephine Ross. In return, these reports stated, Tuohy would recommend a life sentence for Heirens instead of the electric chair.

However, the Herald-American said today: "all horse trading for a pre-trial settlement of the fate of William Heirens, the schizophrenic murder suspect, was abandoned today and opposing counsel began preparing for a judge and jury trial."

Heirens' has not been charged with any slaying and has denied that he confessed.

Hughes Condition Unchanged; Receives Medal From Truman

LOS ANGELES, July 18 (AP)—Condition of Howard Hughes, millionaire aircraft and movie manufacturer injured in the crash of an army experimental plane July 7, was unchanged today, his physician, Dr. Verne Mason, reported.

His pulse was 110, compared with 105 yesterday and a previous 120. Doctors yesterday removed more than a quart of fluid from Hughes' left chest.

Hughes tonight received a gold medal, authorized by Congress seven years ago, and a letter from President Truman, saying he was forwarding the medal because "pressure of your schedule has several times prevented setting a date" for personal presentation.

Hughes was awarded the special medal by Congress Aug. 7, 1939, in recognition of his flight around the world July 10-14, 1938, in 91 hours, 14 minutes.

Hughes' profile appears on the face of the medal, two and a half inches in diameter. On the reverse side, the route Hughes took on his globe-girdling trip is traced on a world map.

Suggests Study Of Unemployment Compensation Payments

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP)—Frank J. Bender, regional director of the CIO, today suggested to Governor O'Conor that representatives of business and labor join in a study of unemployment compensations payments and their administration.

Governor O'Conor said he thought it a "splendid" suggestion.

In a letter to the governor, Bender said, "we all agree that the law is not perfect. Neither are the persons selected to administer the law. But, as a whole, they have been doing a fair job of it."

Jap-American Vets Get Discharge Papers

FORT GEORGE G. MEADE, Md., July 18. (AP)—A contingent of 263 Japanese-Americans who served with the famed 442nd regimental combat team in Italy and Southern France, received their discharges today.

Brig.-Gen. Charles G. Helmick presented the discharges after congratulating the men on their feats and thanking them for their service.

Those discharged were residents of the Continental United States before they enlisted. A large group which joined in Hawaii is moving as a unit to the islands.

The 442nd was honored in special White House ceremonies by President Truman Monday when he awarded it the presidential unit citation.

Truman Makes Clear Russian Loan Out Now

Declares No Intention Of Seeking Money For Other Nations Now

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—President Truman today made it clear that the matter of a $1,000,000,000 loan to Russia is dead for this year.

At a presidential news conference which covered a wide range of topics, he was asked whether he plans to request authorization from Congress for other foreign loans now that the $3,750,000,000 credit to Britain has been approved. The chief executive said he has no such intentions.

He also said that the proposal to enlarge the lending authority of the export-import bank by $1,250,000,000 will not come up until the next session of Congress, in 1947. This increase would have to be approved before the bank could make a loan to Russia.

The president added that he favors the proposed $100,000,000 loan to the new Philippines Republic which is now pending in Congress as a separate bill.

Mr. Truman opened his session with reporters by announcing the American delegation to the next session of the United Nations assembly in New York—Senators Austin (R-Vt), Connally (D-Tex) and Vandenberg (R-Mich), Rep. Bloom (D-NY) and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. Alternates will be Rep. Eaton (R-NJ), Rep. Helen Douglas (D-Calif), John Foster Dulles and Adlai Stevenson.

Austin, who has been appointed American delegate to the security council, will be in charge of the assembly delegation when Secretary of State Byrnes is not there.

The president had been expected to announce the three-man economic council established by the employment bill. The appointments have been pending for months. Mr. Truman said that while he had expected to announce them today they are not quite ready.

Survey On Character Of Child Medical Care Being Made

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP)—A survey to determine the character of child medical care in Maryland is being undertaken within the framework of a national survey by the American Academy of Pediatrics.

The Maryland survey, similar to those conducted in other states by the organization, will collect data on the work done by physicians specializing in children's diseases and the activities of hospitals and public institutons.

Dr. D. C. Wharton Smith is chairman for the Maryland survey. Offices have been opened in Baltimore.

Questionnaires on child treatment methods are being sent to specializing physicians and hospital departments throughout the state.

Data collected by the survey are expected to provide a basis for determining adequate child medical care standards. They will show which states are advanced in this category and which are not, officials of the survey explained.

The Maryland survey may be completed in October. No date for the completion of the national survey has been set.

29th Division Group Did Not Ask O'Conor For Special Session

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP) — The 29th Division Association said today it had not joined four other veterans groups in asking for a special session on veterans benefits at a conference with Governor O'Conor at Annapolis two days ago.

Charles M. Sinclair, commander of the Maryland Department of the Association, said a representative of his group attended the conference "as an observer only and did not approve their requests or action."

He explained the association could not "condone or approve any requests that this organization or any other organization may make unless it has been acted upon by the Maryland Department's Executive committee."

No such action, he said, had been taken with regard to Tuesday's conference with the governor.

Four other groups were represented at the meeting.

McFarland To Die Today; Vinson Refuses Stay

WASHINGTON, July 18. (AP)—Chief Justice Vinson of the United States Supreme Court denied a stay of execution today for Earl McFarland, closing the last avenue of appeal, for the ex-marine sentenced to be electrocuted tomorrow for the rape-murder of a young government girl.

There was no discussion of the case in the new chief justice's decision—merely the formal denial.

Previously President Truman had turned down a clemency plea.

The petition to Justice Vinson, to hold up the execution pending a sanity examination, was filed after the United States Court of Appeals decision turned down a similar plea yesterday.

The supreme court already had refused to review the case on its merits.

Railroad Strikes Back With Paid Space

BUENOS AIRES—(AP)—When railroad employes here struck protesting the transfer of a stationmaster, the railroad management ran a two-column ad listing what it said were the reasons for the transfer.

Among the 15 counts were assertions the stationmaster didn't answer letters, kept his accounts in a mess, let his employes arrive whenever they wanted to and delayed trains unnecessarily.

His fellow employes struck two hours daily at the height of the commuter traffic.

BALTIMORE HOLDUP SUSPECT ARRESTED IN OCEAN CITY

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP)—A man arrested in Tuesday's Ocean City gambling raid was sought by Baltimore police today as it investigated reports that he resembled one of the four bandits who held up the Century Athletic Club here on Independence day.

Police Commissioner Hamilton R. Atkinson said reports concerning "several" such similarities were being checked at Ocean City among the approximately 50 persons taken into custody and placed under bond following a gambling raid on Rick's raft, the seaside resort's newest night spot.

State police were planning to apprehend the man, described as an Italian, and bring him to Baltimore at the request of city police.

The four gunmen who perpetrated the Fourth of July robbery here also have been described as being of Italian extraction.

At Ocean City, meanwhile, names of those arrested during the raid were not disclosed and a hearing scheduled for this morning before Trial Magistrate James B. Robbins was postponed to enable defendants to procure counsel.

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Department of Justice late today declined to enter into the investigation of the holdup of the Century Athletic Club at Baltimore, Md., because there was no apparent violation of federal law.

Livestock Die From Heat In Big Omaha Shipment

OMAHA, July 18 (AP)—Farmers sent so much livestock to the Omaha market today that a number of hogs and cattle died under the hot sun while truck drivers, backed up almost four miles, waited their turn to unload.

With the temperature 90 at midmorning and nearing 100 before unloading was completed, an estimated 12,000 cattle and 14,000 hogs reached market. A year ago only 4,000 of each were received.

The heavy receipts sent prices downward as much as $2 to $3 per hundred pounds on hogs and $1 to $2 on cattle, after opening sales had set a new record for cattle prices for the third straight day.

Harry B. Coffee, president of Union Stock Yards, said 141 of the first 11,000 hogs marketed died from the heat. Many were shipped in grain cars which did not allow the animals enough air.

Stock yards workers here used city fire plugs to cool off living stock as the long lines of trucks, two-abreast in places, moved slowly forward with their panting and sweating animals.

Baltimore Judge Enforces Sanitary Law

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP)—Magistrate Samuel R. Boyd issued a warning to would-be-violators of the city's sanitary code today and said Baltimore "is as dirty as any city could possibly be."

He made the statement after fining 16 defendants in Northern District Police Court for infractions of the code and said two-time offenders would be fined not less than $25 and costs.

Heirens Trial Being Prepared

CHICAGO, July 18 (AP)—With reports of a "deal" still lacking official verification, the defense and prosecution went ahead today with preparations for a possible trial of William Heirens in the kidnap-slaying of Suzanne Degnan.

Heirens' attorneys visited the scene of the Degnan crime on the north side to "examine anything and everything" that had to do with the kidnap-slaying.

State's Attorney William J. Tuohy and his assistants viewed the scene earlier this week and the prosecutor announced he would seek murder indictments against Heirens in the Degnan case and in the "lipstick killing" of Frances Brown, a former WAVE.

Earlier, Chicago newspapers reported a "deal" had been reached or was in the making between Tuohy and Heirens' lawyers whereby the 17 year old University of Chicago student would formally confess the Degnan and Brown killings and the knife slaying a year ago of Mrs. Josephine Ross. In return, these reports stated, Tuohy would recommend a life sentence for Heirens instead of the electric chair.

However, the Herald-American said today: "all horse trading for a pre-trial settlement of the fate of William Heirens, the schizophrenic murder suspect, was abandoned today and opposing counsel began preparing for a judge and jury trial."

Heirens' has not been charged with any slaying and has denied that he confessed.

A Big Maybe In Steelman's Report

On the seventh report to the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion on the progress of the country toward economic order two things are notable. One is the cheery, optimistic tone, which is characteristic of these documents. It is a sort of statistical and literary reflection of the President's famous smile, a way of saying, all evidence to the contrary, that only our failure to understand the facts separates us from the full knowledge of our good fortune. Thus the report repeats the familiar thesis that production is greater than ever without bothering to discuss what sort of production it is—whether automobiles or of costume jewelry.

The other thing, and a more welcome one, is the fullest admissions to date in any administration statement of economic policy that the success of the battle against inflation does not depend alone on this or that kind of OPA. After noting the importance of price control, John R. Steelman, OWMR's director, goes on to point out that there are other elements in the economy which must be watched and checked and corrected if inflation is to be avoided.

Chief among these are federal expenditures, largely by the armed forces, which should be curtailed, along with a reduction in public works. In addition, he cites the importance of maintaining high taxes, the object being the reduction of the national debt out of current revenues, and the need for controlling credit expansion.

Beyond this as David Lawrence discussed in his column on this page a day or so ago, the report contains an unrealistic defense of the administration's wage-price control policy, which tends to offset the evidence that it may have learned something of inflation in almost a year of peace. There is just a chance, however, that it means what it says, that it intends to practice the doctrine which it so cheerfully preaches. If so, then OWMR's seventh quarterly report for all of its glib assurances, may represent the turning point in the hitherto half-hearted and largely unsuccessful war on drastic inflation.

The wise man has nothing to do with the fellow who has nothing to do till tomorrow.

Garsson Witness Didn't Think Enough

One of the most intriguing witnesses before the Senate committee investigating the May case has been Henry Payntor, the mustachioed, florid "publicists" for the amazing Garsson interests. Mr. Payntor apparently considered that, having signed up to exercise his talents in behalf of the Garssons, he was embarked on a crusade.

He was very indignant that the committee should question any of the Garsson transactions, and hastened to tell Washington reporters as much. So the Mead Committee promptly summoned him. There Mr. Payntor defended his clients with a superior show of fierceness. He referred to the "Mead gestapo gang," and charged the whole thing was a "malicious plot on the part of employes of the committee," and that the committee had "maliciously suppressed the truth."

Mr. Payntor said he had been hired by the Garssons' attorney after he had "thought it over for two days and two nights."

If Mr. Payntor did indeed satisfy himself that everything was hunkydory about the Garsson interests, his thinking machinery must be remarkable. For if he thought the whole thing through in only two days and two nights, he had to trace the whole maze of Garsson transactions in which the Interstate Machinery Co., the National Machinery Works, the Batavia Metal Products Co., Inc., the Erie Basin Metal Products Co., Inc., the Illinois Watchcase Co., the United States Wind Engine & Pump Co., the Pershing Engineering Co., the U. S. Challenge Co., the Cumberland Lumber Co. and others were sold, re-sold, christened and re-christened, shuffled and reshuffled in a manner resembling the old shell game.

If Mr. Payntor figured the whole thing out in two days and nights, he really did an impressive amount of "thinking it over."

Golfers' wives are agreed that the spring drive is on.

Bulwinkle Law and ICC Rules Conflict

The Senate, before it adjourns should turn its attention to the Bulwinkle bill which is designed to end the confusion caused by conflicting interpretations of the nation's transportation policy and as a result of which the railroads are put squarely in the middle of an impossible situation.

The facts in the case are simple and so is the bill which has been reported out by a Senate committee and which ought to come before the whole Senate promptly for favorable action.

As is well known, common carriers operate under the Interstate Commerce Act. To meet the responsibilities which the law imposes upon them, they find it necessary to maintain cooperative arrangements for the efficient administration of matters of common concern. The Interstate Commerce Commission recognizes this necessity and has approved this kind of cooperation. But the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice contends the whole program is a combination in restraint of trade and thus illegal under the anti-trust law.

All this leaves the railroads and other common carriers in the position of being threatened with prosecution under one law for doing what another law literally forces them to do. They now ask that they be relieved of this dilemma and the Bulwinkle bill is the commonsense answer.

If it becomes law, as it should, carriers subject to the Interstate Commerce Act may file with the Interstate Commerce Commission any agreement which they may make among themselves. Then the commission will decide whether the agreement is in furtherance of the national transportation policy declared by Congress.

If the commission's reply is in the affirmative, anti-trust laws would not apply. If in the negative, the application of the anti-tust laws would stand. How can anyone possibly object to that?

Russians do not always say no. Molotov has agreed to accept $100,000,000 from busted Italy, the money, of course, to come from Uncle Sam.

World Confusion Costly to Taxpayers

The United States is spending billions with one hand to avoid "the next war" and appropriating billions with the other hand to be prepared in case there is another war. Thus the American taxpayer's burden is increased by the confusion and doubt in men's minds as to whether the nations can live together in amity.

The many billions for relief, the nation's heavy expenses incident to membership in the United Nations, the loans to England and other nations are planned as expenditures for peace. Cancellation of many billions of dollars of lend-lease was planned ostensibly to help Allied nations get on their feet and thus relieve war pressures.

On the other hand, the administration has budgeted nearly eight billion dollars for the Army in the next year, a large part of it for experimentation with new weapons. Other military expenditures will be of similar magnitude. In addition, Congress will be asked to appropriate four or five billion dollars for stockpiling scarce materials such as tin and other metals not produced abundantly in this country. Included will be shellac, quartz, crystals, hemp, quinine, iodine, vegetable oils and natural rubber.

Thus there would be available, it is hoped, in case of another conflict sufficient hard-to-get materials to see the nation through. Whether nations will ever reach the point that they can budget their expenditures without reference to war making is a question. If that glad time ever comes, humankind will be at the inception of its greatest progress.

The lengths to which the souvenir-collecting craze has been extended is shown by an Italian's confession that he stole Mussolini's body.

American Male Will Have Last Word of Fad

The American Wool Council has spoken. It has declared that, come Autumn, the American male will be able to walk into a clothing store and pick out a business suit. But said suit, according to the AWC, is likely to be luminous blue with red stripes, a fawn-colored job with red stripes, or a "loud" check, plaid or herringbone.

Maybe, as the AWC says, long experience with GI clothing has created a demand for more colorful costumes. But we doubt it. All previous attempts to glorify the American male have flopped with a dull thud.

He agrees that perhaps he should be more colorful. He has given a little ground in "play clothes" and evening attire. But when he chooses a business suit—well—he wants a suit just like the suit that clothed dear old Dad.

So, when it's the customer's turn to speak, his ideas on the newest edict are likely to be summed up in one word—"Fooey."

Swatting flies once again has become the national pest-time.

American Homes Of Tomorrow

Just at a time when thousands of American families are living in one or two rooms comes word from the arbiters of fashions in domestic architecture that the American home is going to be smaller in coming years. But, they add, furniture will remain the same size, although it will look smaller because light rugs and bright colored drapes and upholstery will create an optical illusion.

That's all very interesting. But we wonder whether the illusion will persist when the housewife finds in the home of tomorrow that although there is less room to get around in while dusting, the surfaces standard dimensions.

creeping stealthily toward bed with fervent hopes of not waking the little woman? We suspect that for him, traversing the maze of a compressed living room in the dark, the corner of a king-sized chair might banish the illusion with the impact of sharp reality.

SPY CASE REOPENS

RUSSIA obtained a sample of Uranium 235, the essence of the atomic bomb, through Dr. Allan Nunn May, above, British scientist who worked on atomic research in Montreal, according to a royal commission's report made public in the Canadian House of Commons. May since has been convicted and sentenced to 10 years in prison. The report also claimed a Soviet "superspy" is loose in the U. S. (International).

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The Ku Klux Klan has just issued a "fiery summons" to all Klansmen in Atlanta demanding that members meet immediately in extraordinary Konklave. The summons is on a piece of paper about as big as a police summons. In the background is the red figure of a hooded Klansman, and under the heading, "Solemn Summons of The Fiery Cross," appears the following message:

"You are hereby seriously summoned to be and appear at an Extraordinary Konklave. Nothing but a providential hindrance can legally justify Your failure to be present. Duty, with all the justice of her unquestionable authority, Calls. The call is Imperative!

"By Mandate of His Lordship
The Imperial Wizard."

As a result of this summons, special KKK meetings have been held in Atlanta, attended by more than the usual number of Klansmen. Two questions have been discussed: (1) What strategy to adopt for the Atlanta visit of this columnist on July 21; and (2) Raising funds to hire lawyers to prevent revocation of the Klan's charter.

At the instruction of hard-hitting Governor Ellis Arnall, Georgia's Attorney General Eugene Cook has brought and action against the Klan to revoke its charter. Also at the instance of Governor Arnall, this columnist will deliver a radio broadcast from the steps of the State Capitol on Sunday.

—o—

The case of Andrew Jackson May and his backstage wire-pulling for war profiteers illustrates two defects in our politico-Congressional system which sooner or later must be cured.

1. The almost-life-or-death power of the Chairman of any Congressional Committee over executive branches of the government.

2. The fact that certain Congressional districts are so dominated by political bosses that no matter what a man does in Washington he can't be defeated for re-election at home.

Congressman May comes from a district in the Kentucky mountains, many of whose people now regard him as somethiig of a hero. They believe that Jack May can do no wrong. Prior to Mr. May's incumbency, his district sent a Republican, John Langley to Congress. He landed in jail for bootlegging. But even after he had been convicted, Langley was re-elected to Congress. And when it became clear that Langley could not adequately represent his district while behind bars, his loyal constituents sent his wife to Congress instead.

From Boston, Rep. James Curley, another Democrat, served in Congress for some time while under indictment. Finally, when he was convicted for war frauds, Curley was carried through the streets of Boston on the shoulders of cheering admirers.

In Georgia, not long ago, the Justice Department attempted to convict Congressman Whelchel for selling postmasterships, but a local jury refused to convict. Later when the Justice Department discovered that Congressman Gene Cox, also of Georgia, had been paid for lobbying against the Government, the Attorney General, deciding no local jury would convict, brought no prosecution.

In the whole history of the United States only one Senator has been convicted for lobbying for profit against his Government—Senator Joseph R. Burton, a Republican from Kansas. Yet newsmen and others who watch the Capital close up know where unscrupulous Congressmen have taken money for working against the Federal Government.

Actually, the great majority of Congressmen are absolutely honest. This writer, who has seen something of foreign parliaments, from the Chamber of Deputies in Paris to the Schupstina in Belgrade, is convinced that, outside the British Empire, no other group of legislators are so honest personally as the American Congress. Misguided and frequently wrong they may be, but most of them are honest.

Yet, it is a few bad apples in the Congressional barrel that poisons the reputation of the rest.

That is why this column has urged that Congressmen register their business transactions, their purchases on the stock market, their speculations in rye, silver and cotton, and the chief clients of their law firms with the Securities and Exchange Commission. Wall Street is now required to register with the SEC. Every corporation is required to disclose its major salaries to the SEC. Equally important is the need for our legislators, most of whom have nothing to hide, to disclose their non-Government business connections.

Had Congressman May registered with the SEC his connection with the mysterious Erie Basin Lumber Company; had he registered the fact that he was president of the Greenbrier Manganese Mining Company at the time it was seeking a war contract, then the public would have had a chance to judge for itself whether its interest or May's interest was being served.

But few Congressmen will move to require such registration. This columnist has talked to some of the Senate leaders about the problem. Conscientious Senator Barkley of Kentucky would favor such a move, but is an extremely busy man. So would Senator Austin of Vermont, but he is leaving to join the United Nations.

Only Senator so far willing to take the initiative in requiring his colleagues to put their economic ties on record in Glen Taylor, cowboy Senator from Idaho. When the Case bill was before Confress, Taylor tacked on an amendment requiring Congressmen to disclose all stock market deals, commodity market operations, fees and business connections. Taylor thought this would counterbalance the Case bill requirement that labor unions make their financial statements public, authored by Senator Byrd of Virginia.

Whereupon Senator Byrd withdrew his amendment, on condition Taylor withdraw his. Much as Byrd wanted labor unions to disclose their financial transactions, he didn't want Senators to disclose theirs.

Second big defect in our politico-Congressional system is the power of Committee chairmen. Rep. May, as chairman of the military affairs committee can pigeonhole or pass Army legislation. That was why Undersecretary of War Patterson trotted up to May's office to do favors for Erie Basin and why the brass hats literally jumped through hoops at May's beck and call.

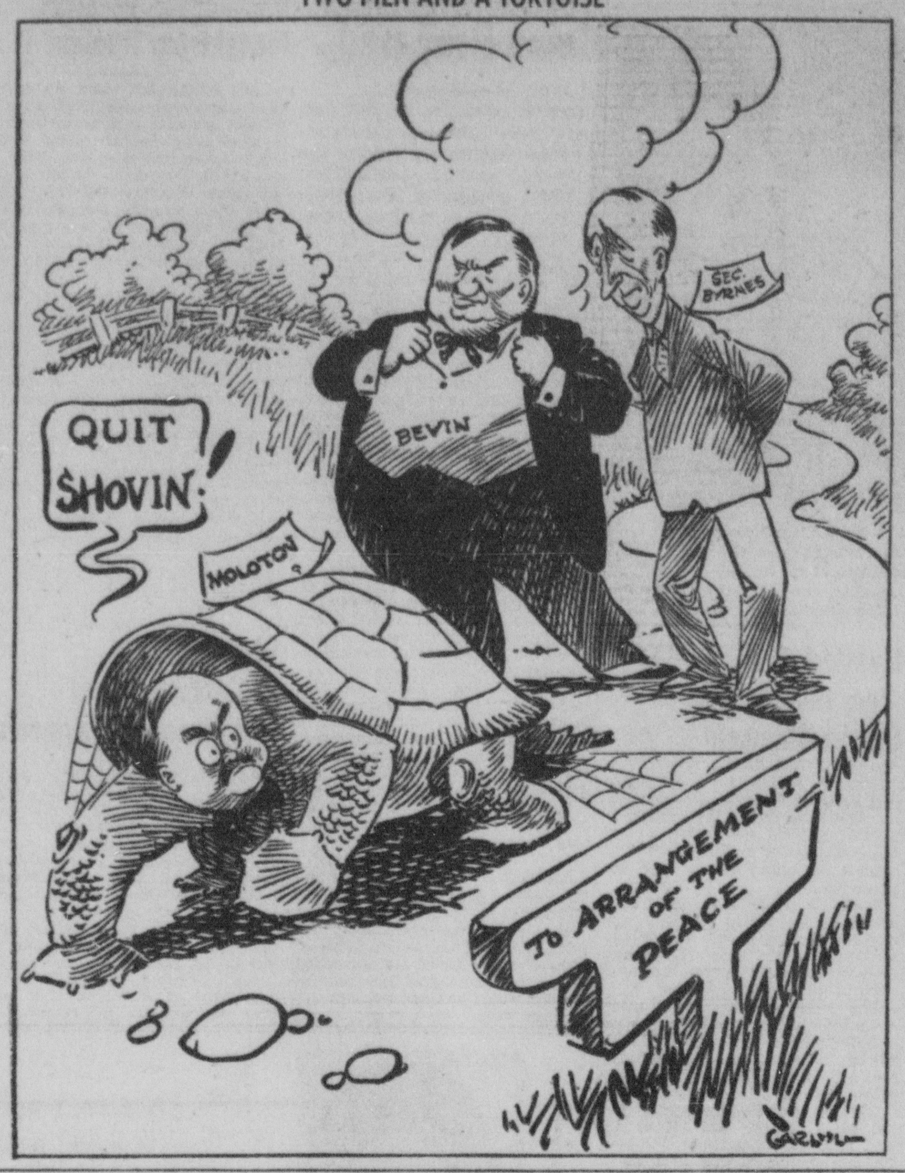

When this columnist was probing the cotton speculations of Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, the Agriculture Department was asked to investigate the matter. They were asked not only by me but by high-up officials in other departments. Agriculture bureaucrats, however, threw up their hands in horror. Senator Thomas is chairman of the Senate committee on agriculture and can strangle Agriculture department legislation if he desires.

So despite the fact that agricultural officials admitted they knew about the Oklahoma Senator's flagrant cotton speculations, and despite the fact that the Agriculture Department is charged by law with policing the commodities market, officials refused to do anything about it.

Under the present set-up in Congress the ability of a Committee Chairman is not important. Nor are his ethical standards, nor his honesty. Seniority is all that counts. And as long as a member of Congress has been elected ahead of other colleagues of his Committee, he can sit in the all-powerful Chairmanship, riding roughshod over legislation badly needed by the executive branch of the Government — unless the department heads kow-tow to him.

TWO MEN AND A TORTOISE

Issue Heedlessly Raised Whether Collective Bargaining Isn't Farce

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 18—Right under the nose of President Truman and the congress of the United States, a labor union—which, incidentally, claims to be the oldest in America, having been founded in 1815—has inadvertently posed the question of whether collective bargaining nowadays isn't really a farce.

This organization—the Columbia Typographical Union No. 101—has just presented to the employing commercial printers of Washington a set of demands amounting to an increase of about 100 per cent in weekly wages.

These demands, which it is understood are to be duplicated in other cities, were decided upon before the President's OPA veto so they can hardly be called an aftermath of the OPA controversy. Nor can it be said that the union lacks mature leadership or experience in bargaining, for it has been in existence 131 years.

The demands include the following:

1. Three weeks' vacation at double-time rates of pay.
2. Workweek reduced to 35 hours or five days of 7 hours each. Hourly rate increased from $1.53 to $3.00.
3. Overtime pay at the rate of $6.00 an hour—namely, at double pay.
4. All holiday work to be paid for at triple pay—namely, $9.00 an hour.
5. Weekly pay raised from $57.00 to $105.00 for day shift and from $63.22 to $115.50 for night shift.
6. Sick leave to be 30 working days with pay.
7. Contract to last for 30 days only — this is, it can be reopened as to wage rates on 30 days' notice, and if a new rate is not agreed upon in 30 days the entire agreement can be terminated by the union.

This is hardly such an arrangement as the President's director of reconversion referred to in his recent report when he said management should be able to operate with "foreseeable costs."

Also, it is to be noted that under the program advanced by the union in question, fully one-fifth of the working time in a year is to be compensated for by the employer even though he gets no production in return.

Under the Wagner Act decisions rendered by the National Labor Relations Board, the employer who has recognized a union cannot discuss the matter of pay with his own employees during the course of a negotiation without being subjected to the risk of having an "unfair labor practice" charge levelled against him by the union. Hence, if an employer finds the proposals of a union onerous and that they mean he may be forced out of business, he cannot say this to his employees without opening himself to litigation under a Wagner Act charge of "threat" or "intimidation."

Thus, the employers who cannot meet the conditions proposed must decide for themselves whether to liquidate or sell their businesses to larger operators. This means that small businesses can be readily swallowed up by big businesses. It means, also, that there is no free competition as between union members and citizens who wish to work at lower scales and who do not care to join unions. The unions, moreover, control the conditions under which apprentices may be hired and the length of time they must work before they can do the work of regular printers. In the case of this union the apprentice period is six years.

No more conspicuous example of monopoly control can be found among labor unions than that which is now being exercised in the contracts of some of these typographical unions.

The trend is toward putting many employers out of business and increasing the cost of printing so that publications and printed matter will be much too expensive for a vast number of organizations which themselves are not engaged in profit-making. Church publications, fraternal magazines, welfare books and even labor union periodicals will have to pay the higher costs or diminish their scope of operation.

President Truman had an opportunity to secure fair play for the American consumers when he vetoed the Case bill. The situation produced by the Washington printers means that the employer must discuss preposterous demands and be kept in a protracted period of uncertainty lest he be accused under the Wagner Act of refusing to bargain in good faith.

The collective bargaining privilege is thus being abused. Many persons who hitherto have thought labor unions would see the handwriting on the wall and consent to adoption of workable amendments to the law insuring fair play, now are coming to believe that the drive must be to repeal and rewrite the Wagner Act altogether. This sentiment is being provoked by extremists in labor circles, and the International Typographical Union, which undoubtedly is behind the national capital union's drive, is plainly forgetting that it may be doing a serious disservice to collective bargaining and the cause of legitimate trade unionism.

William Harris

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Many years ago, for the first time, I was invited to be the guest at the Boston Club of my friend George Healy, the able Managing Editor of the New Orleans Times-Picayune. As we entered the Club we were welcomed, as all are, by a smiling negro named William Harris, who pulled me aside to tell me of the encouragement he had received from these daily talks. It was indeed a compliment he paid to me that warmed my heart.

On May 18th of this year the Club celebrated its 105th anniversary, which also celebrated the beginning of William Harris's 50th year of faithful service to the Club. It was a notable day, and Mr. Harris was asked to give a talk. It was brief and came from his heart. I quote one sentence. He said: "I consider it an honor to be asked to speak, especially after reading the list of those who are barred from speaking." That gives one an idea of the affection in which this fine old negro is held in the hearts of all who have been so graciously welcomed by him each day for nearly half a century.

My friend sent me an inscribed photograph of himself, and I shall have it framed and hung among the elected few, who have stationed themselves in my heart, as friends. I have never met a finer character than William Harris. His face reflects the kindly and noble qualities of his heart. It is stamped with genuineness and spiritual splendor. My visit to New Orleans is never complete without a call on my old friend.

William Harris reminds me of that other negro, so beloved by all America, and indeed by all the world, Dr. Carver. That same spiritual cast illuminates the face of William Harris that gave such beauty to the face of Dr. Carver. Such men are assets to any community. I can truthfully say that they are universal assets.

Mr. Harris also stated in his brief talk that he had met "the finest men in the world" during his long service with the Boston Club, and that the passing of many of them had always brought sadness to his heart. Well, we all hope that this fine human being will be spared for many years yet to come, and that his inspiring influence may never be forgotten by all whom he has so kindly and graciously served. I, personally, affectionately salute you, Mr. Harris! And God bless you.

"IT SAYS HERE" By Bob Hope

As it must come to all men, so it came to me . . . My car broke down on the highway, ten miles from the nearest service station.

I had just bought the "car" from a used-car dealer who told me it was in wonderful condition and that it still had its original tires. Why shouldn't they be original??? . . . Tires don't wear much when the car is being towed.

There were no tools in the car, but I decided to fix it anyway. With my nose, who worries about tools?? I'm quite good at fixing things . . . In fact, I'm a very close friend of a judge.

When I lifted the hood, I found the finance man holding up the motor! But that didn't stop me... I took the whole car apart and had the nuts and bolts scattered all over the highway. Yessir, when I got through with that car, the windshield wiper was as good as new.

When it got dark I had to continue repairs by match-light. I didn't get very far until I reached the gastank. Then I tried thumbing down a car by rolling up my pants' legs . . . But that didn't work out so well . . . Three butchers stopped and started bidding for my leg! So I lay down in the middle of the road and "played dead." . . . After the first car passed, I wasn't playing.

The salesman told me if I didn't like the car I could always bring it back. What I'd like to know is... how do I get back???

Washington Deals In Politics And Not Economics

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

New York State has rent control by state law. New Jersey and Massachusetts have similar controls. So has the District of Columbia. Los Angeles is the first city to control rents by city ordinance. Most of these jurisdictions continue the old O.P.A. ceilings, but New Jersey allows for 15% increase.

The O.P.A. mess will pay dividends if it reminds the American people that they are not completely helpless unless the Great White Father on the Potomac tucks them into bed at night. They can look after themselves by state and local action. Admittedly this is easier to do in the case of rents than in commodities in commerce. But nation-wide freezing of prices and wages prevents the flexibility of business operations which have proved so beneficial in the growth of the nation.

War spending and the post-war boom of a people starved for goods obscures the damage of nation-wide controls. But as the boom levels off, the deadening effects of a politically frozen business structure will become apparent in the next depression.

Politics Not Economics

And it is politics, not economics, which Washington deals in. It is plain now that the O.P.A. veto was chiefly for party advantage. The "Taft" amendment had nothing to do with it. As early as June 8th the strategy was outlined. The Administration would oppose all amendments; it would offer no assistance to the Congressional Committees in trying to iron out the kinks and knots; it would step up the flow of propaganda with the aid of the various P.A.C. groups, organized labor and the Communists; and then just before the law expired on June 30th, the new bill would be vetoed in the expectation that in the short time left, Congress would continue the old law for another whole year.

All this worked out exactly as planned except that congress refused to be trampled over at the last moment by the thundering herd of job-hungry bureaucrats, who packed the galleries of the House and Senate booing the Congressmen who wanted to get the bureaucrats off our necks.

Planned Before Taft Amendment

But the point is that the plan was made before the Taft amendment was ever in the bill!! It wasn't in the bill when the Administration supporters on the Senate Committee wrote their minority report that the new bill was the "death sentence" of price control! It was later written into the bill on the floor of the Senate and the bill as amended was passed with the aid of 37 Senate Democrats.

So what did the "Taft" amendment have to do with the veto? Nothing. The bill was going to be vetoed anyway.

The "Taft" amendment was a scarecrow to hang up before the people to influence the Congressional election this fall and in the hope of killing off Taft as Mr. Truman's opponent in 1948.

It is a pretty sordid deal for a President of the United States to engage in. But that's what we can expect when government undertakes to run the business affairs of the people, to fix prices, rents, wages, hours, interest, etc. You get political answers to economic questions. A smelly illustration is the deficit of the subways owned by the City of New York. Not having the political courage to charge the users of the subway enough to keep them going, the city government levies a special tax on hotel room rents to make up the loss. Many, perhaps a majority of renters, are out of town residents who seldom use the subways, but more important, do not vote in New York City. This is nothing but legal burglary, but it is what you get when politicians run government run business.

A Big Maybe In Steelman's Report

On the seventh report to the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion on the progress of the country toward economic order two things are notable. One is the cheery, optimistic tone, which is characteristic of these documents. It is a sort of statistical and literary reflection of the President's famous smile, a way of saying, all evidence to the contrary, that only our failure to understand the facts separates us from the full knowledge of our good fortune. Thus the report repeats the familiar thesis that production is greater than ever without bothering to discuss what sort of production it is—whether automobiles or of costume jewelry.

The other thing, and a more welcome one, is the fullest admissions to date in any administration statement of economic policy that the success of the battle against inflation does not depend alone on this or that kind of OPA. After noting the importance of price control, John R. Steelman, OWMR's director, goes on to point out that there are other elements in the economy which must be watched and checked and corrected if inflation is to be avoided.

Chief among these are federal expenditures, largely by the armed forces, which should be curtailed, along with a reduction in public works. In addition, he cites the importance of maintaining high taxes, the object being the reduction of the national debt out of current revenues, and the need for controlling credit expansion.

Beyond this as David Lawrence discussed in his column on this page a day or so ago, the report contains an unrealistic defense of the administration's wage-price control policy, which tends to offset the evidence that it may have learned something of inflation in almost a year of peace. There is just a chance, however, that it means what it says, that it intends to practice the doctrine which it so cheerfully preaches. If so, then OWMR's seventh quarterly report for all of its glib assurances, may represent the turning point in the hitherto half-hearted and largely unsuccessful war on drastic inflation.

The wise man has nothing to do with the fellow who has nothing to do till tomorrow.

Garsson Witness Didn't Think Enough

One of the most intriguing witnesses before the Senate committee investigating the May case has been Henry Payntor, the mustachioed, florid "publicists" for the amazing Garsson interests. Mr. Payntor apparently considered that, having signed up to exercise his talents in behalf of the Garssons, he was embarked on a crusade.

He was very indignant that the committee should question any of the Garsson transactions, and hastened to tell Washington reporters as much. So the Mead Committee promptly summoned him. There Mr. Payntor defended his clients with a superior show of fierceness. He referred to the "Mead gestapo gang," and charged the whole thing was a "malicious plot on the part of employes of the committee," and that the committee had "maliciously suppressed the truth."

Mr. Payntor said he had been hired by the Garssons' attorney after he had "thought it over for two days and two nights."

If Mr. Payntor did indeed satisfy himself that everything was hunky-dory about the Garsson interests, his thinking machinery must be remarkable. For if he thought the whole thing through in only two days and two nights, he had to trace the whole maze of Garsson transactions in which the Interstate Machinery Co., the National Machinery Works, the Batavia Metal Products Co., Inc., the Erie Basin Metal Products Co., Inc., the Illinois Watchcase Co., the United States Wind Engine & Pump Co., the Pershing Engineering Co., the U. S. Challenge Co., the Cumberland Lumber Co. and others were sold, re-sold, christened and re-christened, shuffled and reshuffled in a manner resembling the old shell game.

If Mr. Payntor figured the whole thing out in two days and nights, he really did an impressive amount of "thinking it over."

Golfers' wives are agreed that the spring drive is on.

Bulwinkle Law and ICC Rules Conflict

The Senate, before it adjourns should turn its attention to the Bulwinkle bill which is designed to end the confusion caused by conflicting interpretations of the nation's transportation policy and as a result of which the railroads are put squarely in the middle of an impossible situation.

The facts in the case are simple and so is the bill which has been reported out by a Senate committee and which ought to come before the whole Senate promptly for favorable action.

As is well known, common carriers operate under the Interstate Commerce Act. To meet the responsibilities which the law imposes upon them, they find it necessary to maintain cooperative arrangements for the efficient administration of matters of common concern. The Interstate Commerce Commission recognizes this necessity and has approved this kind of cooperation. But the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice contends the whole program is a combination in restraint of trade and thus illegal under the anti-trust law.

All this leaves the railroads and other common carriers in the position of being threatened with prosecution under one law for doing what another law literally forces them to do. They now ask that they be relieved of this dilemma and the Bulwinkle bill is the commonsense answer.

If it becomes law, as it should, carriers subject to the Interstate Commerce Act may file with the Interstate Commerce Commission any agreement which they may make among themselves. Then the commission will decide whether the agreement is in furtherance of the national transportation policy declared by Congress.

If the commission's reply is in the affirmative, anti-trust laws would not apply. If in the negative, the application of the anti-tust laws would stand. How can anyone possibly object to that?

Russians do not always say no. Molotov has agreed to accept $100,000,000 from busted Italy, the money, of course, to come from Uncle Sam.

World Confusion Costly to Taxpayers

The United States is spending billions with one hand to avoid "the next war" and appropriating billions with the other hand to be prepared in case there is another war. Thus the American taxpayer's burden is increased by the confusion and doubt in men's minds as to whether the nations can live together in amity.

The many billions for relief, the nation's heavy expenses incident to membership in the United Nations, the loans to England and other nations are planned as expenditures for peace. Cancellation of many billions of dollars of lend-lease was planned ostensibly to help Allied nations get on their feet and thus relieve war pressures.

On the other hand, the administration has budgeted nearly eight billion dollars for the Army in the next year, a large part of it for experimentation with new weapons. Other military expenditures will be of similar magnitude. In addition, Congress will be asked to appropriate four or five billion dollars for stockpiling scarce materials such as tin and other metals not produced abundantly in this country. Included will be shellac, quartz, crystals, hemp, quinine, iodine, vegetable oils and natural rubber.

Thus there would be available, it is hoped, in case of another conflict sufficient hard-to-get materials to see the nation through. Whether nations will ever reach the point that they can budget their expenditures without reference to war making is a question. If that glad time ever comes, humankind will be at the inception of its greatest progress.

The lengths to which the souvenir-collecting craze has been extended is shown by an Italian's confession that he stole Mussolini's body.

American Male Will Have Last Word of Fad

The American Wool Council has spoken. It has declared that, come Autumn, the American male will be able to walk into a clothing store and pick out a business suit. But said suit, according to the AWC, is likely to be luminous blue with red stripes, a fawn-colored job with red stripes, or a "loud" check, plaid or herringbone.

Maybe, as the AWC says, long experience with GI clothing has created a demand for more colorful costumes. But we doubt it. All previous attempts to glorify the American male have flopped with a dull thud.

He agrees that perhaps he should be more colorful. He has given a little ground in "play clothes" and evening attire. But when he chooses a business suit—well—he wants a suit just like the suit that clothed dear old Dad.

So, when it's the customer's turn to speak, his ideas on the newest edict are likely to be summed up in one word—"Fooey."

Swatting flies once again has become the national pest-time.

American Homes Of Tomorrow

Just at a time when thousands of American families are living in one or two rooms comes word from the arbiters of fashions in domestic architecture that the American home is going to be smaller in coming years. But, they add, furniture will remain the same size, although it will look smaller because light rugs and bright colored drapes and upholstery will create an optical illusion.

That's all very interesting. But we wonder whether the illusion will persist when the housewife finds in the home of tomorrow that although there is less room to get around in while dusting, the surfaces standard dimensions.

creeping stealthily toward bed with fervent hopes of not waking the little woman? We suspect that for him, traversing the maze of a compressed living room in the dark, the corner of a king-sized chair might banish the illusion with the impact of sharp reality.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The Ku Klux Klan has just issued a "fiery summons" to all Klansmen in Atlanta demanding that members meet immediately in extraordinary Konklave. The summons is on a piece of paper about as big as a police summons. In the background is the red figure of a hooded Klansman, and under the heading, "Solemn Summons of The Fiery Cross," appears the following message:

"You are hereby seriously summoned to be and appear at an Extraordinary Konklave. Nothing but a providential hindrance can legally justify Your failure to be present. Duty, with all the justice of her unquestionable authority, Calls. The call is Imperative!

"By Mandate of His Lordship
The Imperial Wizard."

As a result of this summons, special KKK meetings have been held in Atlanta, attended by more than the usual number of Klansmen. Two questions have been discussed: (1) What strategy to adopt for the Atlanta visit of this columnist on July 21; and (2) Raising funds to hire lawyers to prevent revocation of the Klan's charter.

At the instruction of hard-hitting Governor Ellis Arnall, Georgia's Attorney General Eugene Cook has brought and action against the Klan to revoke its charter. Also at the instance of Governor Arnall, this columnist will deliver a radio broadcast from the steps of the State Capitol on Sunday.

— o —

The case of Andrew Jackson May and his backstage wire-pulling for war profiteers illustrates two defects in our politico-Congressional system which sooner or later must be cured.

1. The almost-life-or-death power of the Chairman of any Congressional Committee over executive branches of the government.

2. The fact that certain Congressional districts are so dominated by political bosses that no matter what a man does in Washington he can't be defeated for re-election at home.

Congressman May comes from a disirict in the Kentucky mountains, many of whose people now regard him as somethiig of a hero. They believe that Jack May can do no wrong. Prior to Mr. May's incumbency, his district sent a Republican, John Langley to Congress. He landed in jail for bootlegging. But even after he had been convicted, Langley was re-elected to Congress. And when it became clear that Langley could not adequately represent his district while behind bars, his loyal constituents sent his wife to Congress instead.

From Boston, Rep. James Curley, another Democrat, served in Congress for some time while under indictment. Finally, when he was convicted for war frauds, Curley was carried through the streets of Boston on the shoulders of cheering admirers.

In Georgia, not long ago, the Justice Department attempted to convict Congressman Whelchel for selling postmasterships, but a local jury refused to convict. Later when the Justice Department discovered that Congressman Gene Cox, also of Georgia, had been paid for lobbying against the Government, the Attorney General, deciding no local jury would convict, brought no prosecution.

— o —

In the whole history of the United States only one Senator has been convicted for lobbying for profit against his Government—Senator Joseph R. Burton, a Republican from Kansas. Yet newsmen and others who watch the Capital close up know where unscrupulous Congressmen have taken money for working against the Federal Government.

Actually, the great majority of Congressmen are absolutely honest. This writer, who has seen something of foreign parliaments, from the Chamber of Deputies in Paris to the Schupstina in Belgrade, is convinced that, outside the British Empire, no other group of legislators are so honest personally as the American Congress. Misguided and frequently wrong they may be, but most of them are honest.

Yet, it is a few bad apples in the Congressional barrel that poisons the reputation of the rest.

That is why this column has urged that Congressmen register their business transactions, their purchases on the stock market, their speculations in rye, silver and cotton, and the chief clients of their law firms with the Securities and Exchange Commission. Wall Street is now required to register with the SEC. Every corporation is required to disclose its major salaries to the SEC. Equally important is the need for our legislators, most of whom have nothing to hide, to disclose their non-Government business connections.

Had Congressman May registered with the SEC his connection with the mysterious Erie Basin Lumber Company; had he registered the fact that he was president of the Greenbrier Manganese Mining Company at the time it was seeking a war contract, then the public would have had a chance to judge for itself whether its interest or May's interest was being served.

But few Congressmen will move to require such registration. This columnist has talked to some of the Senate leaders about the problem. Conscientious Senator Barkley of Kentucky would favor such a move, but is an extremely busy man. So would Senator Austin of Vermont, but he is leaving to join the United Nations.

Only Senator so far willing to take the initiative in requiring his colleagues to put their economic ties on record in Glen Taylor, cowboy Senator from Idaho. When the Case bill was before Confress, Taylor tacked on an amendment requiring Congressmen to disclose all stock market deals, commodity market operations, fees and business connections. Taylor thought this would counterbalance the Case bill requirement that labor unions make their financial statements public, authored by Senator Byrd of Virginia.

Whereupon Senator Byrd withdrew his amendment, on condition Taylor withdraw his. Much as Byrd wanted labor unions to disclose their financial transactions, he didn't want Senators to disclose theirs.

Second big defect in our politico-Congressional system is the power of Committee chairmen. Rep. May, as chairman of the military affairs committee can pigeonhole or pass Army legislation. That was why Undersecretary of War Patterson trotted up to May's office to do favors for Erie Basin and why the brass hats literally jumped through hoops at May's beck and call.

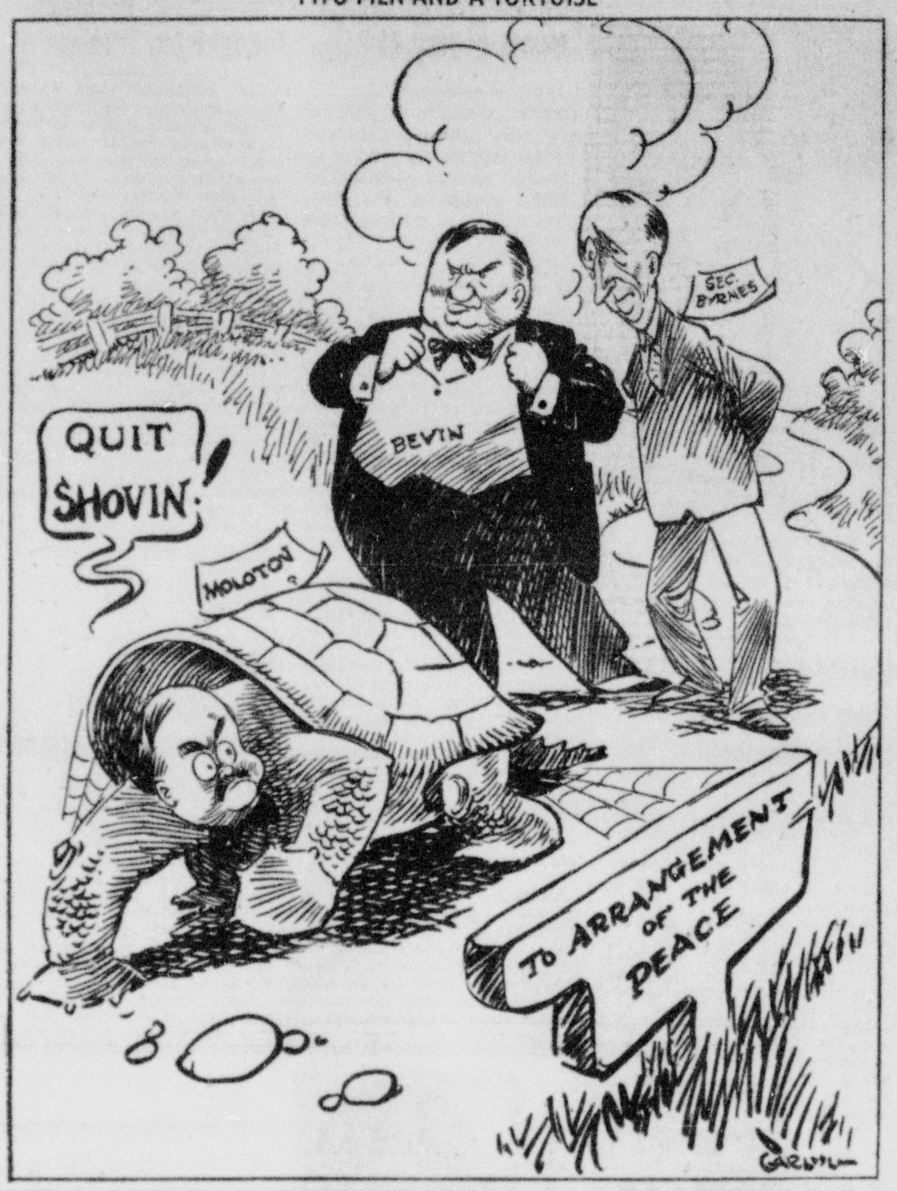

When this columnist was probing the cotton speculations of Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, the Agriculture Department was asked to investigate the matter. They were asked not only by me but by high-up officials in other departments. Agriculture bureaucrats, however, threw up their hands in horror. Senator Thomas is chairman of the Senate committee on agriculture and can strangle Agriculture department legislation if he desires.

So despite the fact that agricultural officials admitted they knew about the Oklahoma Senator's flagrant cotton speculations, and despite the fact that the Agriculture Department is charged by law with policing the commodities market, officials refused to do anything about it.

Under the present set-up in Congress the ability of a Committee Chairman is not important. Nor are his ethical standards, nor his honesty. Seniority is all that counts. And as long as a member of Congress has been elected ahead of other colleagues of his Committee, he can sit in the all-powerful Chairmanship, riding roughshod over legislation badly needed by the executive branch of the Government — unless the department heads kow-tow to him.

Issue Heedlessly Raised Whether Collective Bargaining Isn't Farce

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 18—Right under the nose of President Truman and the congress of the United States, a labor union—which, incidentally, claims to be the oldest in America, having been founded in 1815—has inadvertently posed the question of whether collective bargaining nowadays isn't really a farce.

This organization—the Columbia Typographical Union No. 101—has just presented to the employing commercial printers of Washington a set of demands amounting to an increase of about 100 per cent in weekly wages.

These demands, which it is understood are to be duplicated in other cities, were decided upon before the President's OPA veto so they can hardly be called an aftermath of the OPA controversy. Nor can it be said that the union lacks mature leadership or experience in bargaining, for it has been in existence 131 years.

The demands include the following:

1. Three weeks' vacation at double-time rates of pay.
2. Workweek reduced to 35 hours or five days of 7 hours each. Hourly rate increased from $1.53 to $3.00.
3. Overtime pay at the rate of $6.00 an hour—namely, at double pay.
4. All holiday work to be paid for at triple pay—namely, $9.00 an hour.
5. Weekly pay raised from $57.00 to $105.00 for day shift and from $63.22 to $115.50 for night shift.
6. Sick leave to be 30 working days with pay.
7. Contract to last for 30 days only — this is, it can be reopened as to wage rates on 30 days' notice, and if a new rate is not agreed upon in 30 days the entire agreement can be terminated by the union.

This is hardly such an arrangement as the President's director of reconversion referred to in his recent report when he said management should be able to operate with "foreseeable costs."

Also, it is to be noted that under the program advanced by the union in question, fully one-fifth of the working time in a year is to be compensated for by the employer even though he gets no production in return.

Under the Wagner Act decisions rendered by the National Labor Relations Board, the employer who has recognized a union cannot discuss the matter of pay with his own employees during the course of a negotiation without being subjected to the risk of having an "unfair labor practice" charge levelled against him by the union. Hence, if an employer finds the proposals of a union onerous and that they mean he may be forced out of business, he cannot say this to his employees without opening himself to litigation under a Wagner Act charge of "threat" or "intimidation."

Thus, the employers who cannot meet the conditions proposed must decide for themselves whether to liquidate or sell their businesses to larger operators. This means that small businesses can be readily swallowed up by big businesses. It means, also, that there is no free competition as between union members and citizens who wish to work at lower scales and who do not care to join unions. The unions, moreover, control the conditions under which apprentices may be hired and the length of time they must work before they can do the work of regular printers. In the case of this union the apprentice period is six years.

No more conspicuous example of monopoly control can be found among labor unions than that which is now being exercised in the contracts of some of these typographical unions.

The trend is toward putting many employers out of business and increasing the cost of printing so that publications and printed matter will be much too expensive for a vast number of organizations which themselves are not engaged in profit-making. Church publications, fraternal magazines, welfare books and even labor union periodicals will have to pay the higher costs or diminish their scope of operation.

President Truman had an opportunity to secure fair play for the American consumers when he vetoed the Case bill. The situation produced by the Washington printers means that the employer must discuss preposterous demands and be kept in a protracted period of uncertainty lest he be accused under the Wagner Act of refusing to bargain in good faith.

The collective bargaining privilege is thus being abused. Many persons who hitherto have thought labor unions would see the handwriting on the wall and consent to adoption of workable amendments to the law insuring fair play, now are coming to believe that the drive must be to repeal and rewrite the Wagner Act altogether. This sentiment is being provoked by extremists in labor circles, and the International Typographical Union, which undoubtedly is behind the national capital union's drive, is plainly forgetting that it may be doing a serious disservice to collective bargaining and the cause of legitimate trade unionism.

William Harris

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Many years ago, for the first time, I was invited to be the guest at the Boston Club of my friend George Healy, the able Managing Editor of the New Orleans Times-Picayune. As we entered the Club we were welcomed, as all are, by a smiling negro named William Harris, who pulled me aside to tell me of the encouragement he had received from these daily talks. It was indeed a compliment he paid to me that warmed my heart.

On May 18th of this year the Club celebrated its 105th anniversary, which also celebrated the beginning of William Harris's 50th year of faithful service to the Club. It was a notable day, and Mr. Harris was asked to give a talk. It was brief and came from his heart. I quote one sentence. He said: "I consider it an honor to be asked to speak, especially after reading the list of those who are barred from speaking." That gives one an idea of the affection in which this fine old negro is held in the hearts of all who have been so graciously welcomed by him each day for nearly half a century.

My friend sent me an inscribed photograph of himself, and I shall have it framed and hung among the elected few, who have stationed themselves in my heart, as friends. I have never met a finer character than William Harris. His face reflects the kindly and noble qualities of his heart. It is stamped with genuineness and spiritual splendor. My visit to New Orleans is never complete without a call on my old friend.

William Harris reminds me of that other negro, so beloved by all America, and indeed by all the world, Dr. Carver. That same spiritual cast illuminates the face of William Harris that gave such beauty to the face of Dr. Carver. Such men are assets to any community. I can truthfully say that they are universal assets.

Mr. Harris also stated in his brief talk that he had met "the finest men in the world" during his long service with the Boston Club, and that the passing of many of them had always brought sadness to his heart. Well, we all hope that this fine human being will be spared for many years yet to come, and that his inspiring influence may never be forgotten by all whom he has so kindly and graciously served. I, personally, affectionately salute you, Mr. Harris! And God bless you.

"IT SAYS HERE" By Bob Hope

As it must come to all men, so it came to me . . . My car broke down on the highway, ten miles from the nearest service station.

I had just bought the "car" from a used-car dealer who told me it was in wonderful condition and that it still had its original tires. Why shouldn't they be original??? . . . Tires don't wear much when the car is being towed.

There were no tools in the car, but I decided to fix it anyway. With my nose, who worries about tools?? I'm quite good at fixing things . . . In fact, I'm a very close friend of a judge.

When I lifted the hood, I found the finance man holding up the motor! But that didn't stop me... I took the whole car apart and had the nuts and bolts scattered all over the highway. Yessir, when I got through with that car, the windshield wiper was as good as new.

When it got dark I had to continue repairs by match-light. I didn't get very far until I reached the gastank. Then I tried thumbing down a car by rolling up my pants' legs . . . But that didn't work out so well . . . Three butchers stopped and started bidding for my leg! So I lay down in the middle of the road and "played dead." . . . After the first car passed, I wasn't playing.

The salesman told me if I didn't like the car I could always bring it back. What I'd like to know is... how do I get back???

Washington Deals In Politics And Not Economics

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

New York State has rent control by state law. New Jersey and Massachusetts have similar controls. So has the District of Columbia. Los Angeles is the first city to control rents by city ordinance. Most of these jurisdictions continue the old O.P.A. ceilings, but New Jersey allows for 15% increase.

The O.P.A. mess will pay dividends if it reminds the American people that they are not completely helpless unless the Great White Father on the Potomac tucks them into bed at night. They can look after themselves by state and local action. Admittedly this is easier to do in the case of rents than in commodities in commerce. But nation-wide freezing of prices and wages prevents the flexibility of business operations which have proved so beneficial in the growth of the nation.

War spending and the post-war boom of a people starved for goods obscures the damage of nation-wide controls. But as the boom levels off, the deadening effects of a politically frozen business structure will become apparent in the next depression.

Politics Not Economics

And it is politics, not economics, which Washington deals in. It is plain now that the O.P.A. veto was chiefly for party advantage. The "Taft" amendment had nothing to do with it. As early as June 8th the strategy was outlined. The Administration would oppose all amendments; it would offer no assistance to the Congressional Committees in trying to iron out the kinks and knots; it would step up the flow of propaganda with the aid of the various P.A.C. groups, organized labor and the Communists; and then just before the law expired on June 30th, the new bill would be vetoed in the expectation that in the short time left, Congress would continue the old law for another whole year.

All this worked out exactly as planned except that congress refused to be trampled over at the last moment by the thundering herd of job-hungry bureaucrats, who packed the galleries of the House and Senate booing the Congressmen who wanted to get the bureaucrats off our necks.

Planned Before Taft Amendment

But the point is that the plan was made before the Taft amendment was ever in the bill!! It wasn't in the bill when the Administration supporters on the Senate Committee wrote their minority report that the new bill was the "death sentence" of price control! It was later written into the bill on the floor of the Senate and the bill as amended was passed with the aid of 37 Senate Democrats.

So what did the "Taft" amendment have to do with the veto? Nothing. The bill was going to be vetoed anyway.

The "Taft" amendment was a scarecrow to hang up before the people to influence the Congressional election this fall and in the hope of killing off Taft as Mr. Truman's opponent in 1948.

It is a pretty sordid deal for a President of the United States to engage in. But that's what we can expect when government undertakes to run the business affairs of the people, to fix prices, rents, wages, hours, interest, etc. You get political answers to economic questions. A smelly illustration is the deficit of the subways owned by the City of New York. Not having the political courage to charge the users of the subway enough to keep them going, the city government levies a special tax on hotel room rents to make up the loss. Many, perhaps a majority of renters, are out of town residents who seldom use the subways, but more important, do not vote in New York City. This is nothing but legal burglary, but it is what you get when politicians in government run business.

Decision Expected Soon On Legality Of Water Rates

Sloan Says Ordinance Does Not Give Apartment Owners Justice

A decision is expected to be handed down within a few weeks as to the legality of one section of Cumberland's ordinance regarding water rates as a result of a hearing yesterday morning in circuit court. Former Rep. David J. Lewis filed the action against the city.

D. Lindley Sloan, former chief judge of the Court of Appeals, represented Lewis at the hearing, conducted by Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper, of this city, and Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish, of Hagerstown.

Sloan and City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett presented briefs to the court.

The ordinance was enacted in 1936 by the Mayor and City Council to set up rates for water consumers.

Case Pending 20 Years

Lewis, who is also the oldest member of the bar in Allegany county, filed the action 20 years ago, contending the city rates at that time constitued "discrimination" against apartment house owners.

He built an apartment house in 1923 on Fayette street, near the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad bridge, and disputed the city's authority to have him install separate meters for each of the 13 apartments. He contends that one meter is sufficient for the entire building.

Several owners of other apartment houses in the city attended the hearing, since the decision in the case will affect them.

Lewis filed the action for an injunction against the Mayor and Council on August 14, 1925, and the bill has been amended in recent years.

Sloan asserted yesterday that Lewis was ordered by the city, under the ordinance, to pay a minimum charge for one meter, multipled by 13, or the number of apartments in the building.

Claims System Unfair

"Mr. Lewis is paying for twice as much water as is consumed in the apartments, under this system," his attorney asserted. Sloan attacked the clause in the 1936 ordinance as unfair to apartment owners, and declared the city should charge him for one meter which would serve the entire building.

"Water is a commodity and the city in engaged in the business of selling it," Sloan contended. He added that the Public Service Commission of Maryland is forbidden by state law from fixing rates which may be charged by the city for water.

The attorney also pointed out that hotels have only one meter, and cited that apartment houses should be placed on the same basis. Some local hotels have apartments which are rented on an annual basis, he declared, and that "hotels are just the same as apartment houses."

Hundreds of homes in the city do not have meters and are not compelled to install them, Sloan said, but are charged a flat rate for unlimited use of water. He quoted a number of decisions by the courts in similar cases throughout the nation, to support his contention that the ordinance "discriminates against apartment house owners."

Seek Child's Custody

Asking a write of habeas corpus to regain the custody of her son, Mrs. Ethel L. Smith, of Baltimore, has filed a petition in court against Mrs. Anna N. Smith and H. Edgar Smith, of this city, the child's grandparents.

William M. Somerville, attorney for the mother, said the boy, William R. Smith, Jr., six years old, was taken to the grandparents' home and is "illegally detained there." The boy's parents are estranged, it was said.

A hearing on the petition will be held Friday, July 26, in court.

OPA Employes Told They Will Receive Pay For Time Worked

Employes of the local OPA office received some welcome news yesterday, in the form of a memo from J. Charles Judge, acting deputy district director of the Baltimore office.

Employes in the OPA office and rent control office have continued to report for work daily, upon the request of Leo H. McCormick, state director.

JOHN WESLEY REITZ

John Wesley Reitz, 72, 504 Cumberland street, died yesterday at 10:30 p. m. in Memorial hospital, where he had been a patient since July 10.

After coming here from Elkins, W. Va., in 1929, Mr. Reitz operated the General Electric Appliance store until his retirement seven years ago. In the past few years he had acted as the local representative of the Tropical Paint and Oil Company, Cleveland, O.

A native of Somerset county, Pa., Mr. Reitz was a son of the late John C. and Mary Koontz Reitz. He resided in Elkins for 25 years before coming to Cumberland, and was engaged in the lumber and automobile business there.

He and Mrs. Reitz, the former Miss Margaret Catherine Baker, observed their 45th wedding anniversary in 1944. He was a member of Davis Memorial Presbyterian church in Elkins.

Besides his widow, Mr. Reitz is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Edgar Vandegrift, Bedford road; Mrs. Margaret Bowers, Elkins, and Mrs. Virginia Scheu, Braddock road; one son, John H. Reitz, Newport News, Va.; three sisters, Mrs. Alonzo Stutzman, Johnstown, Pa.; Mrs. Rose McVickar, Rockwood, Pa., and Mrs. Bertha Miller, Somerset, Pa.; and three grandchildren.

Burial will be in Elkins. Other arrangements are incomplete.

Enlists In Army

Ronald Perry Blaker, 247 Virginia avenue, enlisted for three years in the army at the local recruiting office yesterday, according to Capt. N.S.P. Stitt, recruiter.

Blaker, a 17-year-old Fort Hill high school graduate requested service with the Transportation corps in the Pacific theater.

Talmadge Elected

poor third, had 18. Hoke O'Kelley, the fourth man, had none.

The county unit vote is the only thing that counts in the Georgia Democratic primary. Carmichael, it appeared, would get the popular vote. The count stood; Carmichael 307,126; Talmadge 296,751; Rivers, 67,196; O'Kelley, 11,520.

The returns came from 1,599 of the state's 1,746 precincts.

As returns showed conclusively the result of the torrid primary, there came no comment from Arnall, who is prohibited by the state constitution from succeeding himself.

Exuberant in victory, Talmadge said: "I had to win for the good of the South and the nation. No negro will vote in Georgia for the next four years."

While negroes have voted recently in deep south primaries, there was nothing like so large a negro vote as there was in Georgia. There are negligible voting restrictions in Georgia and the poll tax was repealed in 1945.

poor third, had 18. Hoke O'Kelley, the fourth man, had none.

The county unit vote is the only thing that counts in the Georgia Democratic primary. Carmichael, it appeared, would get the popular vote. The count stood; Carmichael 307,126; Talmadge 296,751; Rivers, 67,196; O'Kelley, 11,520.

The returns came from 1,599 of the state's 1,746 precincts.

As returns showed conclusively the result of the torrid primary, there came no comment from Arnall, who is prohibited by the state constitution from succeeding himself.

Exuberant in victory, Talmadge said: "I had to win for the good of the South and the nation. No negro will vote in Georgia for the next four years."

While negroes have voted recently in deep south primaries, there was nothing like so large a negro vote as there was in Georgia. There are negligible voting restrictions in Georgia and the poll tax was repealed in 1945.

Military Outfits Are Being Sought For Legion Parade

Drum And Bugle Corps And Other Organizations To March On Aug. 18

Capt. Thomas F. Conlon, chairman of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion parade committee for the Legion state convention here next month, said yesterday he is hopeful of having several military units, as well as several score drum and bugle corps appear in the Legion parade, August 16.

Over 300 invitations have been mailed to units throughout the state and neighboring area, Conlon said, and he has also written to Brig. Gen. M. S. Eddy, commander of the Second Army, asking him to send the Third Recon Calvary Group here.

The Recon group recently spent two nights at the state armory, going to and from a parade staged in Parkersburg, W. Va. The unit travels in modern vehicles and up-to-date rolling equipment.

Henry Hart Post No. 1411, VFW, has already pledged its support to the Legionnaires and has accepted the invitation to parade its drum corps and some of its membership. Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion of Ridgeley, W. Va., has also accepted an invitation.

Others heard from and expected to appear here, Conlon said, include, Lord Baltimore Hotel Post No. 100, Baltimore; Lithuanian Post No. 154, Glen Burnie, and the Cumberland Chapter of the Military Order of Purple Heart.

To attract numerous musical organizations here for the Legion parade, Fort Cumberland Post is offering a total of $980 in cash awards. Of this amount $500 is to be divided to out of town units on a mileage basis to help defray traveling expenses. The balance is divided into prizes as follows:

Drum and bugle corps, senior, first $60, second $40, third $20; junior, first $60, second $40, third $20; drum and bugle corps, colored, first $60, second $40, third $20.

Bands, first $60, second $40, third $20. Scoring will be based upon marching, alignment, uniforms and music.

Judges will be placed along the line of march, Conlon said, and a reviewing stand in charge of Howard Loughrie, will be erected on Baltimore street, near the Second National bank.

Local GI Wife Likes New Home In Berlin

Describing her new home in Berlin, Germany, where she and her husband, First Lt. Albert R. Friedel, are living, Mrs. Thelma Friedel says that there is no servant problem and their quarters in a large, red brick apartment house include a livingroom and bedroom, plus the use of a parlor, playroom and sunporch.

Mrs. Friedel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Young, Uhl highway, went overseas in April to join her husband, who is stationed in Berlin with the occupation forces.

Ample furnishings in the house include a piano, and a kitchen well stocked with good china and fine silver, which Mrs. Friedel supplemented on her first shopping tour of Berlin, when she purchased a china tea set.

She has a head housekeeper who speaks English and thus guides the activities of the German-speaking charwomen who clean up the house each morning. A gardner works full time in the Friedels' large garden.

Mrs. Friedel reports she is spending considerable time in the kichen, teaching her German cook hok to prepare such American delicacies as Virginia baked ham, one of her husband's favorites.

Ellerslie Woman Receives Divorce

An absolute divorce has been granted in circuit court to Mrs. Margaret E. Knippenberg, Ellerslie, from George A. Knippenberg, Oldtown road, in a decree signed by Chief Judge William A. Huster.

She received the custody of their two minor children, and Knippenberg was ordered to pay her $50 monthly for support of the children. F. Brooke Whiting was her attorney, and Clarence Shutter was attorney for Knippenberg.

Mrs. Eva E. Dean has filed suit for an absolute divorce from Everett I. Dean, said to be resident of Pennsylvania, on grounds of desertion.

Mrs. Dean, through her attorney, Edward J. Ryan, said they were married October 10, 1942, and lived together until May 1, 1943. She asked permission to resume use of her maiden name of Durbin.

Girl Wants To Wed Man Despite "Raw Deal" He Gave Her

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Would you say it was love that makes a girl go right ahead and marry a man who she believes has already given her a "raw deal"? Or would you say it was just plain foolishness?

Personally, I'm inclined to believe it's the latter, in the case of the girl who writes me as follows:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I'm a girl 18 years old and very much in love with a soldier from a distant state who is 19. He was stationed at a camp about 180 miles from my home town, and at every spare moment he wrote me, and on weekends he always managed to come down. We finally became engaged, not formally, but with the understanding that I'd wait for him and if I wanted to go out with other boys, it would be all right.

Battles With Herself

"One day I received a letter from him saying he was going overseas. Then the next day I received a lettel from a buddie of his, stationed at the same base, telling me to send the mail to him and he would forward it. Instantly I knew the boy I am in love with was not going overseas but going home. Investigating a bit, I found he had reenlisted for a year and had 30 days furlough.

"Days and nights for a week I battled with myself, wanting to write him at his home address saying how much I hated him. Then, finally my pride, and, I must admit, my heart, could stand it no longer. I wrote to him, saying that I knew he was home and I was disappointed, but even though he wasn't honest about it, I would still have faith in him. I told him I loved, and worshipped him, and wanted to see him again.

"Then I received his letters again, explaining he had a reason for doing what he did, saying he loved me and would tell me all about it when he was down again. I miss him like crazy. Nights are nothing but nightmares, and through the day, when people go about me laughing, I begin to hate them for being happy.

Should Get Explanation

"Now today he wrote again, asking if I'd marry him in the near future. I want to marry him, and I will. But, Miss Fairfax, what do you think of the raw deal I received from him? I hardly know what to think, I only know I love him.

Since you've already made up your mind to marry this soldier, it seems rather odd that all you're writing me for is to ask if I don't think he gave you a raw deal. Is it possible that your mind isn't quite as firmly made up as you believe it is, and what you really want to know is, whether or not I think it would be wise to marry a man who treated you in such a way?

If that's what you're really after, then all I can say is that it seems to me it would be very wise on your part to wait until he gives you that promised explanation of his conduct before deciding to take him on as a husband.

I'm afraid that instead of being in love, you're merely infatuated with this soldier, which is an entirely different thing. For the girl who is truly in love wants to feel that the man she loves is a fine person, and one who will make her a loving and considerate husband, whereas you don't seem to give a single thought to what kind of husband this man will make you, just so long as you get him. He's already disappointed and upset you badly, yet you're ready to take him on before you even know why he did it.

I hope I'm wrong, but I have a feeling you may find this young man is already involved in plans which do not include marrying you, and I think if you were smart you'd brush him off before he does it to you.

Petition For Sale Of Knippenberg Estate Is Filed

A petition asking a decree for the sale of the 131-acre farm property and household effects of the late Henry P. Knippenberg and distribution of the proceeds as directed by his will was filed in circuit court Wednesday by Mr. and Mrs. Boyd C. Rice and Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Valentine against Frank Knippenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Easter Colliers and Frederick Knippenberg, surviving executor of the will of Henry Knippenberg.

The petition, filed by William H. Geppert counsel for the complainants, pointed out that Henry Knippenberg died October 14, 1911, and that his will left his estate to his widow, Mrs. Letitia Knippenberg, until her death or remarriage. In that event, the estate was to be sold, seven children were to receive specific shares and the balance was to be divided among four other children.

Mrs. Letitia Knippenberg died April 12, 1946, the petition states, pointing out that although her husband directed sale of the real estate he conferred no power of sale on the executor.

Thieves Fly Coop

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) — Pigeon rustlers stole all the birds from a coop. That made the owner angry. But he really lost his temper when the marauders came back and tried to take the coop. He called the police, who saved the coop but didn't catch the thieves.

Slight Decrease Noted In Medical Care Cost

Cost of administering the medical care program in the county last month was approximately $2,801.80, slightly less than in May, when bills from physicians and druggists exceeded $3,000, according to Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer and chairman of the county medical care board.

Thirty-eight doctors submitted a total of 314 bills to the health department, amounting to $2,202.20. Fifteen druggists sent in 530 bills, totaling $599.58. Six bills were submitted by five dentists, but the total amount of the bills was not stated.

Girl Wants To Wed Man Despite "Raw Deal" He Gave Her

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Would you say it was love that makes a girl go right ahead and marry a man who she believes has already given her a "raw deal"? Or would you say it was just plain foolishness?

Personally, I'm inclined to believe it's the latter, in the case of the girl who writes me as follows:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I'm a girl 18 years old and very much in love with a soldier from a distant state who is 19. He was stationed at a camp about 180 miles from my home town, and at every spare moment he wrote me, and on weekends he always managed to come down. We finally became engaged, not formally, but with the understanding that I'd wait for him and if I wanted to go out with other boys, it would be all right.

Battles With Herself

"One day I received a letter from him saying he was going overseas. Then the next day I received a letter from a buddie of his, stationed at the same base, telling me to send the mail to him and he would forward it. Instantly I knew the boy I am in love with was not going overseas but going home. Investigating a bit, I found he had reenlisted for a year and had 30 days furlough.

"Days and nights for a week I battled with myself, wanting to write him at his home address saying how much I hated him. Then, finally my pride, and, I must admit, my heart, could stand it no longer. I wrote to him, saying that I knew he was home and I was disappointed, but even though he wasn't honest about it, I would still have faith in him. I told him I loved, and worshipped him, and wanted to see him again.

"Then I received his letters again, explaining he had a reason for doing what he did, saying he loved me and would tell me all about it when he was down again. I miss him like crazy. Nights are nothing but nightmares, and through the day, when people go about me laughing, I begin to hate them for being happy.

Should Get Explanation

"Now today he wrote again, asking if I'd marry him in the near future. I want to marry him, and I will. But, Miss Fairfax, what do you think of the raw deal I received from him? I hardly know what to think, I only know I love him.

Since you've already made up your mind to marry this soldier, it seems rather odd that all you're writing me for is to ask if I don't think he gave you a raw deal. Is it possible that your mind isn't quite as firmly made up as you believe it is, and what you really want to know is, whether or not I think it would be wise to marry a man who treated you in such a way?

Flood Program May Halt Stadium Plans

Officials of the Department of the Interior informed a local delegation at a conference in Washington Tuesday that plans for a memorial sports stadium at Community park may have to be deferred because of a possible revision of Cumberland flood control plans involving that area.

Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, has been seeking to acquire the land where the park is located from the Department of the Interior, owners of the property.

The group making the trip included Robert V. Chisholm, chairman of the Legion stadium committee; Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, and John E. Sloan and J. Suter Kegg, members of the committee.

Congressman J. Glenn Beall, who has been working with Fort Cumberland Post in its efforts to secure the land, formerly the propery of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, arranged the meeting, held in the office of A. E. Demaray, associate director of the National Park Service, a bureau of the Department of the Interior.

Beall termed Community park as it now stands "a mosquito trap and eyesore," and asserted that the proposed stadium would be a definite improvement in the Wineow section of Cumberland .

Demaray said he could not speak for the Department of the Interior on leasing the land, but invited the local men to return to Washington for another conference after the flood control work is completed. He added that present plans for work to be done in the area "will not entirely destroy the land as a potential stadium site."

Beall estimated that it would take at least a year before final plans are mapped, an appropriation is obtained and actual flood work gets under way.

Alabaster is used in the manufacture of modern dishes, lampshades and powder boxes.

Local Woman Gets Lecture About Handling Drunks

Clifford McGettigan, 326 Bond street received a suspended sentence for drunk and disorderly conduct and his wife was given a lecture on how to handle a drunken husband, by Trial Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., Wednesday morning in police court.

Judge Bruce told Mrs. McGettigan that an adroit wife, under such circumstances, does not give her husband the gimlet eye, hands on hips and bark "You're drunk."

The thing to do is give him a little bit of the glad eye and suggest that he go to bed. When you tell a drunken man that he's drunk it serves no good purpose, the judge warned.

Reckless Driving Charge Placed Against Largent

Charges of reckless driving were placed against C. W. Largent, 35, Paw Paw, Wednesady morning as a result of an accident on Route 51 in which Charles Fleckenstein, 23, Magnolia, W. Va., was injured.

Arrested Tuesday night by state police, Largent was released yesterday morning from city jail and will be given a hearing July 30 in trial magistrates court, Cresaptown.

Fleckenstein, who was riding a motorcycle when it was reportedly struck by the pickup truck driven by Largent, was admitted to Memorial hospital Tuesday night suffering from lacerations and possible other injuries.

Police said the reckless driving charges was subject to change pending further reports on Fleckenstein's injuries. Attaches at the hospital said Fleckenstein is suffering from a possible fracture of the left ankle and contusions and abrasions of the face and hands. His condition was described as good, last night.

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., July 18—Andrew J. McDonald, Winchester, Va., was ordered held on a second charge Wednesday when he appeared before A. L. Russell, Moorefield justice of the peace but later was released on a $500 bond.

McDonald, reportedly the driver of a truck which crashed into a machine operated by James N. Hoard, 35, Bradley boulevard, Bethesda, Md., on Route 50, four miles east of Romney, last Friday night about 10 p. m. was released on bond of $1,000. He was ordered to appear before the grand jury on a manslaughter charge yesterday and was arraigned on a drunken driving charge and again bond was set at $500 for action of the grand jury.

Hoard was admitted to the Memorial hospital following the accident and died Saturday morning at 4:30 a. m.

McDonald was originally scheduled to be tried on the liquor charge Wednesday, but J. S. Zimmerman, prosecuting attorney for Hampshire county elected to hold him for action of the grand jury, since most of the witnesses were in Washington attending Hoard's funeral.

Four other persons, all passengers in the Hoard car were injured the night of the accident. They included Miss Delores Lilly, 19, Bethesda; Robert Rohrer, 19, Chevy Chase, Miss Nancy Smith, 18, Bethesda, and Donald Smith, 22, Washington.

KEEPING UP WITH

By DOROTHY MANNERS

HOLLYWOOD, July 18—Gene Raymond, who has been an actor since he was five years old, parks the make-up kit to turn director on three pictures for Eagle-Lion, kicking off in September with "Concerto of Death". Not only does Gene megaphone this one but he owns the screen rights to the story. Two months ago he bought Donald Henderson's English novel about a crime set to music and wrote his own adaptation.

It's a little on the ironic side that Gene should be retiring behind the cameras when he's never looked better in his life. If he is thinking of giving up acting permanently, he's azy-cray. They aren't the smart kids over there I think they are if they don't get their new director in front of the camera for one of the three movies. Meanwhile, Mrs. Raymond (Jeanette MacDonald) continues to score triumphs of her own, knocking them cold on a concert tour in England.

Sizzling across the mid-west on tour with her show, Mae West is reading the script of "Eddie and the Archangel Mike" with an eye toward returning to the movies. Robert Golden, has offered her the role of the newspaper woman who writes a column for the lovelorn (on asbestos, no doubt). The giggle is that she's searching the script for dignity and not the usual Mae West bon mots—which ain't doin' what comes naturally. But no one has ever accused her of not being smart—and Mae's fed up with movie censorship trouble.

The girl most likely to succeed for "Beth" in "Little Women" is Bambi Linn. David Selznick signed her right out of the New York cast of "Carousel" in which Bambi clicked and charmed as the young daughter. Agnes de Mille called her "the great young bet of American musical comedy"—and now she's practically set to walk into her first screen role in a tragic part—or have you forgotten that Beth is the little woman who dies? Mervin Le Roy is making the Linn tests this week.

— o —

What do you bet Maureen O'Hara's two lovely sisters, now in Hollywood, don't follow her onto the screen? Bill Goetz has already tested Claire Hamilton (professional name of sister Florence) with a term contract in mind. Claire, who is blue-eyed and brunette in contrast to Maureen's red hair, has made four British films and like her Hollywood famous sister, is a graduate of Dublin's Abbey Theatre. The other sister, Margot Fitzsimons (the family name) has also made British movies. She's just 19, married to Major Harry Edward of the U. S. Marine Corps and has a brand new son.

— o —

Judith Anderson and Luther Green planed back to Hollywood after their wedding in the east last week—but it won't be a long honeymoon. Luther returns to New York in ten days with his bride staying on to make "Pursued" at Warners. This picture commitment also throws a monkey wrench into his plans to star Judith on Broadway right away in "Come Of Age." Since this can't get going until later, he may get DeWitt Bodeen's new show, "The Bunner Sisters" rolling first.

Hollywood in shorts: One of Linda Darnell's next assignments at 20th is to take off a few pounds; Wow! did that top actress hit the the studio roof when she learned she had been "docked" for taking two days off because of an injured finger? Alan Ladd and magazine editor, Fred Sammis, out riding the other night decided to chase a skunk, result—Mr. Sammis was refused admittance to his hotel room and returned to the Ladd ranch where he was refused admittance by Mrs. Ladd. When he sought refuge in the dog house, it was found occupied by Mr. Ladd; That fight scene between Dick Powell and John Kellogg on the set of "Johnny O'Clock" was so rugged, Kellogg had to have medical attention from Dr. John Bell; Theodora Lynch (Mrs. Paul Getty) has her prematurely born son home from the hospital. They haven't decided on a name but lean toward Timothy; the beautiful gal driving down sunset boulevard in an open car wearing a tres decolette gown is Barbara Britton. She dresses for "Return of Monte Cristo" at home which certainly doesn't make the innocent bystanders mad; Mrs. Edward Knopf tosses a shower July 21 for Mrs. Gregory Peck who expects the baby in August; Katharine Hepburn heads for home in Hartford right after she finishes "Sea of Grass" in two weeks. She won't be back for several months; Lou Levy, manager of the Andrews Sisters, turned down a fabulous amount for his Leeds music publishing company; Little Cheryl Crane, daughter of Lana Turner and Steve Crane, turns a snappy three years old July 25 and her Ma's tossing a party for the nursery set; Kathryn Grayson's two nieces, Patricia and Madelon, are her house guests for summer vacation; Leif Erickson (formerly married to Frances Farmer) dining with his bride, Ann Diamond, at Pepe's. That's all today.

The girl most likely to succeed for "Beth" in "Little Women" is Bambi Linn. David Selznick signed her right out of the New York cast of "Carousel" in which Bambi clicked and charmed as the young daughter. Agnes de Mille called her "the great young bet of American musical comedy"—and now she's practically set to walk into her first screen role in a tragic part—or have you forgotten that Beth is the little woman who dies? Mervin Le Roy is making the Linn tests this week.

What do you bet Maureen O'Hara's two lovely sisters, now in Hollywood, don't follow her onto the screen? Bill Goetz has already tested Claire Hamilton (professional name of sister Florence) with a term contract in mind. Claire, who is blue-eyed and brunette in contrast to Maureen's red hair, has made four British films and like her Hollywood famous sister, is a graduate of Dublin's Abbey Theatre. The other sister, Margot Fitzsimons (the family name) has also made British movies. She's just 19, married to Major Harry Edward of the U. S. Marine Corps and has a brand new son.

—o—

Judith Anderson and Luther Green planed back to Hollywood after their wedding in the east last week—but it won't be a long honeymoon. Luther returns to New York in ten days with his bride staying on to make "Pursued" at Warners. This picture commitment also throws a monkey wrench into his plans to star Judith on Broadway right away in "Come Of Age." Since this can't get going until later, he may get DeWitt Bodeen's new show, "The Bunner Sisters" rolling first.

Hollywood in shorts: One of Linda Darnell's next assignments at 20th is to take off a few pounds; Wow! did that top actress hit the studio roof when she learned she had been "docked" for taking two days off because of an injured finger? Alan Ladd and magazine editor, Fred Sammis, out riding the other night decided to chase a skunk, result—Mr. Sammis was refused admittance to his hotel room and returned to the Ladd ranch where he was refused admittance by Mrs. Ladd. When he sought refuge in the dog house, it was found occupied by Mr. Ladd: That fight scene between Dick Powell and John Kellogg on the set of "Johnny O'Clock" was so rugged, Kellogg had to have medical attention from Dr John Bell; Theodora Lynch (Mrs. Paul Getty) has her prematurely born son home from the hospital. They haven't decided on a name but lean toward Timothy; the beautiful gal driving down sunset boulevard in an open car wearing a tres decolette gown is Barbara Britton. She dresses for "Return of Monte Cristo" at home which certainly doesn't make the innocent bystanders mad; Mrs. Edward Knopf tosses a shower July 21 for Mrs. Gregory Peck who expects the baby in August; Katharine Hepburn heads for home in Hartford right after she finishes "Sea of Grass" in two weeks. She won't be back for several months; Lou Levy, manager of the Andrews Sisters, turned down a fabulous amount for his Leeds music publishing company; Little Cheryl Crane, daughter of Lana Turner and Steve Crane, turns a snappy three years old July 25 and her Ma's tossing a party for the nursery set; Kathryn Grayson's two nieces, Patricia and Madelon, are her house guests for summer vacation; Leif Erickson (formerly married to Frances Farmer) dining with his bride, Ann Diamond, at Pepe's. That's all today.

LISTEN WORLD

(Registered U.S. Patent Office)

I'm getting considerably fed up with all this United Nations gabbie about how we're going to free our poor enslaved foreign sisters who lack the joyous independence of us emancipated American gals. Far as I can see, most of them don't know they are enslaved and are quite content with their present system, which works quite well if you know the angles. Indeed, many of these seemingly downtrodden dames consider us a bunch of meddlesome old Tizzies for trying to change things.

But will American womanhood allow such pathetic ignorance to stand in our way? I should say not! Lookit the wonders we have achieved since suffrage allowed us to put that monster man in his place and run our own lives! Compare the degrading regimentation of German frauns with the proud individuality of Miss America. Yes, siree—we're going to knock off their shackles and give them the ballot or bust.

Doesn't Want Individuality

All of which we've been hearing in endless columns, lectures and broadcasts since V-J day. Until I, for one, have got to speak up if it costs me my job.

This big talk about the magnificent individuality of the American female and her proud, free life is plain hooey, gals, and nothing else but.

We could be free. We could have all this proud and unrepressed personality you hear about. We have the machinery for it and the makings in ourselves, and nobody's stopping us. But the simple truth is—individuality is the last thing the American woman wants. And she'd yell her head off if anyone tried to make her practice what she preaches. For she adores her chains. She's nuts over regimentation.

You don't believe it? Then take a look. Look at our emancipated femmes lining up for blocks outside some store that has advertised a sale of nylons. One San Francisco store did that recently and they had to summon the police reserves and call off the sale before it was barely started. Time was when American women wore silk, cotton, lisle, rayon or what-have-you with content and confidence. But now you're nothing unless you're nyloned.

Permanents Are Style

And it doesn't end with the gams. Consider the hair-dos. Preceding generations managed to struggle along with some curl papers or maybe an extra "switch" for festivals. Today every female child from three to eighty has to have a permanent. Of course none of them are truly permanent. Few are beautiful. All of them hurt the hair and wreck the pocketbook. But permanents are the style and not one woman in a million has the courage to grow her own fur and twist it up as suits her best.

Freedom? Individuality? They're fine sounding words, sweetheart, but we're not having any today.

Thrones may totter, martyrs may be crucified, revolutions may roar in bloody tides but we'll go on following fashion regardless. No matter how grotesque, unbecoming, silly or ugly a style may be, we'll go for it if hell freezes.

And yet we're going to free our foreign sisters. We're going to show them how it feels to be free!

Just phone me when we start!

Habitual Fatigue Maybe Warning For Many Things

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

There is nothing like habitual fatigue to take the joy out of life. With energy for even the simplest tasks lacking, there is no zest for work, no pleasure in recreation.

This feeling of being always at the end of your rope may come from many different causes. It may be a simple case of working too long and sleeping too little. It may result from a dietary deficiency.

Sometimes, so-called neurasthenia or nerve exhaustion may be responsible. In a number of instances, the cause of overtiredness is found in a lessened amount of sugar in the blood.

Low Blood Sugar

Drs. Samuel C. Karlan and Clarence Cohn of the Medical Corps of the United States Army made a study of 100 patients who were suffering from fatigue, and in nine of these the symptoms were caused by a low blood sugar or hypoglycemia.

The main complaints were fatigue and dizziness. The fatigue from which these patients with hypoglycemia suffered was not continuous but occurred at definite times such as on getting up in the morning or several hours after eating. One of the patients had headache and pain in the chest every morning before eating.

All of the patients complained of dizzy spells of varying degree, and in a few there were fainting attacks. It was interesting to note that most of the patients also ate frequently because they were hungry and the conditions of all of them improved after eating. Exercise, in practically all of the cases, made the symptoms worse.

Use of Atropine

It has been reported that persons with hypoglycemia may be benefited by the use of the drug known as atropine, taken under the physician's directions. However, several of the patients, when given this preparation three times a day for seven days, reported no improvement. In fact, in one it was reported that the condition became worse.

It is possible to bring on symptoms in these patients by giving them injections of insulin, which is the secretion from the pancreas. Insulin has the effect of lowering the blood sugar.

A diagnosis of hypoglycemia is not too difficult to make. A test known as the sugar tolerance test is employed. In carrying out this test, an injection of glucose is given into a vein. Then the amount of sugar in the blood is determined at one-half-hour intervals for several hours.

In those cases where there is low blood sugar, it is found that the blood sugar does not rise as it should, but instead rises for a time and then decreases.

Patients with low blood sugar fortunately can be benefited by giving them diets rich in protein foods such as meat, milk, eggs and fish, as well as plenty of starches. Some of the protein is changed into sugar in the body.

Summer Party Fare

Fruit mold . . . Refreshing and Delicious

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

Here's a lovely party idea for midsummer, either for luncheon or afternoon refreshments after bridge. It's particularly nice for a bridal shower, too, in case you've any summer weddings coming up.

The molded salad suggested below is delectable and perfectly beautiful to look at. Turn the mold out and surround it with fresh watercress and strawberries with their stems on—or substitute raspberries, if strawberries have run out in your section. Fill the center of the salad with strawberry dressing (or again, substitute raspberries). It's prettiest made in ring shape.

To save wheat and provide a crisp contrast to the salad, serve with little cracker sandwiches. They're easy to make and are just the right size and shape for party fare.

If you want to make up little sandwiches ahead of time, try this neat trick: Brush each cracker lightly with unbeaten egg white and slip them into a 300° oven for 3 or 4 mins. This gives an invisible glaze to each cracker and keeps them oven crisp.

Fruit Mold

1—5-ounce package chive-cream cheese	2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 envelope plain unflavored gelatin	½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup cold water	1 cup pineapple juice
⅔ cup boiling water	1 cup crushed pineapple

Allow cheese to soften at room temperature about 1 hour. Soften gelatin in cold water, add boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add lemon juice, salt and pineapple juice. Cool until lukewarm. Add one-quarter cup of this mixture to softened cheese. Beat with rotary beater until smooth. Add remaining liquid gradually, beating thoroughly. Chill. When mixture just starts to set, fold in well-drained crushed pineapple. Pour into a ring mold that has been rinsed in cold water. Chill. Yield about 6 servings.

Strawberry Salad Dressing

1 tablespoon butter	2½ tablespoons lemon juice
6 tablespoons orange juice	⅔ cup crushed strawberries
¼ cup sugar	½ pint cream
2 egg yolks

Melt butter over hot water. Add orange and lemon juice, crushed strawberries and sugar. Blend well. Add to beaten egg yolks slowly, stirring constantly. Cool. Whip cream and fold into mixture. Yield about three cups.

Cracker Sandwich Suggestions

CRACKERS
Saltines
Whole Wheat Wafers
Round buttery crackers (with scalloped edges)
Cheese crackers
Oatmeal crackers
Graham crackers

FILLINGS
Minced hard cooked egg and pickle relish
Tuna fish, minced hard cooked egg and mayonnaise
Pimiento cheese
Deviled ham
Peanut butter and apple butter
Cream cheese and orange marmalade

Postal Employes Go Payless Here

Some 80 members of Cumberland's post office staff, including office personnel and carriers, are having a "payless payday" due to failure of Congress to pass the pending Treasury-Post Office Appropriation bill.

In view of the fact that funds to meet payrolls have not yet been appropriated, F. E. Wright, post office inspector in charge of the local office, said checks will not go out as the postmaster general has ruled it is unlawful to pay the employes until Congress acts.

The Post Office department fiscal year ended July 1 and Congress has not passed the bill to assure workers of their pay.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

Here's a lovely party idea for midsummer, either for luncheon or afternoon refreshments after bridge. It's particularly nice for a bridal shower, too, in case you've any summer weddings coming up.

The molded salad suggested below is delectable and perfectly beautiful to look at. Turn the mold out and surround it with fresh watercress and strawberries with their stems on—or substitute raspberries, if strawberries have run out in your section. Fill the center of the salad with strawberry dressing (or again, substitute raspberries). It's prettiest made in ring shape.

To save wheat and provide a crisp contrast to the salad, serve with little cracker sandwiches. They're easy to make and are just the right size and shape for party fare.

If you want to make up little sandwiches ahead of time, try this neat trick: Brush each cracker lightly with unbeaten egg white and slip them into a 300° oven for 3 or 4 mins. This gives an invisible glaze to each cracker and keeps them oven crisp.

Fruit Mold

1—5-ounce package chive-cream cheese
1 envelope plain unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
⅔ cup boiling water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup pineapple juice
1 cup crushed pineapple

Allow cheese to soften at room temperature about 1 hour. Soften gelatin in cold water, add boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add lemon juice, salt and pineapple juice. Cool until lukewarm. Add one-quarter cup of this mixture to softened cheese. Beat with rotary beater until smooth. Add remaining liquid gradually, beating thoroughly. Chill. When mixture just starts to set, fold in well-drained crushed pineapple. Pour into a ring mold that has been rinsed in cold water. Chill. Yield about 6 servings.

Strawberry Salad Dressing

1 tablespoon butter
6 tablespoons orange juice
¼ cup sugar
2 egg yolks
2½ tablespoons lemon juice
⅔ cup crushed strawberries
½ pint cream

Melt butter over hot water. Add orange and lemon juice, crushed strawberries and sugar. Blend well. Add to beaten egg yolks slowly, stirring constantly. Cool. Whip cream and fold into mixture. Yield about three cups.

Cracker Sandwich Suggestions

CRACKERS
Saltines
Whole Wheat Wafers
Round buttery crackers (with scalloped edges)
Cheese crackers
Oatmeal crackers

FILLINGS
Minced hard cooked egg and pickle relish
Tuna fish, minced hard cooked egg and mayonnaise
Pimiento cheese
Deviled ham
Peanut butter and apple butter
Cream cheese and orange marmalade

Postal Employes Go Payless Here

Some 80 members of Cumberland's post office staff, including office personnel and carriers, are having a "payless payday" due to failure of Congress to pass the pending Treasury-Post Office Appropriation bill.

In view of the fact that funds to meet payrolls have not yet been appropriated, F. E. Wright, post office inspector in charge of the local office, said checks will not go out as the postmaster general has ruled it is unlawful to pay the employes until Congress acts.

The Post Office department fiscal year ended July 1 and Congress has not passed the bill to assure workers of their pay.

Airport Proposed On McHenry Farm; Application Made

4,000-Foot Runway Could Be Built On Property, Oakland Man Says

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, July 18—Proposal to construct a second airport in the county and an application for a license has been filed with the Maryland State Aviation Commission. The license is sought for a site on the Curtis Savage farm near McHenry, by Savage and Dr. W. M. Reynolds, Oakland veterinarian.

The first application for a license was filed a few weeks ago by William Wildesen, Gormania, W. Va., manager of Hamilton air park. The air park is proposed for construction along Route 50, on the Hamilton farm, Red House.

Dr. Reynolds said that the sites both at Weber's and at H. J. Swartzentruber's, south of town, were too small, according to the specifications of the state aviation commission, not allowing enough clearance for large planes. The site on the Savage farm is large enough for the construction of a runway 4,000 feet long, Dr. Reynolds stated.

Assumes New Duties

Mrs. Mary B. Orr, who was appointed home demonstration agent for Garrett county several months ago, assumed her new duties this week.

Mrs. Orr is a gradute of home economics at West Virginia university, Morgantown, and is a native of Kingwood, W. Va., although she has resided at Morgantown for a number of years.

Mrs. Orr announced that her plans at the present time are to spend the next month or two in getting acquainted with her duties and to meet the various members of the Homemakers clubs throughout the county and others interested in extension work.

The Homemakers clubs have been conducting regular meetings since the first of the year and are carrying out their projects of home management, home furnishings and clothing. The new agent is taking the place of Mrs. Robert T. Hoffman, who resigned the first of the year.

W. A. Johnson, who has owned and operated the NuWay laundry in Oakland for a number of years, has sold his business to F. Robert Orr, John H. Wilson and Ralph Evick, Parsons, W. Va. The new owners expect to take possession on Monday, July 22, Johnson announced.

Johnson will continue to operate his secondhand laundry machinery business and will maintain his quarters in the new concrete block building which he is now erecting in the rear of his residence property on Center street.

Employes of the present laundry will remain with the new concern for the time being, it was stated. Johnson has operated a laundry in this area since 1923, being located for a few years at Rosedale, west of town, before moving to his present location.

Savage Named Chairman

Gilbert Savage, Friendsville, was elected chairman of the county Republican State Central committee at an organization meeting Tuesday afternoon. Earl Glotfelty, McHenry, was named secretary and Hugh Maffett, Oakland, treasurer. Benjamin H. Sincell is the other committee member and the only holdover from the former committee, which has served for the past four years.

Neil C. Fraley and Lewis R. Jones, Oakland; Ray McCullough, Friendsville; and Stewart Rodamer, Grantsville, official delegates to the Republican State convention, expect to be in Baltimore on Monday for the meeting, at which successful Republican candidates in the recent primary, and those who were unopposed, will be formally nominated.

Official delegates to the Democratic convention will also meet in Baltimore on Tuesday, July 23. Delegates from this county include W. R. Offutt, W. R. Browning and Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, all of Oakland. Garrett county is entitled to four representatives, but the Democratic committee has not yet filled the vacancy, according to A. T. Matthews, member.

Special Service To Be Held

The Forty Hours' devotion will open at St. Peter's Catholic church Sunday, with mass at 10 a. m., followed by solemn procession of the blessed sacrament. It will close Tuesday evening at 7:30, with benediction and a procession. In conducting the ceremonies, the Rev. Fr. George W. Shipper will be assisted by both Holy Cross and Carmelite priests from Deep Creek Lake, while 40 Holy Cross students will have charge of the music and liturgical chanting.

This devotion, Fr. Shipper explained, dates from the 12th century, and commemorates the 40 hours the body of the Savior remained in the sepulchre. It is a time of special prayers and adoration for members of the Catholic faith.

The "shelf life" of foods has been lengthened from one to five and even ten days by special experimental packaging.

OPA Measure

may be given full and official recognition and to the end that the crisis created by the drive to cripple and destroy price control may be met quickly through adequate guarantees for a stabilized national economy."

The shipbuilding delay was urged on the Maritime commission in connection with proposals to build two big liners for the South American trade at a cost of $34,800,000.

John R. Steelman, reconversion director, wrote the commission that the president wanted the project put off "at least a year." He said the big reason "is the possibility that the Congress will fail to extend effective price controls."

In Congress, meantime, Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the House Banking committee reported that "the prospects are dark for the restoration of any effective price controls."

Spence, chairman of the House conferees, talked to reporters after the Senate's agents, by a 4 to 3 vote, had turned down the House plan on ceilings for major food items.

One conferee, who cannot be named, described the situation as a "complete stalemate." However, a subcommittee composed of Senators Taft, Tobey (R-NH) and Radcliffe (D-Md) went to work in an attempt to have a counter proposal on the foods controls ready for a meeting of the conference committee tomorrow.

Want To Give OPA Leeway

President Truman has indicated he will not sign a bill which prohibits controls on major food items. Administration forces have also wanted to give OPA leeway in granting price increases on manufactured articles.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), target of bitter criticism from Mr. Truman because of a pricing amendment he sponsored in the OPA bill which the president vetoed last month, wanted the discretionary authority taken out of the new measure. Such a change would bring it nearer to the Taft pricing amendment in the vetoed bill which drew the president's fire.

In the face of a threatened hopeless deadlock on OPA legislation, Rep. Barry (D-NY), a member of the House-Senate committee, issued a statement saying that if no compromise is reached he will introduce a bill intended to empower the president to restore price controls by executive order if price increases warrant such action.

Meanwhile, there were these other OPA developments:

1. Mr. Truman told his news conference that a successor to resigned Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles will be named if he gets an OPA law under which a successor can function. As to whether he will get one, the executive told a newsman that your guess is as good as mine.

2. Senator Wiley (R-Wis) suggested to the Senate that OPA "stay dead" for 60 to 90 days, to see if "the American free enterprise system" cannot demonstrate ability to get along without controls.

3. Rep. Baldwin (R-NY) introduced a bill to authorize the president to ration "any commodity which the health and welfare of the community requires."

ernment to take a more active participating role in the requested wage-stabilization conference.

Murray declined to say what figure the CIO would propose for worker wage increases at the meeting sought to be called. He said that prices now are too unstable to fix any desired wage increase figure.

In connection with any prospective no-strike pledge from the CIO, Murray said that as of now the CIO was "not prepared to give a no-strike commitment." He indicated the CIO would reserve such a pledge until such a time as it felt conditions for a stable economy seemed assured.

Army Dismisses

J. H. Mason, an assistant to Secretary of War Patterson in charge of industrial relations, said that the discharge of the employes had "no connection whatever with their union activities."

Law Used Sparingly

The five, described as officers of Local No. 250 of the United Public Workers of America (CIO), were identified by the War department as:

Harry Spector, Irving Spector, Abraham Kotelchuck, Phil Weiss and Rheabel Mendelsohn. The last named is a woman.

General Parks told reporters the five were discharged effective June 26 under provisions of Public Law No. 808 which empowers the Secretaries of War and Navy to remove any employe "in the interest of national defense."

Mason said the law has been used "very sparingly."

He added that "only a few dozen" of the approximately 2,000,000 persons who have been employed by the War department through the war had been removed under its provisions.

"This ought to show that the War department hasn't gone off half-cocked to 'witchhunt, red bait, or bust' unions," Mason said.

General Parks and Mason declined to specify what led to the discharge of the five.

Not Routine Workers

Aberdeen is the Army Ordnance Department's headquarters for experiments in all kinds of weapons, including rockets, guided missiles, and big guns.

Mason said that the five were not mere routine workers but some were "physicists or chemists."

General Parks said that a delegation headed by Arthur Stein, international vice president of the United Public Workers, had demanded vainly for the last two days to see Secretary Patterson at the War department. But that Patterson had taken the position that he would not "predudge" an appeal from the discharge action. The statute allows 30 days for such an appeal to the Secretary of War.

Abram Flaxer, national president of the United Public Workers, told a reporter the discharge of the five union officers looks like "an obvious union-busting device."

Discharge Curious

He said it was "curious" that the five were discharged only now, "almost a year after the war."

The United Public Workers is a new union, organized last April by the merger of two other unions of governmental employees.

A clause in the new union's constitution as adopted at Atlantic City in April was widely interpreted as leaving the way open for possible strikes against the federal government.

After such interpretations had been published, congress inserted in a number of appropriations bills a clause that none of the money could be paid to members of unions which asserted the right to strike against the government.

P.T.A. Suggests

the state needed more junior colleges.

On the school lunch suggestion, the conference urged:

"That a large staff directed by the state board of education be added to supplement and direct federal management and dispensing of school lunch funds as passed by congress."

Convention speakers had explained that the lunch fund presently is administered by a state board not connected with the school board. Some of them suggested that the state school board have more control over the funds.

At the final session of the three-day conference, Dr. Henry Brechbill, acting dean of the college of education, awarded certificates to 10[illegible] delegates who had attended every session.

Robert Benchley, the late humorist and movie actor, once translated French catalogues for the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

Airport Proposed On McHenry Farm; Application Made

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, July 18—Proposal to construct a second airport in the county and an application for a license has been filed with the Maryland State Aviation Commission. The license is sought for a site on the Curtis Savage farm near McHenry, by Savage and Dr. W. M. Reynolds, Oakland veterinarian.

The first application for a license was filed a few weeks ago by William Wildesen, Gormania, W. Va., manager of Hamilton air park. The air park is proposed for construction along Route 50, on the Hamilton farm, Red House.

Dr. Reynolds said that the sites both at Weber's and at H. J. Swartzentruber's, south of town, were too small, according to the specifications of the state aviation commission, not allowing enough clearance for large planes. The site on the Savage farm is large enough for the construction of a runway 4,000 feet long, Dr. Reynolds stated.

Assumes New Duties

Mrs. Mary B. Orr, who was appointed home demonstration agent for Garrett county several months ago, assumed her new duties this week.

Mrs. Orr is a gradute of home economics at West Virginia university, Morgantown, and is a native of Kingwood, W. Va., although she has resided at Morgantown for a number of years.

Mrs. Orr announced that her plans at the present time are to spend the next month or two in getting acquainted with her duties and to meet the various members of the Homemakers clubs throughout the county and others interested in extension work.

The Homemakers clubs have been conducting regular meetings since the first of the year and are carrying out their projects of home management, home furnishings and clothing. The new agent is taking the place of Mrs. Robert T. Hoffman, who resigned the first of the year.

W. A. Johnson, who has owned and operated the NuWay laundry in Oakland for a number of years, has sold his business to F. Robert Orr, John H. Wilson and Ralph Evick, Parsons, W. Va. The new owners expect to take possession on Monday, July 22, Johnson announced.

Johnson will continue to operate his secondhand laundry machinery business and will maintain his quarters in the new concrete block building which he is now erecting in the rear of his residence property on Center street.

Employes of the present laundry will remain with the new concern for the time being, it was stated. Johnson has operated a laundry in this area since 1923, being located for a few years at Rosedale, west of town, before moving to his present location.

Savage Named Chairman

Gilbert Savage, Friendsville, was elected chairman of the county Republican State Central committee at an organization meeting Tuesday afternoon. Earl Glotfelty, McHenry, was named secretary and Hugh Maffett, Oakland, treasurer. Benjamin H. Sincell is the other committee member and the only holdover from the former committee, which has served for the past four years.

Neil C. Fraley and Lewis R. Jones, Oakland; Ray McCullough, Friendsville; and Stewart Rodamer, Grantsville, official delegates to the Republican State convention, expect to be in Baltimore on Monday for the meeting, at which successful Republican candidates in the recent primary, and those who were unopposed, will be formally nominated.

Official delegates to the Democratic convention will also meet in Baltimore on Tuesday, July 23. Delegates from this county include W. R. Offutt, W. R. Browning and Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, all of Oakland. Garrett county is entitled to four representatives, but the Democratic committee has not yet filled the vacancy, according to A. T. Matthews, member.

Special Service To Be Held

The Forty Hours' devotion will open at St. Peter's Catholic church Sunday, with mass at 10 a. m., followed by solemn procesion of the blessed sacrament. It will close Tuesday evening at 7:30, with benediction and a procession. In conducting the ceremonies, the Rev. Fr. George W. Shipper will be assisted by both Holy Cross and Carmelite priests from Deep Creek Lake, while 40 Holy Cross students will have charge of the music and liturgical chanting.

This devotion, Fr. Shipper explained, dates from the 12th century, and commemorates the 40 hours the body of the Savior remained in the sepulchre. It is a time of special prayers and adoration for members of the Catholic faith.

The "shelf life" of foods has been lengthened from one to five and even ten days by special experimental packaging.

OPA Measure

may be given full and official recognition and to the end that the crisis created by the drive to cripple and destroy price control may be met quickly through adequate guarantees for a stabilized national economy."

The shipbuilding delay was urged on the Maritime commission in connection with proposals to build two big liners for the South American trade at a cost of $34,800,000.

John R. Steelman, reconversion director, wrote the commission that the president wanted the project put off "at least a year." He said the big reason "is the possibility that the Congress will fail to extend effective price controls."

In Congress, meantime, Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the House Banking committee reported that "the prospects are dark for the restoration of any effective price controls."

Spence, chairman of the House conferees, talked to reporters after the Senate's agents, by a 4 to 3 vote, had turned down the House plan on ceilings for major food items.

One conferee, who cannot be named, described the situation as a "complete stalemate." However, a subcommittee composed of Senators Taft, Tobey (R-NH) and Radcliffe (D-Md) went to work in an attempt to have a counter proposal on the foods controls ready for a meeting of the conference committee tomorrow.

Want To Give OPA Leeway

President Truman has indicated he will not sign a bill which prohibits controls on major food items. Administration forces have also wanted to give OPA leeway in granting price increases on manufactured articles.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), target of bitter criticism from Mr. Truman because of a pricing amendment he sponsored in the OPA bill which the president vetoed last month, wanted the discretionary authority taken out of the new measure. Such a change would bring it nearer to the Taft pricing amendment in the vetoed bill which drew the president's fire.

In the face of a threatened hopeless deadlock on OPA legislation, Rep. Barry (D-NY), a member of the House-Senate committee, issued a statement saying that if no compromise is reached he will introduce a bill intended to empower the president to restore price controls by executive order if price increases warrant such action.

Meanwhile, there were these other OPA developments:

1. Mr. Truman told his news conference that a successor to resigned Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles will be named if he gets an OPA law under which a successor can function. As to whether he will get one, the executive told a newsman that your guess is as good as mine.

2. Senator Wiley (R-Wis) suggested to the Senate that OPA "stay dead" for 60 to 90 days, to see if "the American free enterprise system" cannot demonstrate ability to get along without controls.

3. Rep. Baldwin (R-NY) introduced a bill to authorize the president to ration "any commodity which the health and welfare of the community requires."

ernment to take a more active participating role in the requested wage-stabilization conference.

Murray declined to say what figure the CIO would propose for worker wage increases at the meeting sought to be called. He said that prices now are too unstable to fix any desired wage increase figure.

In connection with any prospective no-strike pledge from the CIO, Murray said that as of now the CIO was "not prepared to give a no-strike commitment." He indicated the CIO would reserve such a pledge until such a time as it felt conditions for a stable economy seemed assured.

for the government to prepare a rationing scheme in full consultation with the trade and the bakers, but not to enforce it until the necessity is proved."

Army Dismisses

J. H. Mason, an assistant to Secretary of War Patterson in charge of industrial relations, said that the discharge of the employes had "no connection whatever with their union activities."

Law Used Sparingly

The five, described as officers of Local No. 250 of the United Public Workers of America (CIO), were identified by the War department as:

Harry Spector, Irving Spector, Abraham Koteichuck, Phil Weiss and Rheabel Mendelsohn. The last named is a woman.

General Parks told reporters the five were discharged effective June 26 under provisions of Public Law No. 808 which empowers the Secretaries of War and Navy to remove any employe "in the interest of national defense."

Mason said the law has been used "very sparingly."

He added that "only a few dozen" of the approximately 2,000,000 persons who have been employed by the War department through the war had been removed under its provisions.

"This ought to show that the War department hasn't gone off half-cocked to "witchhunt, red bait, or bust' unions," Mason said.

General Parks and Mason declined to specify what led to the discharge of the five.

Not Routine Workers

Aberdeen is the Army Ordnance Department's headquarters for experiments in all kinds of weapons, including rockets, guided missiles, and big guns.

Mason said that the five were no mere routine workers but some were "physicists or chemists."

General Parks said that a delegation headed by Arthur Stein, international vice president of the United Public Workers, had demanded vainly for the last two days to see Secretary Patterson at the War department. But that Patterson had taken the position that he would not "predudge" an appeal from the discharge action. The statute allows 30 days for such an appeal to the Secretary of War.

Abram Flaxer, national president of the United Public Workers, told a reporter the discharge of the five union officers looks like "an obvious union-busting device."

Discharge Curious

He said it was "curious" that the five were discharged only now, "almost a year after the war."

The United Public Workers is a new union, organized last April by the merger of two other unions of governmental employees.

A clause in the new union's constitution as adopted at Atlantic City in April was widely interpreted as leaving the way open for possible strikes against the federal government.

After such interpretations had been published, congress inserted in a number of appropriations bills a clause that none of the money could be paid to members of unions which asserted the right to strike against the government.

the state needed more junior colleges.

On the school lunch suggestion, the conference urged:

"That a large staff directed by the state board of education be added to supplement and direct federal management and dispensing of school lunch funds as passed by congress."

Convention speakers had explained that the lunch fund presently is administered by a state board not connected with the school board. Some of them suggested that the state school board have more control over the funds.

At the final session of the three day conference, Dr. Henry Brechbill, acting dean of the college of education, awarded certificates to 10 delegates who had attended every session.

Robert Benchley, the late humorist and movie actor, once translated French catalogues for the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

ST. LOUIS, July 18. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals returned to first place in the National League tonight by defeating the Philadelphia Phillies, 5 to 4, in a ding-dong battle after Cincinnati had run the Brooklyn Dodgers' losing streak to six straight.

Regaining sole possession of the lead for the first time since May 21, the Cardinals virtually clinched the decision, their 12th in their last 15 games, with a four-run outburst in the fourth inning, touched off by Whitey Kurowski's ninth homer of the season. Box:

Midget League's Second Half Race To Open Monday

Teams Will Play 10 Games; First Half Title Is At Stake Today

Harold E. Naughton, president, last night announced that the Midget Baseball League will open its second half race on Monday, July 22, with Mapleside and Mower's scheduled to clash at Stitcher Field.

Each of the six teams in the circuit will play ten games during the last half. Prior to August 1 when the City League ends its season games will be played by league teams on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Sunday. After August 1 arrangements will be made to stage Tuesday and Thursday contests.

Rosters of fifteen players per team must be in the hands of the league president by tomorrow.

Naughton urged teams to be more punctual in reporting games for publication and praised the clubs for the spirit they have shown during the first half race.

The first half championship of the league is at stake today when Jerry's Confectioners play the Lover's Leap Service Station at Stitcher field at 5:30 o'clock. Judy and Arnone are expected to be the pitchers. The playoff game was necessitated when the teams ended the first half schedule deadlocked for first place.

Legion Increases City League Lead, Tops Brewers, 9-8

Garbark's Outfit Takes Fourth Straight Game From Queen City

Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, stretched its lead in the City Baseball League to three and one-half games by defeating the Queen City Brewers yesterday at Stitcher Field by the score of 9-8.

It was the fourth straight win for Manager Art Garbark's aggregation over the Bi-State leaguers as well as the eleventh victory in twelve starts for the Legionnaires.

Teams Get 28 Hits

Each team banged out 14 hits and the Legion finally won out in the final frame of the five-inning contest by marking up three runs. The Brewers led 7-6 going into the fifth when George Geatz and Jim Fahey doubled to put the Legion all - even. Elmer Freeland was safe on Doak's error and the Legion got another tally when Fahey pilfered home and Freeland swiped second. Ed Drew drove Freeland home with a single. Diehl doubled and Garbark was purposely passed, filling the bases. Then Drew was thrown out at the plate on Gerdeman's fielder's choice.

Queen City threatened in the last of the fifth and Pat "Lefty" Creegan came to the rescue of Jim Evans by fanning Minnicks with two out, one run over and two runners on the paths.

Stevenson Is Loser

Bill Stevenson, who relieved Lefty Lee in the third inning, was charged with the defeat.

Tommy Powers figured in two plays in which Queen City runners were mowed down trying to score. When Deremer tried to stretch a triple into a homer Powers rifled the ball to Norm Gerdeman, who lined the ball home to nip the runner. On another occasion Powers cut down Lee with a perfect throw home. Lynch, of Queen City, turned in a fielding gem in the first when he speared George Geatz's line drive and doubled Gerdeman off first base.

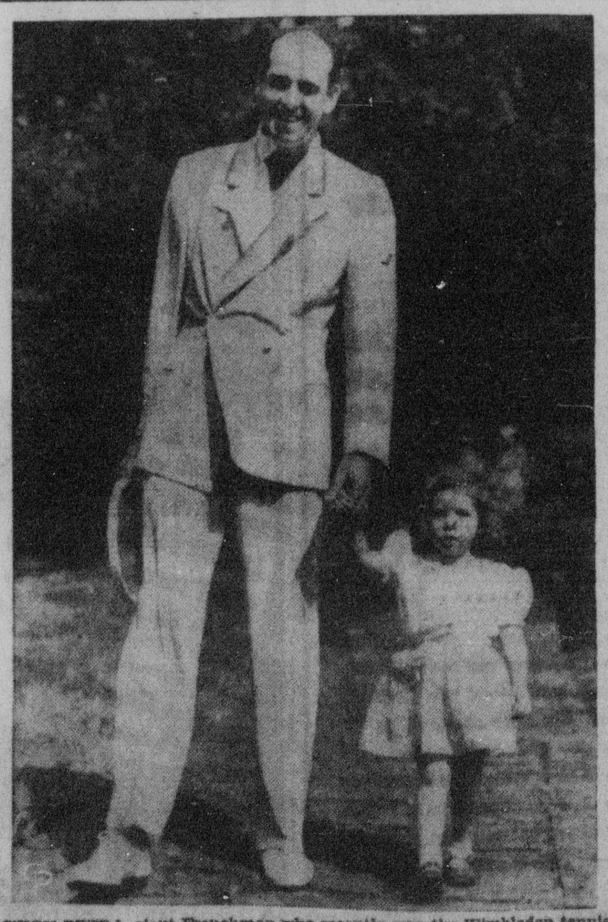

Jim Fahey with three hits and Diehl, Garbark, Gerdeman, Geatz and Drew with two each were the "big guns" for the Legion while Lynch, Deremer, Mulvey, Stevenson and Lee each hit safely twice for the losers. Box:

Legion Increases City League Lead, Tops Brewers, 9-8

Garbark's Outfit Takes Fourth Straight Game From Queen City

Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, stretched its lead in the City Baseball League to three and one-half games by defeating the Queen City Brewers yesterday at Stitcher Field by the score of 9-8.

It was the fourth straight win for Manager Art Garbark's aggregation over the Bi-State leaguers as well as the eleventh victory in twelve starts for the Legionnaires.

Teams Get 28 Hits

Each team banged out 14 hits and the Legion finally won out in the final frame of the five-inning contest by marking up three runs. The Brewers led 7-6 going into the fifth when George Geatz and Jim Fahey doubled to put the Legion all - even. Elmer Freeland was safe on Doak's error and the Legion got another tally when Fahey pilfered home and Freeland swiped second. Ed Drew drove Freeland home with a single. Diehl doubled and Garbark was purposely passed, filling the bases. Then Drew was thrown out at the plate on Gerdeman's fielder's choice.

Queen City threatened in the last of the fifth and Pat "Lefty" Creegan came to the rescue of Jim Evans by fanning Minnicks with two out, one run over and two runners on the paths.

Stevenson Is Loser

Bill Stevenson, who relieved Lefty Lee in the third inning, was charged with the defeat.

Tommy Powers figured in two plays in which Queen City runners were mowed down trying to score. When Deremer tried to stretch a triple into a homer Powers rifled the ball to Norm Gerdeman, who lined the ball home to nip the runner. On another occasion Powers cut down Lee with a perfect throw home. Lynch, of Queen City, turned in a fielding gem in the first when he speared George Geatz's line drive and doubled Gerdeman off first base.

Jim Fahey with three hits and Diehl, Garbark, Gerdeman, Geatz and Drew with two each were the "big guns" for the Legion while Lynch, Deremer, Mulvey, Stevenson and Lee each hit safely twice for the losers. Box:

Coan, who travels faster than news of a nylon sale, smacked a high fly that rolled to the centerfield fence. He whizzed around the bases so fast that the play at home was only a gesture. Score:

Lewis led the Texcel attack with four hits while Cecil Warnick and Dyers rapped out three blows each. Every player in Texcel's lineup obtained one or more hits to hand Scaletta his second setback. He has won eight games.

Bob Pollack, Texcel hurler, kept the Knights' seven hits well spaced.

The Elks biffed the offerings of Russ Minnicks for ten safeties, Dick Bruce, Grafton Wallis and Mel Henry leading the bombardment wiht two hits each. The victory was Wallis's fourth straight.

Scoring seven runs in the first inning, the Woodmen of the World got off to a flying start as they crushed Potomac Edison at East Side field, 11-3. Three walks coupled with an error, Welterman's double, Hollen's triple and Benchie Often's homer with True and Hollen board produced the seven markers in the initial frame. Morrison homered for P.E.

Golfers To Wear Numbers

By C. V. BURNS

Fred Davis, former Fort Hill football and basketball ace, has accepted a scholarship at the University of Maryland, and will report to Coach Clark Shaughnessy at College Park August 19, at which time the Terrapins will start football practice.

A former GI, Davis starred as end for Coach John J. Long's Sentinels in 1941 and played the same position for the Hilltoppers under Coach Bill Hahn in 1942. Freddie played basketball at Fort Hill for several seasons under Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh.

It is understood that Davis, who stands 6 feet 4 and tips the beam around the 225-pound mark turned down offers from West Virginia and Georgia Tech to accept the athletic scholarship at the Maryland school.

North End Social and Athletic Club, which plays Williams Street's Merchants today in first real important battle of the City Softball League's second half race, has scored an average of ten runs per game in its last five winning starts.

"Sparky" Chisholm's warriors have piled up 51 runs and held the opposition to four tallies in defeating the Maccabees, 16-6, Keegan's Jupers 8-0, Lacy's Delicatets, 10-2, V.F.W. 7-2 and American Legion 10-0. Allan Sheetz has won three of the games and Bob Stallings copped two.

Stallings is now on the inactive list following an appendectomy. That's why Sheetz already has pitched two games this week and won both of them via the shutout route, the latter being a no-run, no-hit contest.

Skipper Enoch Price's Farrady Post, American Legion tossers, trailing Westvaco by two full games in the Bi-State Baseball League race, faces two real tests in as many days when they meet head-on with Westvaco in Westernport tomorrow and battle the Reds at Centerville on Sunday. The Mountain City outfit has made an excellent showing to date with its one-man pitching staff ("Speed" Lambert) and Price, no doubt, is wondering whether to throw his ace at Westvaco or Centerville. The Pulpmen have three first-class twirlers in See, Thomas and Ryan while the Reds have a pair of aces in Paul Clapper and Bob Cook.

Both games are "naturals" and should attract large crowds.

George S. May, sponsor of the All-American Golf Tournament, which will be held at the Tam O'Shanter Country Club, Chicago, next weekend, reveals that wearing a number, as in football or track, for the benefit of the spectators, will have a cash value to professional players.

For example, first prize will be $10,500 if the winner wears a number—$8,082.56 if he does not. The difference is about 16 per cent.

The All-American is the world's richest golf tournament. Prize money will total $50,875. Of this total $45,600 will go to the professionals.

May is head of a business engineering firm which bears his name.

Bulla Cops Top Money In Victory Tourney Warm-up

Johnny Wins $1,000 Bond In Preliminary To $10,000 Event

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, July 18 (AP)—Towering Johnny Bulla of Chicago, fashioning a five-under-par 137, today was top money winner in a complicated 36-hole warm-up for the $10,000 Victory National Open Golf Tournament which starts tomorrow at Medinah Country Club.

Bulla, who today added a one-under-par 70 to his 67 of yesterday, failed to figure in any of the three preliminary championships — for pro-amateur, pro-lady and pro-senior titles — but as low professional, Johnny walked off with the top prize, a $1,000 war bond.

The pro-amateur title went to an unheralded team, Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, who finished today with a sizzling 67, equalling the course competitive record, and simon-pure Mike Stefancik of Hobart, Ind., with a 36-hole aggregate of 291.

Hogan and Suggs Score

The nation's leading money-winner, Ben Hogan, and Georgian Louise Suggs, winner of the recent women's western open, teamed to take the pro-lady crown with 301. The pro-senior title went to Harold (Jug) McSpaden, who fired a 68 today for a 138 total, a stroke behind Bulla, and Arnold Minkley of Chicago with 301.

Each of the team conquests paid the pro $400 in war bonds.

Nelson Slumps To 149

Byron Nelson's heavily favored foursome, also including Stranahan, Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., and Senior Chick Evans of Chicago failed to place better than third in any of the three events. The Toledo sharp-shooter, himself, defending champion in the open proper, struggled over Medinah's par-71 No. 3 course for an unimpressive 74-74—149.

Hogan, co-favorite with Nelson in the open, stormed over today's 18 in 68 for a 38-hole aggregate of 141.

IN ANY LANGUAGE, IT'S STILL BEISBOL

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—The Latin-American sports fan's vocabulary is becoming increasingly Anglicized. Some terms such as golf, polo and rugby have been appropriated without change while others have been revised so that their phonetic spelling matches the English pronunciation.

Tenis should be an easy one for those who know no Spanish. Nor is it difficult to figure out futbol, and basquetbol, the latter a game wherein both teams try to shoot gols.

Beisbol is growing in popularity and like the players in the U. S., the Latin American bateadores try for jonrons, triples, dobles or at the very least a hit that will put them on primer base.

Boxeo is a popular sport in the larger cities where fanaticos fill the estadios clamoring for a noqueout.

Athenia Scores Upset In Arlington Feature

CHICAGO, July 18 (AP)—In an astonishing upset, the Kentucky-bred Athenia, snatched $19,700 first money in the $28,700 Cleopatra Handicap for three year old fillies at Arlington Park today, defeating the 1 to 2 eastern favorite, Athene, by a length and a quarter.

Athenia was one of an entry entered today by Hal Price Headley, Lexington, Ky., sportsman. Athenia's stablemate, Bogle, cut out a fast pace. When Bogle started to wilt on the stretch turn, Jockey Douglas Dodson aboard Athenia moved up swiftly from third place to take up the victorious challenge.

The Headley pair was overlooked in the wagering and went to the post at odds of 16 to 1, returning $34.80, $6.60 and $5.20.

Dishong, Everett Twirler, Limits Reds To 3 Hits

Centerville's Bi-State Club Is Defeated In 4-2 Contest

CENTERVILLE, Pa., July 18—Dishong's three-hit pitching coupled with an eleven-hit attack enabled Everett to defeat the Centerville Reds of the Bi-State League here today by the score of 4-2.

The visitors bunched their hits with errors for two runs in the third and a like number of tallies in the fourth. The Reds were charged with six fielding bobbles.

Third Baseman Bobby Cook, of Centerville, was knocked out in the fourth inning when Karns, Everett catcher, collided with him while in the ninth inning a foul tip from his own bat knocked David Rose, Reds' infielder, unconscious but he finished the game.

Steach, Weicht, Begufath paced the Everett swatsmiths with two hits each and Karns belted a triple.

Centerville started the game minus four regulars and in the eighth inning Roy Mickey and Glentis Street, who broke into the lineup as pinch-hitter, singled during a two-run rally to account for two of the locals' three safeties. The other bingle was credited to the veteran Pete Cook. Dishong struck out eight batters.

Glen Evans, Hyndman hurler, and Pete Elliott, of the Cumberland Eagles, pitched the first eight innings for the locals and Lefty Milt Rose finished the game.

The Romney - Centerville game here Saturday will start at 3 p. m., instead of 2:30 while the Sunday contest with Frostburg is set for 2:30 o'clock. Score:

The Texcel Club provided a surprise in the Rocking Chair Softball League yesterday when it defeated the pace-setting Knights of Columbus 13-3 and reduced the latter's lead to two and one-half games over the B.P.O. Elks, who took the measure of the Loyal Order of Moose at Taylor field by the score of 8-2.

Texcel teed off on Anthony "Bud" Scaletta and his successor, Joe Neubiser, for a total of twenty-two hits to hand the league leaders the most decisive defeat of the current campaign.

Lewis led the Texcel attack with four hits while Cecil Warnick and Dyers rapped out three blows each. Every player in Texcel's lineup obtained one or more hits to hand Scaletta his second setback. He has won eight games.

Bob Pollack, Texcel hurler, kept the Knights' seven hits well spaced.

Elks Pound Ball

The Elks biffed the offerings of Russ Minnicks for ten safeties, Dick Bruce, Grafton Wallis and Mel Henry leading the bombardment wiht two hits each. The victory was Wallis's fourth straight.

Scoring seven runs in the first inning, the Woodmen of the World got off to a flying start as they crushed Potomac Edison at East Side field, 11-3. Three walks coupled with an error, Welterman's double, Hollen's triple and Benchie Often's homer with True and Hollen board produced the seven markers in the initial frame. Morrison homered for P.E.

Brace Lee, Mike Weltman and Benchie Often got two hits apiece for the winner. The latter also drew two walks.

Outdoor Moves Up

Weltman limited Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, to three hits as the Cumberland Outdoor Club defeated American Legion at Fort Hill 8-2. The victors smacked 13 hits and Hahn knocked a homer in the third with two on the paths.

The Outdoor Club moved into third place following yesterday's victory while the Loyal Order of Moose, Woodmen and Texcel are deadlocked for fourth position. The scores:

Golfers To Wear Numbers

By C. V. BURNS

Fred Davis, former Fort Hill football and basketball ace, has accepted a scholarship at the University of Maryland, and will report to Coach Clark Shaughnessy at College Park August 19, at which time the Terrapins will start football practice.

A former GI, Davis starred as end for Coach John J. Long's Sentinels in 1941 and played the same position for the Hilltoppers under Coach Bill Hahn in 1942. Freddie played basketball at Fort Hill for several seasons under Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh.

It is understood that Davis, who stands 6 feet 4 and tips the beam around the 225-pound mark turned down offers from West Virginia and Georgia Tech to accept the athletic scholarship at the Maryland school.

North End Social and Athletic Club, which plays Williams Street's Merchants today in first real important battle of the City Softball League's second half race, has scored an average of ten runs per game in its last five winning starts.

"Sparky" Chisholm's warriors have piled up 51 runs and held the opposition to four tallies in defeating the Maccabees, 16-0, Keegan's Jupers 8-0, Lacy's Delicatets, 10-2, V.F.W. 7-2 and American Legion 10-0. Allan Sheetz has won three of the games and Bob Stallings copped two.

Stallings is now on the inactive list following an appendectomy. That's why Sheetz already has pitched two games this week and won both of them via the shutout route, the latter being a no-run, no-hit contest.

Skipper Enoch Price's Parrady Post, American Legion tossers, trailing Westvaco by two full games in the Bi-State Baseball League race, faces two real tests in as many days when they meet head-on with Westvaco in Westernport tomorrow and battle the Reds at Centerville on Sunday. The Mountain City outfit has made an excellent showing to date with its one-man pitching staff ("Speed" Lambert) and Price, no doubt, is wondering whether to throw his ace at Westvaco or Centerville. The Pulpmen have three first-class twirlers in See, Thomas and Ryan, while the Reds have a pair of aces in Paul Clapper and Bob Cook.

Both games are "naturals" and should attract large crowds.

George S. May, sponsor of the All-American Golf Tournament, which will be held at the Tam O'Shanter Country Club, Chicago, next weekend, reveals that wearing a number, as in football or track, for the benefit of the spectators, will have a cash value to professional players.

For example, first prize will be $10,500 if the winner wears a number—$9,082.56 if he does not. The difference is about 16 per cent.

The All-American is the world's richest golf tournament. Prize money will total $50,875. Of this total $45,600 will go to the professionals.

May is head of a business engineering firm which bears his name.

Johnny Wins $1,000 Bond In Preliminary To $10,000 Event

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, July 18 (AP)—Towering Johnny Bulla of Chicago, fashioning a five-under-par 137, today was top money winner in a complicated 36-hole warm-up for the $10,000 Victory National Open Golf Tournament which starts tomorrow at Medinah Country Club.

Bulla, who today added a one-under-par 70 to his 67 of yesterday, failed to figure in any of the three preliminary championships — for pro-amateur, pro-lady and pro-senior titles — but as low professional, Johnny walked off with the top prize, a $1,000 war bond.

The pro-amateur title went to an unheralded team, Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, who finished today with a sizzling 67, equalling the course competitive record, and simon-pure Mike Stefancik of Hobart, Ind., with a 36-hole aggregate of 291.

Hogan and Suggs Score

The nation's leading money-winner, Ben Hogan, and Georgian Louise Suggs, winner of the recent women's western open, teamed to take the pro-lady crown with 301. The pro-senior title went to Harold (Jug) McSpaden, who fired a 68 today for a 138 total, a stroke behind Bulla, and Arnold Minkley of Chicago with 301.

Each of the team conquests paid the pro $400 in war bonds.

Nelson Slumps To 149

Byron Nelson's heavily favored foursome, also including Stranahan, Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., and Senior Chick Evans of Chicago failed to place better than third in any of the three events. The Toledo sharp-shooter, himself, defending champion in the open proper, struggled over Medinah's par-71 No. 3 course for an unimpressive 74-74—149.

Hogan, co-favorite with Nelson in the open, stormed over today's 18 in 68 for a 36-hole aggregate of 141.

IN ANY LANGUAGE, IT'S STILL BEISBOL

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—The Latin-American sports fan's vocabulary is becoming increasingly Anglicized. Some terms such as golf, polo and rugby have been appropriated without change while others have been revised so that their phonetic spelling matches the English pronunciation.

Tenis should be an easy one for those who know no Spanish. Nor is it difficult to figure out futbol, and basquetbol, the latter a game wherein both teams try to shoot gols.

Beisbol is growing in popularity and like the players in the U. S., the Latin American bateadores try for jonrons, triples, dobles or at the very least a hit that will put them on primer base.

Boxeo is a popular sport in the larger cities where fanaticos fill the estadios clamoring for a noqueout.

Athenia Scores Upset In Arlington Feature

CHICAGO, July 18 (AP)—In an astonishing upset, the Kentucky-bred Athenia, snatched $19,700 first money in the $28,700 Cleopatra Handicap for three year old fillies at Arlington Park today, defeating the 1 to 2 eastern favorite, Athene, by a length and a quarter.

Athenia was one of an entry entered today by Hal Price Headley, Lexington, Ky., sportsman. Athenia's stablemate, Bogle, cut out a fast pace. When Bogle started to wilt on the stretch turn, Jockey Douglas Dodson aboard Athenia moved up swiftly from third place to take up the victorious challenge.

The Headley pair was overlooked in the wagering and went to the post at odds of 16 to 1, returning $34.80, $6.60 and $5.20.

Dishong, Everett Twirler, Limits Reds To 3 Hits

Centerville's Bi-State Club Is Defeated In 4-2 Contest

CENTERVILLE, Pa., July 18—Dishong's three-hit pitching coupled with an eleven-hit attack enabled Everett to defeat the Centerville Reds of the Bi-State League here today by the score of 4-2.

The visitors bunched their hits with errors for two runs in the third and a like number of tallies in the fourth. The Reds were charged with six fielding bobbles.

Third Baseman Bobby Cook, of Centerville, was knocked out in the fourth inning when Karns, Everett catcher, collided with him while in the ninth inning a foul tip from his own bat knocked David Rose, Reds' infielder, unconscious but he finished the game.

Steach, Weicht, Bequfath paced the Everett swatsmiths with two hits each and Karns belted a triple.

Centerville started the game minus four regulars and in the eighth inning Roy Mickey and Glentis Street, who broke into the lineup as pinch-hitter, singled during a two-run rally to account for two of the locals' three safeties. Burglars Add To Woes Of Brooklyn Pitchers

CINCINNATI, July 18. (AP)—As though the playing field losses suffered by the Brooklyn Dodgers on their western trip were not bad enough, two of their pitchers, Kirby Higbe and Hugh Casey, disclosed today a burglar had entered their hotel room early this morning and robbed them as they slept.

The thief took $300 in cash from Higbe's trousers and his wallet containing his salary check, Social Security card and some Filipino bills which he had been keeping as a souvenir of his stay in the army.

Casey, who doesn't carry a wallet, was robbed of $16 in cash and his pay check. They had received their salary checks, covering two weeks' pay, a few days ago.

Tony Zale Says He'll Stop Rocky In July 25 Bout

Champ Expects To Flatten Graziano Inside Of Six Rounds

By SID FEDER

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., July 18 (AP)—Tony Zale, the middleweight champion who is noted for being practically speechless around the fight business, created what amounted to a sensation in his training camp today by announcing loudly that he would flatten Rocky Graziano inside of six rounds in their title tussle next Thursday.

This amounted to a political oration from the quiet ex-steel mill hand from Gary, Ind., inasmuch as any time he has put together as many as three words at once in the past, the boys would want to know why he was monopolizing the conversation.

The prediction was all the more eyebrow-lifting, too, since any knockout fireworks cooked up for this clambake were supposed to be on the other side of the stove, with Rocky the guy to stir them up.

"Well, all I want to know is who did Graziano ever kill?" Zale inquired as he wound up a four-round workout which brought his training chores to 103 rounds since he set up camp here.

"So he's a puncher. Well, a puncher has to go to an opponent, and if he comes to me as I expect, I'll knock him out inside of six rounds. I hope he does. If he doesn't come to me, and tries to be cute in there, I'll go catch him and I'll have him out along about the sixth."

The betting boys are so sure the festivities will wind up before the 15 round derby route is run that they made it 5 to 6 a knockout must happen along the road somewhere, which is a most unusual number to be hung up on a price maker's slate. They still liked Graziano at 6 to 12 to win, however.

Doughnuts Cop 11th Consecutive Game

In games played this week in the Y.M.C.A. Junior "A" Softball Nut League the undefeated Doughnuts, captained by Tommy Keech, ran roughshod over the Beechnuts 13-7. Ronnie Cage featured with his pitching and hitting. The second place Walnuts, led by Jackie Rice won from the Mixed Nuts 5-2. Rice's hitting and fielding was the redeeming feature of this contest. The Peanuts won the most interesting contest of the day by defeating the Grapenuts 4-3, thanks to some lusty clouting by Jack Clancy.

Racing Commission OK's Transfer Of Marlboro Meet To Bowie Track

Minimum Purse Must Be $1,000; Half Miler Needs Repairs

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP) — The State Racing Commission approved today transfer of the 10-day Marlboro race meeting to the Bowie track, and ordered the Marlboro association to raise its minimum purse to $1,000, as in effect at Bel Air and Timonium.

The Marlboro meeting dates are Sept. 14-25, inclusive.

Marlboro is one of the so-called "minor" tracks, with a half-mile oval. Besides Marlboro, Bel Air and Timonium, the others are at Cumberland and Hagerstown. The major tracks, Bowie, Pimlico, Laurel and Havre de Grace, are mile strips.

George P. Mahoney, racing commission chairman, said that the commission would not grant Marlboro a license to operate because the stable area and grandstand was in a bad state of disrepair.

H. Hampton Magruder, president of Marlboro, said the association was unable to get materials for repair, but presented the commission with plans for a new plant with improvements costing approximately $500,000. This includes plans for a reinforced concrete grandstand with a new betting ring beneath the stand, as well as new stables and fair exhibition buildings.

Magruder accepted a commission provision that all profits at Bowie, above those of the maximum summer season at Marlboro plus any additional expense, be donated to charity.

Mahoney said that the commission would ask Deputy Attorney General Hall Hammond for a ruling on the legality of the move from Marlboro to Bowie.

Slumping Dodgers Tumble Before Ed Heusser's Slants, 4-2

CINCINNATI, July 18 (AP)—Brooklyn's slumping Dodgers dropped their sixth straight and their eighth in nine western starts today, bowing to Cincinnati's Ed Heusser, 4-2, in a loosely played contest.

Kirby Higbe, one of the top pitchers in the league, failed to last through the third inning when the Reds added three runs on three hits and an error to a first inning 1-0 advantage. Box:

Racing Commission OK's Transfer Of Marlboro Meet To Bowie Track

Minimum Purse Must Be $1,000; Half Miler Needs Repairs

BALTIMORE, July 18 (AP) — The State Racing Commission approved today transfer of the 10-day Marlboro race meeting to the Bowie track, and ordered the Marlboro association to raise its minimum purse to $1,000, as in effect at Bel Air and Timonium.

The Marlboro meeting dates are Sept. 14-25, inclusive.

Marlboro is one of the so-called "minor" tracks, with a half-mile oval. Besides Marlboro, Bel Air and Timonium, the others are at Cumberland and Hagerstown. The major tracks, Bowie, Pimlico, Laurel and Havre de Grace, are mile strips.

George P. Mahoney, racing commission chairman, said that the commission would not grant Marlboro a license to operate because the stable area and grandstand was in a bad state of disrepair.

H. Hampton Magruder, president of Marlboro, said the association was unable to get materials for repair, but presented the commission with plans for a new plant with improvements costing approximately $500,000. This includes plans for a reinforced concrete grandstand with a new betting ring beneath the stand, as well as new stables and fair exhibition buildings.

Magruder accepted a commission provision that all profits at Bowie, above those of the maximum summer season at Marlboro plus any additional expense, be donated to charity.

Mahoney said that the commission would ask Deputy Attorney General Hall Hammond for a ruling on the legality of the move from Marlboro to Bowie.

North Enders Battle Williams Street Club For City League Lead

Williams Street tops the second half race with seven wins and one loss while North End, victorious in its last five starts, including three shutouts, trails with six wins and one defeat. North End will take over the lead if it wins today's game.

East Side plays the American Legion on East Side field, Keegan's Jupers will play hosts to the Maccabees at Campobello and the V.F.W. tests Lacy's Delicatets at Community Park.

Tony Zale Says He'll Stop Rocky In July 25 Bout

Champ Expects To Flatten Graziano Inside Of Six Rounds

By SID FEDER

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., July 18 (AP)—Tony Zale, the middleweight champion who is noted for being practically speechless around the fight business, created what amounted to a sensation in his training camp today by announcing loudly that he would flatten Rocky Graziano inside of six rounds in their title tussle next Thursday.

This amounted to a political oration from the quiet ex-steel mill hand from Gary, Ind., inasmuch as any time he has put together as many as three words at once in the past, the boys would want to know why he was monopolizing the conversation.

The prediction was all the more eyebrow-lifting, too, since any knockout fireworks cooked up for this clambake were supposed to be on the other side of the stove, with Rocky the guy to stir them up.

"Well, all I want to know is who did Graziano ever kill?" Zale inquired as he wound up a four-round workout which brought his training chores to 103 rounds since he set up camp here.

"So he's a puncher. Well, a puncher has to go to an opponent, and if he comes to me as I expect, I'll knock him out inside of six rounds. I hope he does. If he doesn't come to me, and tries to be cute in there, I'll go catch him and I'll have him out along about the sixth."

The betting boys are so sure the festivities will wind up before the 15 round derby route is run that they made it 5 to 6 a knockout must happen along the road somewhere, which is a most unusual number to be hung up on a price maker's slate. They still liked Graziano at 6 to 12 to win, however.

Doughnuts Cop 11th Consecutive Game

In games played this week in the Y.M.C.A. Junior "A" Softball Nut League the undefeated Doughnuts, captained by Tommy Keech, ran roughshod over the Beechnuts 13-7. Ronnie Cage featured with his pitching and hitting. The second place Walnuts, led by Jackie Rice won from the Mixed Nuts 5-2. Rice's hitting and fielding was the redeeming feature of this contest. The Peanuts won the most interesting contest of the day by defeating the Grapenuts 4-3, thanks to some lusty clouting by Jack Clancy.

Prices Getting Attention On Radio Program

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, July 18 — Another series of news dramatizations is getting a chance at netcasting starting Friday night. Titled "Spotlight on America," it will be for MBS at 9, under a pattern described as March of Time-like. George Carson Putnam, recently out of service, is to narrate.

The question of prices is getting attention in special programs, another of which is to go on MBS at 9:30. It will bear the listing of "America without price control" and include pickups from 11 points on either coast and in between.

A fight scheduled once previously is back on the roles, ABC hopes, for 9 o'clock. In the welterweight division, it is expected to have Tony Pellone and Chuck Taylor. . . . Another sports item is that John Garfield of the movies will be this week's sub for Vacationing Bill Stern on NBC at 9:30.

Orson Welles is to step to a CBS microphone in New York for another dramatization of "Life With Adam." It's at 9 o'clock, right opposite the fight. Welles, they explain, is "actor producer and director." Incidentaaly; like last week, the play is a change from what had been announced.

Swing over to NBC at the same time there is the Mystery Theater, something about "Wake for a Lady." It couldn't be anything else but a detective mystery.

Police Protest Movement Of Heavy Machinery Here

The G. C. Sensabaugh, Inc., company has posted $50 bond in police court for a hearing today at 9 a. m. on a charge of violating sub-section P of City Ordinance 1530, according to the police court docket.

The bond was posted by G. C. Sensabaugh, president, after Detective E. R. Lilya served a warrant charging the company, on Monday, with moving heavy equipment over the streets of this city without a permit from the city engineer's office.

Oscar A. Everman, chief of police, said the company moved a 40-ton stone crusher from the Baltimore and Ohio railroad by way of Oldtown road beyond the city dump and declared the heavy machinery might have caused severe damage to Oldtown road homes had it got out of control.

The police chief said Sensabaugh asserted he had placed a bond with the city but Everman declared the city attorney did not approve the bond.

If you really want to please you can.

Police Protest Movement Of Heavy Machinery Here

The G. C. Sensabaugh, Inc., company has posted $50 bond in police court for a hearing today at 9 a. m. on a charge of violating sub-section P of City Ordinance 1530, according to the police court docket.

The bond was posted by G. C. Sensabaugh, president, after Detective E. R. Lilya served a warrant charging the company, on Monday, with moving heavy equipment over the streets of this city without a permit from the city engineer's office.

Oscar A. Eyerman, chief of police, said the company moved a 40-ton stone crusher from the Baltimore and Ohio railroad by way of Oldtown road beyond the city dump and declared the heavy machinery might have caused severe damage to Oldtown road homes had it got out of control.

The police chief said Sensabaugh asserted he had placed a bond with the city but Eyerman declared the city attorney did not approve the bond.

If you really want to please you can.

Restaurant Owner Kills Young Thief Near Red House

Coroner's Jury Frees Proprietor; Victim Escaped From Boys' School

A 16-year-old escapee from the Boys' Industrial school at Pruntytown, W. Va., was shot and instantly killed early yesterday morning by Ralph Parks after robbing the latter's restaurant and service station on U. S. Route 50, one mile west of Red House, in West Virginia, State Trooper A. M. Hurst, Kingwood, W. Va., said last night.

The trooper and R. Doyne Halbritter, prosecuting attorney of Preston county, W. Va., said a coroner's jury met at the scene of the shooting yesterday morning and freed Parks of responsibility after holding that the youth, Russell Wiley, Whitman, Logan county, W. Va., was shot and killed while committing a felony.

Hit In Neck

Parks operates a combination garage, service station and restaurant, and Trooper Hurst said Wiley was backing out of the door to the establishment when Parks fired at him with a 12-gauge single-barrel shotgun from a second story porch. The full load struck the youth in the neck and he fell in his tracks.

As the unarmed youth fell, he dropped a handfull of 30 quarters he had stolen from the cash register and they scattered about the area, police said.

Authorities reported that Wiley escaped from the industrial school at Pruntytown Wednesday morning and hitchhiked a ride to Erwin on U. S. Route 50. They added that he rifled an automobile at Erwin, stealing a knife, razor and other small articles, but left them in the boiler room of a large sawmill located there.

Trooper Hurst said Wiley stole a pickup truck belonging to C. W. Brock from a garage at Erwin, and then followed Route 50 to Park's establishment where he was killed about 5 a. m.

The youth gained entrance by prying open a kitchen window, police said.

Hears Cash Register

Parks and his wife, who live in an apartment above the restaurant, heard someone moving around in the restaurant, Trooper Hurst said, and Parks grabbed a shotgun and then directed Mrs. Parks to go to the second floor porch and call to a neighbor named Arbogast for assistance.

Shortly afterward, Parks heard the cash register ring, and then he ran to the porch when his wife called that the thief was leaving, authorities said.

From all indications, Wiley was backing out of the building, had shut the door and was backing out of the screen door when Parks fired, Trooper Hurst said. He added that Parks said he did not see the youth but fired in the direction of the door.

H. Foster Hartman, Preston county coroner, conducted the inquest which was attended by Prosecutor Halbritter, Trooper Hurst and Sheriff Hobart Spindler.

Doub Appoints Markell Agent For Campaign

Republican Candidate For Attorney General Prepares For State Race

George Cochran Doub, Republican candidate for attorney general, announced yesterday that Charles Markell, Jr., member of the Baltimore Bar, will be his political agent for the statewide campaign preceding the November election.

Markell, recently discharged from the army air force, is a partner of the law firm of Cook, Warnken, Veazey and Markell. He is a son of Judge Charles Markell of the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Markell, in accepting the appointment said, "I have the highest regard, both personally and professionally for Mr. Doub, and welcome this opportunity to aid and support his campaign."

"His independence of mind and character, professional standing and ability, fully justify the expectation that he will, if elected, make a distinguished record as attorney general."

Doub is a son of former judge, Albert A. Doub, Cumberland, and resides at Owings Mills, Baltimore county. He is married and has a son and two daughters. Active in the practice of law for 20 years in Baltimore, Doub is a member of the Marshall, All, Cary and Doub law firm and also president of the Maryland Children's Aid Society.

Bottling Plant Will Be Opened Here By Renshaw

Purchases Former King Factory Building; New Equipment Is Ordered

Confirming the report yesterday, Renshaw said he purchased the two-story concrete block building for a consideration of $18,000, and when machinery and equipment are installed for operation, he will have an investment of $60,000.

Renshaw who owned and operated the J. I. Mattingly Brothers, beer distributing business in Ridgeley, W. Va., prior to enlisting in the army, said last night he has placed orders for all new machinery and equipment, bottles, cases and several trucks. Ultimately, he plans to employ 12 or more persons.

Used Now For Storage

Renshaw said the building is 54 by 92 fet and will provide adequate space for a modern bottling plant such as he plans to install. It is well situated, he declared, being located near a railroad siding and within easy access to streets and highways for his delivery trucks.

Presently, the first floor is used for storage purposes by the Cumberland Brewing Company, and the second floor is used by the Acme Furniture Company as a warehouse.

Renshaw at one time was employed as a local newspaper reporter, and later as assistant advertising manager of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company. After leaving Kelly, he was advertising manager for the Cumberland Brewing Company, after which he purchased the beer business in Ridgeley.

Before entering the service almost four years ago, Renshaw sold the beer business in Ridgeley, to J. W. Aldridge, who operates under his own name.

Renshaw served in the army air corps with the rank of sergeant in the China-Burma-India theater, after several months as an instructor in various military camps in the states.

Equipment To Be Modern

He explained last night that his machinery, which is to be new and modern 1946 equipment, has been promised for delivery in 90 days, and several weeks will be required to obtain trucks, bottles, cases, sugar and other needed equipment and merchandise.

He has been working on the proposition for several months, he declared and finally got a veterans' priority which is making the purchases of machinery and trucks possible.

The business is not to be incorporated, he explained, since he must establish as an individual under his priority rating. The plant will operate under the trade style, however, as the Spur Bottling Company.

Renshaw says he has the local franchise for bottling Spur and also the distributorship of a well known brand of ginger ale. Eventually, he said, he hopes to set up a beer distributing agency as well.

White Accepts Post As Head Of Local Fair Rent Group

Caleb J. White, Rawlings, was appointed chairman of the Cumberland area fair rent commission yesterday by Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor, the Associated Press reported last night.

White said he has accepted the appointment and will soon call the first meeting of the seven-man group.

The selection came after Robert E. Barnard declined the chairmanship of the commission.

White said he was informed of his appointment in a telephone call from Edward J. Ryan, Frostburg, local attorney, who was calling for the governor. Later O'Conor's assistant in Baltimore called White to learn his decision.

The new chairman is rent representative for Allegany county, with headquarters in the Union street building. He has held the position since April 1, 1945, when the Cumberland office was opened.

Other appointees to the commission are David Kauffman as commission attorney; Robert W. Young, Daniel F. McMullen, J. Thruston Boyd, C. E. Stutzman, and William Boyd Coleman.

Demurrer Is Filed To Petition Asking Sale Of Store

Attorney For Defendants Says Court Is Without Jurisdiction

A demurrer was filed in circuit court yesterday to a petition asking a declaratory judgment to enforce specific performance of an alleged agreement to sell a 60 per cent interest in a Baltimore street store owned by the late Louis M. Kline.

The demurrer, filed by Milton Gerson, attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Morris H. Daskais, defendants in the action filed by Kline's widow, Mrs. Carrie M. Kline, asserted that the court is without jurisdiction to entertain the bill of complaint, to hear and determine the matters alleged or to grant the petition.

Through her attorney, Clarence Lippel, Mrs. Kline had stated that an agreement had been reached whereby Mr. and Mrs. Daskais, the latter Kline's daughter by a former marriage, would sell her their 60 per cent interest in the store.

Mrs. Kline said she agreed to pay all claims against her husband's estate, including attorney's fees, but that a dispute arose over the fee of the attorney to the executor of Kline's estate, and that the defendants have refused to convey their 60 per cent interest in the store.

Gerson's demurrer stated that declaratory judgments are "invoked to declare rights and not to try issues." It added that while the declaratory judgement statute recognizes that issues of fact may be litigated in an action for declaratory relief, action more properly lies upon undisputed facts. Gerson said the court has "discretionary power" to refuse to entertain a suit for a declaratory judgment when facts upon which the rights of the plaintiff depend are at issue.

Settlement of disputed facts in issue between the parties should be relegated to proper jurisdictional forum otherwise provided, the attorney asserted.

Universal Credit Firm To Finance Plane Purchases

A nation-wide plan for the purchase of airplanes and insuring them on the installment plan was announced yesterday by John R. Henderson, local branch manager of the Universal C. I. T. Credit Corporation.

Under the corporation's plan, the buyer may finance the purchase of his plane for a five per cent carrying charge and also at cheap insurance rates. As in the automobile business, the corporation finances the flow of planes from the manufacturer to the distributor as well as retail sales to licensed pilots, Henderson said.

The new plan also provides insurance against ground risks, public liability risks and property damage risks or bail bond up to $5,000.

Banks likewise are financing the purchase of airplanes with insurance coverage financed along with the loan.

Federal regulations provide that loans under $1,500 must be repaid within 15 months, but loans in excess of that amount may be carried over a period of 24 months or longer.

Test Of County Liquor Law Is Slated Today

Judge Mish Will Preside At Hearing On Cromwell's License Plea

The legality of the County Liquor Control act, passed in 1933, will be tested in circuit court today in mandamus proceedings filed by Eldred A. Cromwell, operator of the Elda inn, Braddock road, in an effort to obtain a license. Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish, Hagerstown, will preside.

Cromwell, whose applications for a liquor license were rejected several times in recent years, filed a petition for a writ of mandamus April 13, after Robert Jackson, clerk of court, refused to issue him a license under the "saloon law" of 1894.

Edward J. Ryan, this city, and F. Neale Park, Westminster, former judge of the court of appeals, are Cromwell's attorneys, and they asserted that the 1933 act is unconstitutional and took action against Jackson to compel him to issue a license under the 1894 law.

Attorneys File Demurrer

Ryan and Park yesterday filed a demurrer to the answer docketed May 4 by counsel for Jackson. The demurrer alleges that the answer:

1. Is bad in substance and insufficient in law.

2. Does not state facts sufficient to constitute a defense.

Attorneys for Jackson are D. Lindley Sloan, former chief judge of the Court of Appeals; William C. Walsh, former attorney general of Maryland, and State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris.

It has been indicated that Judge Mish will not hand down a decision in the case for several weeks, and regardless of his opinion, the case would be carried to the Court of Appeals by the petitioner or by the court clerk for final decisjon.

May Bring "Dry Spell"

In the answer filed by Jackson's counsel, it was cited that the county might "go dry," at least for a short time, in event the jurist rules the 1933 act is unconstitutional, since no places could be licensed and the 1933 act specifically repealed the 1894 law. In that event, it would be necessary to wait until the next session of the Maryland Assembly, next January, to enact a new liquor control law for the county.

Major contention in Cromwell's plea is the allegation that the law limiting the number of license holders is illegal and discriminates against applicants. The law specifies that one license shall be issued for every 1,500 persons in the county, which limits the number to 58 on the basis of the 1940 census.

His attorneys also asserted that the issuance of licenses is an administrative, and not a judicial function. Under the law, the judges of the Circuit Court approve or reject all applications for permits.

Much Interest Aroused

The first court test of the legality of the act has aroused much interest among attorneys, license holders, those who have been denied permits—and among the hundreds of persons who consume alcoholic beverages.

It was reported that Cromwell is being backed by the Allegany County League for Equal Rights, composed of a number of persons who have been unable to obtain licenses in recent years. The Allegany County Retail Liquor Dealers' Association has always opposed efforts to have the law tested in the courts or revised by the Legislature.

Counsel for Jackson asserted that the limitation of the number of licenses "is a proper police power" upheld by the courts in various other states, and charged that the "wide open" law of 1894, which placed no restrictions on the number of permits, led to widespread violations of the law—such as selling after hours, on Sundays, and to minors and habitual drunkards.

Garment Workers Strike Is Called Unauthorized

Gay Street Factory Employes Stage Spontaneous Stoppage

The strike of some 90 workers of the Cumberland Undergarment Company yesterday morning was termed "unauthorized" last night by Mrs. Mary Shoemaker, president of Local 434, International Ladies Garment Workers Union, AFL.

The union official added that this and other strikes "violated the union's contract" and said the action was apparently spontaneous since the local agreed Wednesday afternoon to continue work for two weeks under the present conditions.

Mrs. Shoemaker said the workers met Wednesday at 3:30 p. m. to hear Miss Angela Baumbace, Baltimore, explain the piece rate system in use at the plant. There were no dissenting votes, she added, when the group agreed to continue work from July 18 to August 1.

Advises Postponement

Miss Baumbace stated she would return in two weeks and advised members to postpone action. An engineer who also spoke at the meeting after making a time study of operation here said he would submit a report and explained that rates of pay would be adjusted if the study indicated the need of a change.

According to Mrs. Violet Loar, LaVale, shop steward, starting rates at the plant are now 40 cents an hour with 60 cents the top rate. The workers say they want an increase of 20 cents, Mrs. Loar said.

Mrs. Margaret Chase, another shop chairman, said last night the workers are out and are going to stay out "until we get what we want." She explained the workers on strike are demanding a 20 cents hourly increase and an adjustment of piece time rates.

Applications were made yesterday for picketing permits but none had been issued yesterday afternoon. Miss Baumbace advised Oscar A. Eyerman, chief of police, from Richmond, Va., that the strike was unauthorized.

Will Issue Permits

Eyerman said the permits were not issued since the request was not presented by a union official and on union stationery as is required in the city ordinance. The police chief said the fact that the stoppage is not authorized by the international union will not be a factor and that the permits will be available whenever proper officials apply.

Mrs. Shoemaker said she and about 35 of the 125 employes went to work yesterday but were allowed to go home at noon when operations at the plant ceased. The union official asserted she believed work would be resumed Monday.

Workers on strike termed an advertisement offering the firm's building for sale "a bluff" but added that even if the offer were valid "we'll have to have a showdown sooner or later.

Maurice Milberg, plant manager, could not be contacted yesterday for comment.

DRIVER OF TRUCK WHICH KILLED CHILD RELEASED UNDER BOND

Walter Russell Hensel, 23, of 307 Water street, was arraigned in trial magistrates court yesterday by States Attorney Morgan C. Harris, on a charge of manslaughter and released under bond of $1,000 for action of the October grand jury.

Hensel, driver of a Queen City Brewing Company truck, is charged with running over and fatally injuring William Alexander Brown, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Brown, of 318 Cecelia street, Wednesday afternoon near the boy's home.

Hensel, a veteran of World War II, waived hearing when taken before Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., and bond was furnished immediately. He made no comment at the arraignment.

The state's attorney charged negligence on the part of the driver.

County Gets $15,014 From Income Taxes

Allegany county has received $15,014 from the Maryland Income Tax division as its share of $1,311,691 of 1945 individual income tax revenues up to June 30, the division reported yesterday.

The total amount paid to the county was $25,851, but the county actually received $15,014 after payments to incorporated towns.

Under the present law, the state gives 25 per cent of payments from the counties back to them, less the amounts shared with incorporated towns. Incorporated towns receive one-eighth of the total income tax payments made by their residents to the state.

Baltimore city received $742,857, Baltimore county $153,978 and Howard county $7,334, each 25 per cent of what their residents paid the state.

Totals paid to other counties and amounts the counties actually received after payments to incorporated towns include:

Garrett $1,971 and $1,185; Washington $34,258 and $19,606; and Frederick $15,976 and $10,085.

Japanese Beetle Infestation Is Past Its Peak

McHenry Believes Milky White Disease Is Showing Results

The Japanese beetle infestation this year is past its peak, in the opinion of Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, who said yesterday that while the infestation this year is probably the heaviest on record, there is some indication that control efforts by means of milky white spore disease are having some effect.

In past years the country club has been one of the most heavily infested areas, but there was a noticeable decline there this year in the number of beetles, McHenry pointed out, explaining that the ground at the club has been treated with milky white spore dust in a control move.

The county agent said he believes steps to control the beetle in past years have delayed more serious beetle infestation by perhaps six or seven years, which he termed of economic value. In the meantime, he added, quite a lot has been learned about the beetle.

Strangely enough, McHenry said, a heavy infestation of beetles is necessary before the milky white spore dust can be used with any effect.

He explained that enough dust to treat the greatest part of the ground in the county would be a burdensome expense since the cost of the dust is rather high. On the other hand, if ground is treated where there is no sign of a beetle infestation, chances are that the beetle would never come in contact with the disease.

For immediate relief from Japanese beetles, McHenry suggested spraying anything affected except garden plants with wettable DDT.

Although Japanese beetles have not yet attacked trees to any extent, McHenry said that if that time comes it will be necessary to use power sprays to combat them, since small sprayers ordinarily owned by the home owner or farmer would not be powerful enough to reach them.

Damage Suit Over Auto Crash Aired In Trial Magistrates Court

In a civil damage suit in trial magistrates' court yesterday, a public health nurse testified how she witnessed an automobile accident involving her sister's auto, without realizing it was her sister's car until the accident was over.

Three cars were traveling toward Cresaptown from Cumberland last December, all in a line. In the first car was Theodore L. Grove, of Bowling Green. Second car in line was that of Mrs. Rose Loible, public health nurse. The third car was driven by Mrs. Vada Barncord, of Bowling Green, former president of the Women's Division of the C. T. P. of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and a sister of Mrs. Loible.

According to testimony, Mrs. Barncord pulled around her sister's car and was about to pass Grove's machine when the latter started to turn left off a side road. He gave no hand signal, Mrs. Loible said.

There was a smashup and both machines were damaged but neither driver suffered serious injury.

Originally, Mrs. Barncord filed suit for damages to her car and was awarded $225. Yesterday, the situation was reversed, with Grove suing Mrs. Barncord for damages to his machine.

The court yesterday awarded Grove damages of $.92.57.

In court yesterday, Mrs. Loible gave a full account of her version of the accident and said she did not know her sister was involved until after it was all over.

Grove was represented at the hearing by Harry I. Stegmaier with William H. Geppert representing Mrs. Barncord.

Concerted Action On Price Control Planned By Labor

Legislative Committee Will Discuss Strategy At Meeting Tonight

The legislative committee of the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in Textile hall to form plans for concerted action by Allegany county labor organizations on price and rent control.

The conference named George A. Meyers, Textile workers, and C. E. Stutzman, Teamsters union, to the committee. William B. Coleman, Textile workers; William J. Jones, Boilermakers and G. Edwin Parker, Brotherhoods, are also members of the committee which will lay the strategy for labor's fight against rising prices.

The conference, at its meeting in Allegany Trades Council hall, asked that all labor organizations make a survey of rent increases and evictions and report both to the conference. Reports may be sent to Mrs. G. Edwin Parker, 705 Elm street, phone 4132-W; Textile Workers hall, 34 North Mechanic street, phone 1652; or to Teamsters hall, 125 North Mechanic street, phone 2834.

To Compile Information

Information secured by the labor groups will be compiled for Governor O'Conor as proof of the need for a special session of the legislature on rent control, C. E. Stutzman, president, said.

Stutzman and William Boyd Coleman, who were appointed to Cumberland's fair rent commission, reported they have agreed to serve on the group so that they may do everything possible to control rents here.

The group termed alarming recent rent increases here, citing that 207 notices of rent increases have been filed at the local rent control office and that 279 phone calls of such increases have been received at the same office. There have been at least 581 rent increases or evictions in this city since July 1, it was reported.

Increases of from $5 to $30 were cited, while in one apartment house, the group was told, rents have been increased $2 for each room and one landlord, with property in and outside this city, has increased each unit by $10 and $15.

Committee Named

A joint Labor day celebration for all labor organizations will be held here, Stutzman said, adding that a 14-man committee was appointed to make plans for the all-day affair. The group will report to the next meeting of the conference which will be held August 1, at 7:30 p. m. in Allegany Trades Council hall.

Labor officials said that so far as they know, there have been no previous efforts to bring all groups of organized labor together for such an occasion.

The conference commended OPA personnel here for continuing work in the present crisis and pointed out that attaches have received only one week's pay for the past two weeks of work.

Another Cab Firm May Install Radios

Another local taxicab company has indicated that it is interested in installing a two-way radio system in its cab fleet, following announcement yesterday by Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, that he will grant permission to the Astor Cab Company to erect a 69-foot radio tower on Summit avenue.

Rizer said a written agreement will be drawn up specifying that Astor's permission to use the radio system will be revoked if it interferes with the police radio or radios of individuals. The announcement was made following a conference with Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman.

Julian F. Schonter, manager of Johnny's Cabs, Inc., asked in a letter to the mayor and city council yesterday whether it would be practical to have more than one radio system for cabs operating in the city.

Schonter said his company may make a similar application within a few days if city officials inform him that two systems could be operated. The company operates a fleet of seven Plymouth cabs, and radios would be installed in each if permission is granted.

The manager said he has notified the Federal Communications Commission regarding his plans, but that he has not made formal application pending word from city officials.

At the present time no site for a radio tower has been selected, Schonter added.

Mark Schriver, spokesman for the Astor company, said the firm plans to install two-way radios in 25 new Hudson cabs at a cost of approximately $15,000. The radios would eliminate call boxes and would enable the fleet to move with greater ease.

Schriver said the radio equipment is expected to arrive here in 30 days and that the second shipment of Hudson cabs is expected August 10. The company already has four new Hudson cars.

No reply has been received from the FCC regarding the company's application for a permit to erect the station, Schriver added.

Two More Candidates File Expense Reports

Two more candidates have filed reports of expenses at the office of the clerk of circuit court.

Alexander "Pop" Nicol, National, one of two Democrats in the race for House of Delegates, listed his only expense at $25 for filing fee. His name was not on the June 24 primary ballot because there was no contest among the Democrats for nomination.

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., Westernport, who was one of the six Republicans nominated for the House of Delegates, reported spending $197.67, all for advertising. He said he received no contributions.

Restaurant Owner Kills Young Thief Near Red House

Coroner's Jury Frees Proprietor; Victim Escaped From Boys' School

A 16-year-old escapee from the Boys' Industrial school at Pruntytown, W. Va., was shot and instantly killed early yesterday morning by Ralph Parks after robbing the latter's restaurant and service station on U. S. Route 50, one mile west of Red House, in West Virginia, State Trooper A. M. Hurst, Kingwood, W. Va., said last night.

The trooper and R. Doyne Halbritter, prosecuting attorney of Preston county, W. Va., said a coroner's jury met at the scene of the shooting yesterday morning and freed Parks of responsibility after holding that the youth, Russell Wiley, Whitman, Logan county, W. Va., was shot and killed while committing a felony.

Hit In Neck

Parks operates a combination garage, service station and restaurant, and Trooper Hurst said Wiley was backing out of the door to the establishment when Parks fired at him with a 12-gauge single-barrel shotgun from a second story porch. The full load struck the youth in the neck and he fell in his tracks.

As the unarmed youth fell, he dropped a handfull of 30 quarters he had stolen from the cash register and they scattered about the area, police said.

Authorities reported that Wiley escaped from the industrial school at Pruntytown Wednesday morning and hitchhiked a ride to Erwin on U. S. Route 50. They added that he rifled an automobile at Erwin, stealing a knife, razor and other small articles, but left them in the boiler room of a large sawmill located there.

Trooper Hurst said Wiley stole a pickup truck belonging to C. W. Brock from a garage at Erwin, and then followed Route 50 to Park's establishment where he was killed about 5 a. m.

The youth gained entrance by prying open a kitchen window, police said.

Hears Cash Register

Parks and his wife, who live in an apartment above the restaurant, heard someone moving around in the restaurant, Trooper Hurst said, and Parks grabbed a shotgun and then directed Mrs. Parks to go to the second floor porch and call to a neighbor named Arbogast for assistance.

Shortly afterward, Parks heard the cash register ring, and then he ran to the porch when his wife called that the thief was leaving, authorities said.

From all indications, Wiley was backing out of the building, had shut the door and was backing out of the screen door when Parks fired, Trooper Hurst said. He added that Parks said he did not see the youth but fired in the direction of the door.

H. Foster Hartman, Preston county coroner, conducted the inquest which was attended by Prosecutor Halbritter, Trooper Hurst and Sheriff Hobart Spindler.

Wiley's body was identified by the superintendent of the industrial school.

The body was taken to the Bartlett funeral home at Grafton, W. Va.

Markell, recently discharged from the army air force, is a partner of the law firm of Cook, Warnken, Veazey and Markell. He is a son of Judge Charles Markell of the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Markell, in accepting the appointment said, "I have the highest regard, both personally and professionally for Mr. Doub, and welcome this opportunity to aid and support his campaign."

"His independence of mind and character, professional standing and ability, fully justify the expectation that he will, if elected, make a distinguished record as attorney general."

Doub is a son of former judge, Albert A. Doub, Cumberland, and resides at Owings Mills, Baltimore county. He is married and has a son and two daughters. Active in the practice of law for 20 years in Baltimore, Doub is a member of the Marshall, All, Cary and Doub law firm and also president of the Maryland Children's Aid Society.

Bottling Plant Will Be Opened Here By Renshaw

Purchases Former King Factory Building; New Equipment Is Ordered

Richard T. Renshaw, 1819 Bedford street, has purchased the former King barrel factory building at 116 Euclid Place, to be used as a bottling plant.

Confirming the report yesterday, Renshaw said he purchased the two-story concrete block building for a consideration of $18,000, and when machinery and equipment are installed for operation, he will have an investment of $60,000.

Renshaw who owned and operated the J. I. Mattingly Brothers, beer distributing business in Ridgeley, W. Va., prior to enlisting in the army, said last night he has placed orders for all new machinery and equipment, bottles, cases and several trucks. Ultimately, he plans to employ 12 or more persons.

Used Now For Storage

Renshaw said the building is 54 by 92 fet and will provide adequate space for a modern bottling plant such as he plans to install. It is well situated, he declared, being located near a railroad siding and within easy access to streets and highways for his delivery trucks.

Presently, the first floor is used for storage purposes by the Cumberland Brewing Company, and the second floor is used by the Acme Furniture Company as a warehouse.

Renshaw at one time was employed as a local newspaper reporter, and later as assistant advertising manager of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company. After leaving Kelly, he was advertising manager for the Cumberland Brewing Company, after which he purchased the beer business in Ridgeley.

Before entering the service almost four years ago, Renshaw sold the beer business in Ridgeley, to J. W. Aldridge, who operates under his own name.

Renshaw served in the army air corps with the rank of sergeant in the China-Burma-India theater, after several months as an instructor in various military camps in the states.

Equipment To Be Modern

He explained last night that his machinery, which is to be new and modern 1946 equipment, has been promised for delivery in 90 days, and several weeks will be required to obtain trucks, bottles, cases, sugar and other needed equipment and merchandise.

He has been working on the proposition for several months, he declared and finally got a veterans' priority which is making the purchases of machinery and trucks possible.

The business is not to be incorporated, he explained, since he must establish as an individual under his priority rating. The plant will operate under the trade style, however, as the Spur Bottling Company.

Renshaw says he has the local franchise for bottling Spur and also the distributorship of a well known brand of ginger ale. Eventually, he said, he hopes to set up a beer distributing agency as well.

White Accepts Post As Head Of Local Fair Rent Group

Caleb J. White, Rawlings, was appointed chairman of the Cumberland area fair rent commission yesterday by Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor, the Associated Press reported last night.

White said he has accepted the appointment and will soon call the first meeting of the seven-man group.

The selection came after Robert E. Barnard declined the chairmanship of the commission.

White said he was informed of his appointment in a telephone call from Edward J. Ryan, Frostburg, local attorney, who was calling for the governor. Later O'Conor's assistant in Baltimore called White to learn his decision.

The new chairman is rent representative for Allegany county, with headquarters in the Union street building. He has held the position since April 1, 1945, when the Cumberland office was opened.

Other appointees to the commission are David Kauffman as commission attorney; Robert W. Young, Daniel F. McMullen, J. Thruston Boyd, C. E. Stutzman, and William Boyd Coleman.

Demurrer Is Filed To Petition Asking Sale Of Store

Attorney For Defendants Says Court Is Without Jurisdiction

A demurrer was filed in circuit court yesterday to a petition asking a declaratory judgment to enforce specific performance of an alleged agreement to sell a 60 per cent interest in a Baltimore street store owned by the late Louis M. Kline.

The demurrer, filed by Milton Gerson, attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Morris H. Daskais, defendants in the action filed by Kline's widow, Mrs. Carrie M. Kline, asserted that the court is without jurisdiction to entertain the bill of complaint, to hear and determine the matters alleged or to grant the petition.

Through her attorney, Clarence Lippel, Mrs. Kline had stated that an agreement had been reached whereby Mr. and Mrs. Daskais, the latter Kline's daughter by a former marriage, would sell her their 60 per cent interest in the store.

Mrs. Kline said she agreed to pay all claims against her husband's estate, including attorney's fees, but that a dispute arose over the fee of the attorney to the executor of Kline's estate, and that the defendants have refused to convey their 60 per cent interest in the store.

Gerson's demurrer stated that declaratory judgments are "invoked to declare rights and not to try issues." It added that while the declaratory judgement statute recognizes that issues of fact may be litigated in an action for declaratory relief, action more properly lies upon undisputed facts. Gerson said the court has "discretionary power" to refuse to entertain a suit for a declaratory judgment when facts upon which the rights of the plaintiff depend are at issue.

Settlement of disputed facts in issue between the parties should be relegated to proper jurisdictional forum otherwise provided, the attorney asserted.

Universal Credit Firm To Finance Plane Purchases

A nation-wide plan for the purchase of airplanes and insuring them on the installment plan was announced yesterday by John R. Henderson, local branch manager of the Universal C. I. T. Credit Corporation.

Under the corporation's plan, the buyer may finance the purchase of his plane for a five per cent carrying charge and also at cheap insurance rates. As in the automobile business, the corporation finances the flow of planes from the manufacturer to the distributor as well as retail sales to licensed pilots, Henderson said.

The new plan also provides insurance against ground risks, public liability risks and property damage risks or bail bond up to $5,000.

Banks likewise are finapcing the purchase of airplanes with insurance coverage financed along with the loan.

Federal regulations provide that loans under $1,500 must be repaid within 15 months, but loans in excess of that amount may be carried over a period of 24 months or longer.

Test Of County Liquor Law Is Slated Today

Judge Mish Will Preside At Hearing On Cromwell's License Plea

The legality of the County Liquor Control act, passed in 1933, will be tested in circuit court today in mandamus proceedings filed by Eldred A. Cromwell, operator of the Elda inn, Braddock road, in an effort to obtain a license. Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish, Hagerstown, will preside.

Cromwell, whose applications for a liquor license were rejected several times in recent years, filed a petition for a writ of mandamus April 13, after Robert Jackson, clerk of court, refused to issue him a license under the "saloon law" of 1894.

Edward J. Ryan, this city, and F. Neale Park, Westminster, former judge of the court of appeals, are Cromwell's attorneys, and they asserted that the 1933 act is unconstitutional and took action against Jackson to compel him to issue a license under the 1894 law.

Attorneys File Demurrer

Ryan and Park yesterday filed a demurrer to the answer docketed May 4 by counsel for Jackson. The demurrer alleges that the answer:

1. Is bad in substance and insufficient in law.

2. Does not state facts sufficient to constitute a defense.

Attorneys for Jackson are D. Lindley Sloan, former chief judge of the Court of Appeals; William C. Walsh, former attorney general of Maryland, and State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris.

It has been indicated that Judge Mish will not hand down a decision in the case for several weeks, and regardless of his opinion, the case would be carried to the Court of Appeals by the petitioner or by the court clerk for final decisjon.

May Bring "Dry Spell"

In the answer filed by Jackson's counsel, it was cited that the county might "go dry," at least for a short time, in event the jurist rules the 1933 act is unconstitutional, since no places could be licensed and the 1933 act specifically repealed the 1894 law. In that event, it would be necessary to wait until the next session of the Maryland Assembly, next January, to enact a new liquor control law for the county.

Major contention in Cromwell's plea is the allegation that the law limiting the number of license holders is illegal and discriminates against applicants. The law specifies that one license shall be issued for every 1,500 persons in the county, which limits the number to 58 on the basis of the 1940 census.

His attorneys also asserted that the issuance of licenses is an administrative, and not a judicial function. Under the law, the judges of the Circuit Court approve or reject all applications for permits.

Much Interest Aroused

The first court test of the legality of the act has aroused much interest among attorneys, license holders, those who have been denied permits—and among the hundreds of persons who consume alcoholic beverages.

It was reported that Cromwell is being backed by the Allegany County League for Equal Rights, composed of a number of persons who have been unable to obtain licenses in recent years. The Allegany County Retail Liquor Dealers' Association has always opposed efforts to have the law tested in the courts or revised by the Legislature.

Counsel for Jackson asserted that the limitation of the number of licenses "is a proper police power" upheld by the courts in various other states, and charged that the "wide open" law of 1894, which placed no restrictions on the number of permits, led to widespread violations of the law—such as selling after hours, on Sundays, and to minors and habitual drunkards.

Garment Workers Strike Is Called Unauthorized

Gay Street Factory Employes Stage Spontaneous Stoppage

The strike of some 90 workers of the Cumberland Undergarment Company yesterday morning was termed "unauthorized" last night by Mrs. Mary Shoemaker, president of Local 434, International Ladies Garment Workers Union, AFL.

The union official added that this and other strikes "violated the union's contract" and said the action was apparently spontaneous since the local agreed Wednesday afternoon to continue work for two weeks under the present conditions.

Mrs. Shoemaker said the workers met Wednesday at 3:30 p. m. to hear Miss Angela Baumbace, Baltimore, explain the piece rate system in use at the plant. There were no dissenting votes, she added, when the group agreed to continue work from July 18 to August 1.

Advises Postponement

Miss Baumbace stated she would return in two weeks and advised members to postpone action. An engineer who also spoke at the meeting after making a time study of operation here said he would submit a report and explained that rates of pay would be adjusted if the study indicated the need of a change.

According to Mrs. Violet Loar, LaVale, shop steward, starting rates at the plant are now 40 cents an hour with 60 cents the top rate. The workers say they want an increase of 20 cents, Mrs. Loar said.

Mrs. Margaret Chase, another shop chairman, said last night the workers are out and are going to stay out "until we get what we want." She explained the workers on strike are demanding a 20 cents hourly increase and an adjustment of piece time rates.

Applications were made yesterday for picketing permits but none had been issued yesterday afternoon. Miss Baumbace advised Oscar A. Eyerman, chief of police, from Richmond, Va., that the strike was unauthorized.

Will Issue Permits

Eyerman said the permits were not issued since the request was not presented by a union official and on union stationery as is required in the city ordinance. The police chief said the fact that the stoppage is not authorized by the international union will not be a factor and that the permits will be available whenever proper officials apply.

Mrs. Shoemaker said she and about 35 of the 125 employes went to work yesterday but were allowed to go home at noon when operations at the plant ceased. The union official asserted she believed work would be resumed Monday.

Workers on strike termed an advertisement offering the firm's building for sale "a bluff" but added that even if the offer were valid "we'll have to have a showdown sooner or later.

Maurice Milberg, plant manager, could not be contacted yesterday for comment.

Walter Russell Hensel, 23, of 307 Water street, was arraigned in trial magistrates court yesterday by States Attorney Morgan C. Harris, on a charge of manslaughter and released under bond of $1,000 for action of the October grand jury.

Hensel, driver of a Queen City Brewing Company truck, is charged with running over and fatally injuring William Alexander Brown, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Brown, of 318 Cecelia street, Wednesday afternoon near the boy's home.

Hensel, a veteran of World War II, waived hearing when taken before Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., and bond was furnished immediately. He made no comment at the arraignment.

County Gets $15,014 From Income Taxes

Allegany county has received $15,014 from the Maryland Income Tax division as its share of $1,311,601 of 1945 individual income tax revenues up to June 30, the division reported yesterday.

The total amount paid to the county was $25,851, but the county actually received $15,014 after payments to incorporated towns.

Under the present law, the state gives 25 per cent of payments from the counties back to them, less the amounts shared with incorporated towns. Incorporated towns receive one-eighth of the total income tax payments made by their residents to the state.

Baltimore city received $742,857, Baltimore county $153,978 and Howard county $7,334, each 25 per cent of what their residents paid the state.

Totals paid to other counties and amounts the counties actually received after payments to incorporated towns include:

Garrett $1,971 and $1,185; Washington $34,258 and $19,606; and Frederick $15,976 and $10,085.

Japanese Beetle Infestation Is Past Its Peak

McHenry Believes Milky White Disease Is Showing Results

The Japanese beetle infestation this year is past its peak, in the opinion of Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, who said yesterday that while the infestation this year is probably the heaviest on record, there is some indication that control efforts by means of milky white spore disease are having some effect.

In past years the country club has been one of the most heavily infested areas, but there was a noticeable decline there this year in the number of beetles, McHenry pointed out, explaining that the ground at the club has been treated with milky white spore dust in a control move.

The county agent said he believes steps to control the beetle in past years have delayed more serious beetle infestation by perhaps six or seven years, which he termed of economic value. In the meantime, he added, quite a lot has been learned about the beetle.

Strangely enough, McHenry said, a heavy infestation of beetles is necessary before the milky white spore dust can be used with any effect.

He explained that enough dust to treat the greatest part of the ground in the county would be a burdensome expense since the cost of the dust is rather high. On the other hand, if ground is treated where there is no sign of a beetle infestation, chances are that the beetle would never come in contact with the disease.

For immediate relief from Japanese beetles, McHenry suggested spraying anything affected except garden plants with wettable DDT.

Although Japanese beetles have not yet attacked trees to any extent, McHenry said that if that time comes it will be necessary to use power sprays to combat them, since small sprayers ordinarily owned by the home owner or farmer would not be powerful enough to reach them.

Damage Suit Over Auto Crash Aired In Trial Magistrates Court

In a civil damage suit in trial magistrates' court yesterday, a public health nurse testified how she witnessed an automobile accident involving her sister's auto, without realizing it was her sister's car until the accident was over.

Three cars were traveling toward Cresaptown from Cumberland last December, all in a line. In the first car was Theodore L. Grove, of Bowling Green. Second car in line was that of Mrs. Rose Loible, public health nurse. The third car was driven by Mrs. Vada Barncord, of Bowling Green, former president of the Women's Division of the C. T. P. of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and a sister of Mrs. Loible.

According to testimony, Mrs. Barncord pulled around her sister's car and was about to pass Grove's machine when the latter started to turn left off a side road. He gave no hand signal, Mrs. Loible said.

There was a smashup and both machines were damaged but neither driver suffered serious injury.

Originally, Mrs. Barncord filed suit for damages to her car and was awarded $225. Yesterday, the situation was reversed, with Grove suing Mrs. Barncord for damages to his machine.

The court yesterday awarded Grove damages of $.92.57.

In court yesterday, Mrs. Loible gave a full account of her version of the accident and said she did not know her sister was involved until after it was all over.

Grove was represented at the hearing by Harry I. Stegmaier with William H. Geppert representing Mrs. Barncord.

Concerted Action On Price Control Planned By Labor

Legislative Committee Will Discuss Strategy At Meeting Tonight

The legislative committee of the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in Textile hall to form plans for concerted action by Allegany county labor organizations on price and rent control.

The conference named George A. Meyers, Textile workers, and C. E. Stutzman, Teamsters union, to the committee. William B. Coleman, Textile workers; William J. Jones, Boilermakers and G. Edwin Parker, Brotherhoods, are also members of the committee which will lay the strategy for labor's fight against rising prices.

The conference, at its meeting in Allegany Trades Council hall, asked that all labor organizations make a survey of rent increases and evictions and report both to the conference. Reports may be sent to Mrs. G. Edwin Parker, 705 Elm street, phone 4132-W; Textile Workers hall, 34 North Mechanic street, phone 1652; or to Teamsters hall, 125 North Mechanic street, phone 2834.

To Compile Information

Information secured by the labor groups will be compiled for Governor O'Conor as proof of the need for a special session of the legislature on rent control, C. E. Stutzman, president, said.

Stutzman and William Boyd Coleman, who were appointed to Cumberland's fair rent commission, reported they have agreed to serve on the group so that they may do everything possible to control rents here.

The group termed alarming recent rent increases here, citing that 207 notices of rent increases have been filed at the local rent control office and that 279 phone calls of such increases have been received at the same office. There have been at least 581 rent increases or evictions in this city since July 1, it was reported.

Increases of from $5 to $30 were cited, while in one apartment house, the group was told, rents have been increased $2 for each room and one landlord, with property in and outside this city, has increased each unit by $10 and $15.

Committee Named

A joint Labor day celebration for all labor organizations will be held here, Stutzman said, adding that a 14-man committee was appointed to make plans for the all-day affair. The group will report to the next meeting of the conference which will be held August 1, at 7:30 p. m. in Allegany Trades Council hall.

Labor officials said that so far as they know, there have been no previous efforts to bring all groups of organized labor together for such an occasion.

The conference commended OPA personnel here for continuing work in the present crisis and pointed out that attaches have received only one week's pay for the past two weeks of work.

Another Cab Firm May Install Radios

Another local taxicab company has indicated that it is interested in installing a two-way radio system in its cab fleet, following announcement yesterday by Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, that he will grant permission to the Astor Cab Company to erect a 69-foot radio tower on Summit avenue.

Rizer said a written agreement will be drawn up specifying that Astor's permission to use the radio system will be revoked if it interferes with the police radio or radios of individuals. The announcement was made following a conference with Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman.

Julian F. Schonter, manager of Johnny's Cabs, Inc., asked in a letter to the mayor and city council yesterday whether it would be practical to have more than one radio system for cabs operating in the city.

Schonter said his company may make a similar application within a few days if city officials inform him that two systems could be operated. The company operates a fleet of seven Plymouth cabs, and radios would be installed in each if permission is granted.

The manager said he has notified the Federal Communications Commission regarding his plans, but that he has not made formal application pending word from city officials.

At the present time no site for a radio tower has been selected, Schonter added.

Mark Schriver, spokesman for the Astor company, said the firm plans to install two-way radios in 25 new Hudson cabs at a cost of approximately $15,000. The radios would eliminate call boxes and would enable the fleet to move with greater ease.

Schriver said the radio equipment is expected to arrive here in 30 days and that the second shipment of Hudson cabs is expected August 10. The company already has four new Hudson cars.

No reply has been received from the FCC regarding the company's application for a permit to erect the station, Schriver added.

Two More Candidates File Expense Reports

Two more candidates have filed reports of expenses at the office of the clerk of circuit court.

Alexander "Pop" Nicol, National, one of two Democrats in the race for House of Delegates, listed his only expense at $25 for filing fee. His name was not on the June 24 primary ballot because there was no contest among the Democrats for nomination.

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., Westernport, who was one of the six Republicans nominated for the House of Delegates, reported spending $197.67, all for advertising. He said he received no contributions.
